JOBLESS MOBS BATTLE POLICE IN DOLE RIOTS

Serious Fights Develop in Glasgow and Other British Cities.

SCORES ARE INJURED AND MANY ARRESTED

WOMEN PARTICIPATE IN WILDEST DISORDER

Glasgow, Scotland (Friday), Oct. 2 (U.P.).—Police battled unemployed rioters and food store looters in the central streets of Glasgow last night and this morning in the most serious disorders of recent years.

A crowd of 40,000 men and women, shouting "Down with the baby starvers," in protest against the government's 10 per cent dole cut, stormed through the crowded business districts, fought with foot and mounted police, smashed the windows of countless stores and paralyzed most of the city in one of the wildest nights on record.

The outbreak was the climax of a series of protests throughout England and Scotland against the government's drastic economy program devised to meet the present financial crisis. At least a dozen persons, including several policemen, were seriously injured in the street fighting, and scores of others, including women, were hurt.

Looters Renew Hostilities.

After police had dispersed the first violent demonstration, bands of looters renewed hostilities shortly after midnight, clashing with police patrols when they attacked shops to seize food supplies. The fighting was sporadic but extended over a great part of the city, with policee patrols hard-pressed until reinforcements arrived. Police threw up barricades to protect endangered stores and drove the looters out of other shops which were completely wrecked.

At 2 a. m. the situation was much quieter, but police maintained a strict guard in anticipation of further outbreaks.

Many arrests were made. The prisoners included John McGovern, Glasgow Laborite member of Parliament, leader of the original demonstration. McGovern was suspended from the House of Commons last July because he defied the speaker and refused to leave the chamber until forcibly ejected by attendants.

A late police report said 21 persons were known injured in the fighting, which was described by police as "the wildest night since the 1921 riots."

Run Wild in Streets.

The police were credited with efficient work in clearing the park where the fighting started within fifteen minutes, but the fleeing thousands ran wild in the streets. Windows were broken and looted by the rioters; women who could not find refuge in the doorways ran in terror through the by-streets as the mounted police charged into the crowd swinging their

No Change Noted In Edison's Health

West Orange, N. J., Oct. 1 (A.P.).—The condition of Thomas Edison remained unchanged today, but his weakened condition again prevented him from taking his customary automobile ride.

A bulletin issued by Dr. Hubert S. Howe, Mr. Edison's personal physician, reported no improvement to offset the gradual inroads a complication of four diseases have been making recently on his strength.

Although the inventor was up and around the second floor of his home most of the day, sitting in his living room and spending some time at his desk, members of the family said he seemed very apathetic and did not evince his usual interest in his surroundings.

SirThomas Lipton Given Sporting Chance to Live

London, Oct. 1 (A.P.).—Sir Thomas Lipton had what his doctors called "a sporting chance" tonight to survive a chill and severe cold from which, it was revealed, he has been suffering for several days.

"There is an encouraging improvement," one of his doctors said regarding the condition of the yachtsman who has tried so often to win the America's Cup and always lost. Sir Thomas was conscious all day until this evening, when he dozed off. Members of his household appeared relieved tonight at the development.

RECONVENES

SENATOR WILLIAM E. BORAH.

MINORITY HOLDERS MAY RULE GAS FIRM

Owners of 84 Per Cent Face Loss of Control Through Court Action.

By J. B. McDONNELL.

Minority stockholders of the Washington Gas Light Co. may be given temporary control of the management of the system as a result of the ownership inquiry conducted by the Public Utilities Commission in which was disclosed the close control now maintained over the local system by the Central Public Service Corporation, of Chicago, $400,000,000 public utilities holding corporation.

William A. Roberts, assistant corporation counsel who has acted as counsel for the commission, believes he has built up such a showing of ownership-interest in the local gas companies by the Central Public Service Corporation that the commission can not fail to cite the situation to the District Commissioners for action under the La Follette anti-merger law.

This law forbids any outside corporation or company to own or control as much as 20 per cent of the stock of any local utility. Trusts and individuals are not included in the proscribed list, and it is the contention of Central Public Service Corporation officers that the corporation does not own the 84 per cent of the Washington Gas Light Co. stock which was purchased originally and held by the Seaboard Investment Trust, which since has been supplanted by the Washington and Suburban companies.

Ownership now is reposed with the Westfield Trust, another common law trust as was the Seaboard, they contend. All of the beneficial interest of the Westfield Trust is owned by Albert E. Peirce, president of the Central Public Service Corporation, which makes the present ownership legal within the scope of the antimerger law, it is said.

Kingsford-Smith Forced By Illness to Halt Hop

Athens, Greece, Oct. 1 (A.P.).—Brought down by illness, Wing Commander Charles Kingsford-Smith made an emergency landing at Milas, Turkey, 90 miles south of Smyrna, on his attempt to set a new flying record from Australia to England. The landing was made yesterday, although first news of it was received here today.

His airplane was undamaged and the flier said in a message to Athens he hoped to reach here today. He had not arrived late tonight and officials here did not know if he had left Milas.

SENATOR BORAH SEES NOTHING IN LIQUOR TALK

HOOVER'S NAVY CUTS HELD AS TOO MODEST

By EDWARD T. POLLIARD.

Senator William Edgar Borah, Republican Progressive, of Idaho, "reconvened" at the Capitol yesterday, and at a press conference in his office attended by 25 or more reporters voiced his views on prohibition, taxes, naval reduction and other problems of the day.

On one thing, however, he declined to make a statement, and that was presidential politics. Not so long ago, he expressed his gratitude to a group of Virginians who had formed a "Borah-for-President" club, and this gave rise to reports that he might throw his hat in the ring. Those who know him, however, do not expect him to take any such action.

He said that he could not "see anything" to the proposals to legalize 4 per cent beer or to hold a referendum on the prohibition question. The sole question is, he said, whether the people want to leave the eighteenth amendment in the Constitution or to take it out.

In this connection, Borah has always said that he will never vote to submit the repeal question to the people until some satisfactory substitute for prohibition is offered.

He said that it seemed "altogether probable" that Congress will have to deal with the question of taxes at the forthcoming session in order that the Government may be conducted along a "pay as you go" policy.

Tax Action Is Predicted.

He said that President Hoover had been "extremely modest" in his call for a cut in the budget of the United States Navy. In his opinion, Borah said, the President could have asked for much more than a cut of $61,000,000 in the Navy budget. Had he done so, the Idaho senator said, the country would have backed him up.

Senator Borah returned to Washington looking fit as usual, although he had just completed a grueling speech-making tour that took him all over the Northwest.

"It is simply impossible to exaggerate the extent and gravity of conditions in the agricultural West," he said. "In countless sections, they approach the pitiful."

To Lead Moratorium Moves.

With reference to President Hoover's one-year moratorium on debts and reparations, Senator Borah said that the Senate ought to be able to dispose of this in three or four days. The legislation carrying American approval of the moratorium will

HOOVER DRAWS NEW PROPOSAL TO PUSH TRADE

Department Men Called In to Aid Adjustment of Economics.

DETAILS DISCUSSED FOR EARLY ACTIVITY

(Associated Press.)

Seeking new pathways toward better business, President Hoover called to his side yesterday five aids who hold strategic posts in the offensive against topsy-turvy economics.

One by one they sat by his desk, in this order: Undersecretary Mills, of the Treasury; Gov. Meyer, of the Federal Reserve Board; Secretaries Lamont and Stimson, of the Commerce and State Departments, and J. C. Roop, Director of the Budget Bureau.

A variety of domestic problems figured in the conferences. A little later authoritative word was given that the President had something in mind concerning a new effort to better the situation, but at present no one has liberty to disclose what is being planned.

Hoover to Address Latins.

Mr. Hoover decided late in the day to address the Pan-American Commercial Conference meeting here next week. The exact date has not been set. The meeting begins Monday and lasts until October 13.

There was nothing to indicate the gold standard was mentioned at the White House, but it was specified in high quarters elsewhere that Government officials had no sympathy with proposals for bimetallism. Departure from a gold basis by Great Britain and some other European nations was called a temporary recourse.

Nine o'clock had hardly struck when Ogden Mills entered the presidential office. After some 30 minutes he emerged, and smilingly declined to discuss the talk.

The same reticence was observed by subsequent visitors. It was not until late in the day that the consultations ended, with the call of the busy director of the budget.

Budget Relied Upon.

The President is relying heavily on the Budget Bureau in his insistence on keeping Government appropriations down this winter. Col. Roop's office is engaged in going over departmental estimates of funds the departments want for 1933.

The Interior Department already has reduced its budget estimates for 1933 by $8,000,000. Secretary Wilbur would not say yesterday where the cuts are to be made, as it is a rule that budget matters will not be made public until the budget message.

Most of the cuts, however, result from deferring certain building proj-

Laval Preparing U. S. Trip Staff

French Premier to Announce Names of Those Who Will Come.

Paris, Oct. 1 (A.P.).—Premier Pierre Laval, who sails for the United States October 16, announced tonight that he will be ready to publish the names of those who will accompany him in official capacity next week. Ambassador Claudel, who sailed today to resume his post at Washington, assisted the premier in assembling the staff.

Both the premier and Ambassador Edge alluded to the coming visit this afternoon at the dedication of Pershing Hall, European headquarters of the American Legion.

Active cooperation between France and the United States can add immeasurably to reestablishment of confidence in these troubled times, said the premier, and Ambassador Edge said, "our two republics should develop an intimate working understanding based on realities, overriding differences in traditions and temperaments."

Chemical Trade Plans Shorter Day

Six-Hour Shift Will Add Third to Number of Employed.

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover was told yesterday that the chemical industry plans to adopt the six-hour day and thus increase by one-third the number employed.

W. D. Huntington, of Baltimore, chairman of the executive committee of the Manufacturing Chemists Association, after relating the details of the plan to the President, said the Chief Executive heartily approved it.

"Many plants," Huntington said, "have already changed over from the eight-hour to the six-hour shift and others are adopting the plan this week. In the case of one plant, the short shift will permit adding 135 more to the present pay roll of 600."

NATIONAL CITY BANK PLANS HUGE MERGER

Consolidation With America Would Make Institution Second Largest.

New York, Oct. 1 (A.P.).—A plan of consolidation of the Bank of America with the National City Bank—creating an institution closely approaching the Chase National Bank, largest in the world in total resources—was announced by heads of the two institutions today.

It was explained that the plan was in conformity with a program announced last week by the Transamerica Corporation, which holds a 63 per cent interest in Bank of America, under which Transamerica proposed to divest itself of controlling interests in banks.

The Bank of America, which on June 30 reported resources of $338,300,313, has been the second most important unit in the Transamerica Corporation group of companies. Transamerica has operated since formation as a holding company for the properties assembled by A. P. Giannini, of California, and his chief property is the Bank of America National Trust and Savings Bank of California, a $1,000,000,000 institution. Elisha Walker, chairman, said that there was no plan under consideration at this time for disposition of control of that institution.

The Bank of America is only about one-sixth the size of the National City Bank, which on June 30 reported resources of $1,973,140,595, but it has 35 branches in New York City, which will substantially augment National City's system, now comprising 54 branches.

The plan contemplates the exchange of National City stock for Bank of America stock, on the basis of one share of the former for 1-2-3 of the latter, so that Transamerica Corporation will become an important minority stockholder in National City. The adoption of the plan is contingent upon its approval by sufficient minority stockholders to make a total of 85 per cent in favor of it. If by October 17, that percentage has approved, the plan will be submitted to National City stockholders.

When completed, this will be the first large bank merger in New York City since the Chase National Bank

Death Plot Aimed At Turk Premier

Two Seized by Police; One Confesses; Other Kills Himself.

Istanbul, Oct. 1 (A.P.).—Police revealed that Premier Ismet Pasha escaped an attempted assassination on his departure today for Greece.

Suspicious of two men who arrived from Greece by steamer, the police arrested one of them, who gave the name of Agopi, but the other locked himself in a washroom. When the door was broken down it was found the fugitive was half-choked. This attempt at suicide was successful, as the man died several hours later.

Agopi told police that he and his comrade, whose name was Verant, had been commissioned by the Armenian society, Tashnak, to murder the premier in Greece. They feared the Greek police would be too watchful, and so came to Istanbul, the police said.

North Dakotan Predicts Hoover Will Win State

(Associated Press.)

A belief that "with effort for organization the State of North Dakota can be carried for President Hoover" in 1932, was carried to the Chief Executive yesterday by William Stern, of Fargo.

Stern, now treasurer of the Republican State committee in North Dakota, and former chairman, said he told the President also he believed the recent address before the American Legion in Detroit "had done him more good than anything that had happened within the past two years."

RAILROAD OFFICIALS AGREED ON MERGER

Proposal for Four Major Systems to Be Given to Commerce Commission.

New York, Oct. 1 (A.P.).—Executives of leading Eastern railroads today announced their agreement on details of a plan for merging lines in this territory into four major systems.

The proposal will be submitted to the Interstate Commerce Commission whose approval is necessary before it can become effective.

Ending eight years of negotiation, the presidents of Pennsylvania, New York Central, Baltimore & Ohio and Cheapeake & Ohio-Nickel Plate group smoothed out troublesome points which had been standing in the way of a final decision on the plan announced at the White House last December.

What disposition was made of these questions was not revealed in the short formal statement issued after the close of the meeting at Pennsylvania Terminal, and it was said that the settlements reached would not become public until the document was in the commission's hands.

One of the problems had been whether Pennsylvania should have trackage rights over the Nickel Plate along the south shore of Lake Erie, New York Central being the objector to such an arrangement.

Neither was it announced whether the difficulties were solved without the aid of the arbitrators appointed last winter, but it was believed that the executives had to come to their

The total net increase of the assessment on real estate for 1932 over that of 1931 is tentatively set at $1,117,166,654.

FRIEND TO FACE QUIZ IN DEATH OF WRITER

Doctor Sees Natural Cause; Police Sure of Murder in Mystery Case.

Westport, Conn., Oct. 1 (A.P.).—In an effort to clear up some of the strange circumstances in the death of Kenneth Raisbeck, 32-year-old playwright, the Westport police tonight sent one of their number to Cambridge, Mass., to question Henry B. Wibbels, jr., former Yale student and friend of the dead man.

The officers said they had located Wibbels at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Fairbanks, of Cambridge. Earlier in the day they had said Wibbels would answer the description of a youth in whose company Raisbeck was seen Tuesday night, the day before the playwright's body was found in Christ Church Cemetery.

George Green, of Ashland, Mass., a cousin of Raisbeck, who came here to seek a thorough investigation into the death, quoted Wibbels as saying tonight in a telephone conversation that he was in Cambridge Tuesday and Wednesday.

In a recess of Christ Church Cemetery a stray salesman yesterday stumbled upon Raisbeck's body. It lay under a clump of bushes. A trail of small coins from the gateway and freshly uprooted earth bore mute evidence his body either had been dragged to the bushes or else he had crawled there in the agonies of death.

An autopsy indicated death was due to natural causes—acute meningitis, reported Dr. William H. McMahon, medical examiner. He decided to withhold formal decision, however, until efforts have been made at a coroner's inquest to trace Raisbeck's last movements.

Police, reporting bruises had been found on the writer's throat and a bloodstain on his shirt, expressed reluctance to accept a verdict of natural death at this time.

Miss Alice Green, another cousin, said Raisbeck, who was a protege of Oliver H. P. Garrett, scenario writer, had left Cambridge, Mass., Tuesday morning to drive to New York.

James Cusack, of Westport, reported seeing him walking along a road near the cemetery Tuesday evening. He was accompanied by a youth of

DERRINGER IS VICTIM OF ATTACK IN THIRD

9 BATTERS FANNED BY ST. LOUIS ROOKIE

Single by Foxx Drives In Runs to Put Macks Ahead in Third.

Today's game between the Athletics and Cardinals will be reproduced on The Post's magnetic scoreboard, beginning at 2:30 o'clock.

By SHIRLEY L. POVICH
(Sports Editor of The Post).

Sportsman's Park, St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 1.—The first game of the 1931 world series passed into keeping of the Philadelphia Athletics this afternoon by a score of 6 to 2, testimony of the pitching skill of Robert Moses Grove and the high explosives that lurked in the Philadelphia bats.

The American League standard floats proudly over the world series battle ground tonight, signaling the defeat of the St. Louis Cardinals in the inaugural skirmish and the failure of the rookie, Paul Derringer, in his world series baptismal pitching effort. The game followed ample precedent, for not since the Giants defeated Washington in 1924 has the National League's color bearer won an opening game in the world series.

In one sudden opening thrust the Cardinals broke through Grove's pitching armor in the first inning, staking Derringer to a two-run lead and raising high the hopes of the St. Louisians in the throng of 38,529, who transformed the outlines of Sportsman's Park into a border of densely packed humanity, sloping from the grand stands, tier on tier, to the uncovered bleachers in right and center field. But two runs were not enough.

Lead Is Short Lived.

For two innings this two-run lead stood up as Derringer, the ace of the National League's pitchers, gave evidence of his pitching prowess, striking out four of the first six men to face him and disposing of the other two without the semblance of a hit. Then he faltered.

Aided by Derringer's wildness, which saw him walk two batters in succession, forcing in the tying run, the Athletics rose in their might to wipe out the Cardinals' lead with a four-run uprising in this third inning, capped by a line single to center by Jimmy Foxx which drove over Haas and Cochrane to give the minions of Mack a lead which was never relinquished.

The finishing touch to the defeat of the Cardinals was applied by Al Simmons. The game had worn into the seventh inning and the home run feature of the Athletics' attack which has marked so many of their world series triumphs, had not as yet been brought into play. But the stage was set in the seventh. Cochrane was on base when the rookie Derringer, in excusable innocence, pitched one high and outside. The ball never reached the plate, for Simmons' big bat intercepted it with a crash and the National League ball, with the raised stitches and the heavy cover that has brought batting percentages down 20 to 60 points this season sailed on a low trajectory into the lap of a fortunate fan in the left field bleacher while Simmons strode majestically around the bases with all the aplomb of a drum major.

Grove Not Invincible.

Lefty Grove steadied after that rare first inning that saw four hits culled from his delivery. He rose to the heights in the pinches thereafter to keep the ever-threatening Cardinals away from the plate to the end of the game, but Grove today was not invincible.

Hoover Shoals Body Maps Three-Fold Operation Plan

Commission Proposes Manufacture of Fertilizer by Private Interests, Cooperative Scientific Research And Industrial Chemical Activity.

Birmingham, Ala., Oct. 1 (A.P.).—A joint commission appointed on recommendation of President Hoover reported today that it has decided on a three-fold plan for operation of the Government $150,000,000 power project at Muscle Shoals.

The commission, meeting here for a series of conferences, announced the plan, which has in view primarily the manufacture of fertilizer by private interests, would be recommended to President Hoover forthwith.

The commission issued a statement, setting forth the manufacture of fertilizer, cooperative scientific research, and establishment of industrial chemical operations as an essential adjunct to the manufacture of fertilizer had been found "economically feasible and desirable," and would be the main features embodied in its proposal to the President.

In connection with the manufacture of fertilizer, the statement said the commission had found the properties could be used and operated for "quantity production and manufacture of types of commercial fertilizer of greater concentration than those which are now sold the farmer."

The cooperative scientific research and experimental practices by agricultural agencies, national, State and county, it was explained would be desirable "for the development of scientific methods of improvement of soil fertility and for introduction of methods so developed among fertilizer users."

"It is the definite conclusion of the commission," the statement added, "that the foregoing public benefits can best be obtained by private operation under lease contracts through cooperative negotiations."

The commission's plan, which it explained is tentative and subject to change, provides the leasing of the properties to a lessee who will pay a "reasonable rental on mutually agreeable terms," for a period of 50 years, with the Boulder Dam clause on renegotiation after 10 years as to the price, to be included.

"Preference as a lessee should be accorded to a corporation, exclusively owned and controlled by an organization of farmers * * *," the statement said, "provided such organization is prepared financially and otherwise to carry out the purposes of legislation equally and effectively or better than privately owned corporations."

In behalf of development of the Tennessee Valley, it was said there should be authority to sell surplus power at the switchboard, first to manufacturers of commercial and industrial chemical products, and second, to others—States, counties and municipalities having preference.

Youth of 16 Admits Slaying Girl Found Hanging, Nude

Los Angeles, Oct. 1 (A.P.).—A 16-year-old conscience-stricken burglar suspect paced a county jail cell tonight while the sheriff's homicide squad checked details of his alleged confession to the murder of Louise Teuber, 19, 5 and 10 cent store clerk, in San Diego last April 19.

The youth, Lowell M. Bell, arrested three days ago as a suspect in a Hollywood robbery, confessed he strangled Miss Teuber with his coat, Capt. W. J. Bright, head of the homicide squad, announced, but failed to remember whether he had removed her clothing. Miss Teuber's nude body was found suspended from a tree. A rope was around her neck.

Since the body was discovered by picnickers at the foot of Black Mountain, near San Diego, California's best criminal investigators have attempted to solve the mystery. While more than a score of the young woman's associates were questioned by authorities, no arrests were made. An unceasing search has been under way.

Bell, whom San Diego naval patrol authorities said is a deserter from the Navy, was quoted by Bright as saying preying eyes followed him and caused him to summon authorities and confess the crime. The previous two days, Bright said, Bell defiantly refused to talk of the murder case, although another jail prisoner, Jack Williams, told deputies Bell boasted of knowing something about the crime.

Bright said they checked on Bell's mail and found he was friendly with Miss Lillian Pfefer, Long Beach. She was questioned, Bright said, and told

CHINESE BOYCOTT OF JAPAN SPREADS

Merchants in NorthernAreas Ban Enemy Wares After Occupation.

Peiping, China, Oct. 1 (U.P.).—A boycott of Japanese goods, started in Nanking and Shanghai during the summer, has been extended on a large scale to North China, as a result of Japanese occupation of Manchuria.

Weeks after the boycott was enforced in the south there was no hint of such a movement in the north. Even Chinese newspapers did not mention it. Observers believed Manchurian officials opposed the boycott.

But now an effective boycott organization has been formed in Tientsin and Peiping, with Chinese business men in charge. The chief distinction between this and previous boycotts is that merchants and not politicians appear to be dominant.

In Tientsin seventeen of the merchant guilds, powerful groups, have affiliated with the Chinese Chamber of Commerce in the movement. A committee has formed to direct the boycott, and 40 inspectors have been appointed to investigate all existing stocks of Japanese goods and check with reports previously made by individual merchants to their guilds.

The guilds have agreed not to buy additional stocks of Japanese goods, on condition that they will be permitted to sell what they had bought from Japan before the boycott was enforced. Inspectors have the task of making certain that Chinese merchants buy nothing further from Japan.

In addition to the 40 inspectors, the guilds' committee has appointed 87 full-time employes to patrol the main streets of the Chinese city to see that no Japanese goods are transported.

Students Here Are Told Of Gravity of Situation

More than 100 Chinese and American students were impressed with the gravity of the situation in Manchuria by speakers at a meeting of the Chinese Students Club of Washington at George Washington University last night.

The speakers were Prof. W. C. Johnstone, jr., professor of political science at George Washington University, and Dr. Y. C. Mei, director of the Chinese Educational Mission. They were introduced by Miss Y. C. Wong, president of the Chinese Students Club.

It was the opinion of both speakers that if Japan and China fail to straighten out their difficulties in the present crisis, there will be a danger of a world-wide disturbance, bringing in the United States, Great Britain, and Russia because of the interests of these countries in Manchuria.

That the United States is aware of the gravity of the situation is evidenced by the haste with which W. Cameron Forbes, American Ambassador to Japan, traveled from Union Station to see Secretary of State Stimson yesterday afternoon, in the opinion of Prof. Johnstone.

Dr. Mei said that it would be foolish for Japan to go to war with China, but added the opinion that there is an impulsive element in the country that might impel warfare. He also declared that there is a strong communistic faction in China that might be able to enlist aid from Russia.

Synod Missionary Society Adjourns

Members of the Women's Missionary Society of the Synod of Potomac, Reformed Church in the United States, ended a three day convention yesterday at the First Reformed Church, Thirteenth and Monroe streets northwest.

The new administration of the synod, headed by Mrs. John L. Barnhart, of Baltimore, president, was installed in the afternoon.

Judge Katherine Sellers, of the Juvenile Court of the District of Columbia, spoke to the delegates early in the afternoon.

A report on the "Cause and Cure of War," by Mrs. J. M. Runkle, and a report of the Home Missions Congress by Mrs. Lee A. Peeler completed the convention's business meetings.

Street Car Lines Plan Sales Drive

Association Votes Advertising Program to Gain Revenue Lost to Autos.

Atlantic City, N. J., Oct. 1 (A.P.).—A sales campaign designed to regain business lost to private motor cars is to be waged by the electric rail car and bus interests of the country.

Plans were outlined today at the closing session of the American Electric Railway Association, representing 80 per cent of all urban rail and bus lines of the United States and Canada. F. J. McIlrath, of Chicago, reported for a committee of traffic experts that the peak in annual motor car sales probably had been passed.

An advertising campaign accompanying the national selling drive will utilize newspapers, car posters and leaflets. About $10,000,000 annually has been spent heretofore by all individual companies through local sources. The association recommended that advertising be localized as much as possible.

WILSON OFF TO FIND CANNON CASE DATA

While United States Attorney Rover worked late preparing a list of witnesses for the approaching grand jury inquiry, his assistant, John J. Wilson, left Washington yesterday on a tour of investigation into charges that Bishop James Cannon, jr., violated the Federal corrupt practices law in the last presidential campaign.

Mr. Wilson, who, with Assistant United States Attorney James Kirkland, will direct presentation of the case to the jurors, will seek information from a number of sources allegedly familiar with Bishop Cannon's transactions.

He has been directed to bring back with him under formal subpena, account slips, checks and documents.

Begins Soon After October 6.

It was considered likely he will visit both New York City and Richmond in his tour, because much of Bishop Cannon's activity centered in those cities. Mr. Wilson will return to Washington in time for the investigation, which will begin shortly after the grand jury is sworn in October 6.

The witness list, now being drafted by United States Attorney Rover, will include bankers and a number of officials of the Methodist Episcopal Church South. Col. Wade H. Cooper, president of the Commercial National Bank of this city, already has been subpened to appear, and supply statements of the accounts of Bishop Cannon from August to October, 1928.

He will submit to the grand jury all signature slips, deposit slips, checks, drafts, documents and other papers bearing on the clergyman's dealings with his bank. Bishop Cannon's correspondence with the bank since July 1, 1928, was also requested.

Others Summoned.

Others who have been summoned include William Tyler Page, clerk of the House of Representatives; Edwin Pope Thayer, secretary of the Senate; and Lee P. Oliver, a Department of Justice operative.

Mr. Page will be asked to present five reports filed with him by Miss Ada L. Burroughs, former treasurer of the Virginia Anti-Smith Committee.

Mr. Thayer was told to bring a report filed by Miss Burroughs on October 27, 1928, and all correspondence he may have had with her concerning the anti-Smith Democrats.

Mr. Rover made known that neither Bishop Cannon nor Miss Burroughs personally will be asked to appear.

Has Never Objected.

Roanoke, Va., Oct. 1 (A.P.).—"I have never objected to a grand jury investigation," Bishop James Cannon, jr., attending the session of the Baltimore annual conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, asserted here when approached concerning his reaction toward the movement to lay the evidence obtained by the Senate funds committee before a grand jury.

"Whenever they want to investigate by a grand jury this is the proper legal procedure, but the other investigation by a Senate committee with no judge to determine whether the testimony is relevant or irrelevant, nor the right to cross-examine, nor to put witnesses on the stand is purely an ex parte investigation, which is a flagrant attack on the rights of an American citizen."

"Invited!" Bishop Cannon exclaimed in reading the paragraph in the Washington dispatch. "I have never been subpenaed by Chairman Nye. That is another matter." He drew the distinction between an "invitation" of the chairman of the Senate committee and a subpena. The latter was the method by which he could be secured seemed to be the implication.

The temperance crusader, in reply to the statement that the committee would make further inquiry into expenditures by Huston in the 1928 campaign, made one terse statement:

"That is for Mr. Huston to explain."

False Alarm Mobilizes Police.

Policemen in reserve wagons, patrol wagons, radio cars and a headquarters car yesterday went to the American Security & Trust Co. building at Fifteenth streets and New York avenue after a burglar alarm had been sounded. They found that the alarm had been turned in accidentally when a workman, engaged in remodeling the building, stepped on a switch.

Moore will testify as complaining witness, and five will testify for the defense, F. J. Icenhower, Mrs. L. L. Kelley, Warren Nigh, Harold Ellsworth and George Meyers.

REVOLUTION THREAT IS SEEN BY BUTLER

Urges Immediate Action to Provide Employment and Equalize Wealth.

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 1 (U.P.).—The threat of revolution hangs over this country unless something is done right away to provide employment, relieve poverty, and to equalize wealth, Maj. Gen. Smedley D. Butler said today in his first interview since his retirement from the United States Marine Corps.

Butler, who is believed ready to enter politics, with his eyes on a United States senatorship, revealed details of a plan "on which I have been pondering for more than a year, and which I heard outlined by a group of multimillionaires in a secret conference recently." Fourteen of these men represented wealth of $5,000,000,000, Butler said."

The men had a plan that called for a virtual dictatorship, he said. They were ready to give up 50 per cent of their incomes if the plan would be adopted. The money they would give would have to be administered by "an extra-governmental agency headed by a man without capitalistic or partisan ties, and one in whom the people had complete confidence."

"These men," he said, "seek to accomplish by legislative means what mobs may seek to achieve by force in the not distant future."

His ideas, Gen. Butler said, "are not out of my own head. I have talked with men all over the country who certainly know what they are talking about."

Flood Deaths 25,000 In One Region in China

Shanghai (Friday), Oct. 2 (A.P.).—The National Flood Relief Commission at Shanghai was advised today that 25,000 persons have perished in floods covering 5,000 square miles of territory in the Yentsing district of Northern Yunnan Province.

The casualties were set by B. L. Pond, resident engineer of the Chinese International Famine Relief Commission at Yunnanfu, who telegraphed the flood relief commission that a continual rain was responsible for the catastrophe.

FRANCE BANKS GOLD AS FOOD COSTS RISE

Hoard in Paris Sets Record at $2,370,000,000 in Nation's Reserves.

Paris, Oct. 1 (U.P.).—The trend of European finances in the last few weeks was reflected today in the weekly statement of the Bank of France, showing an all-time record for gold reserves and emphasizing a sharp increase in living costs.

The gold statement showed reserves of 59,346,170,306 francs (about $2,370,000,000), the highest on record, and an increase of 771,000,000 francs (about $30,840,000) over last week.

Hoard Attracts Attention.

Suspension of the gold standard by Britain and the Scandinavian countries, as well as increase of bank rates by other nations, such as Finland, which boosted its rate to 7½ per cent today, have centered greater attention than ever to the French financial position and the great gold hoard piled up in the vaults of the Bank of France.

It was significant that the weekly statement showed a reduction in the bank's holdings abroad by 2,252,000,000 francs (about $880,482,000).

At the same time it was pointed out that France, as well as most of the other European nations, have taken drastic steps to prevent speculation or short selling. The London exchange practically eliminated such practice by demanding cash transactions, and Germany, France and Italy took precautionary measures.

Living Costs Mount.

The increase in cost of living in France has been steady during the period of accumulation of gold. The average index for this year was vastly greater than the highest living costs of any other year since the World War. Using costs of 1914 as a base of 100, the government statistics fixed the retail index of 13 necessary family products at 615, compared to 595 in August. The index for living costs of the working class family of four increased to 597.

Despite the glut of wheat, sugar, coffee and tea in world markets, and the "dumping" of live stock in France, the retail costs of food articles have jumped upward.

Many Parliament members have announced plans for an official inquiry into the profits of middlemen, pointing out that the wholesale index for August was 455, or 11 points less than for July, but that the retail index increased in the last month.

Treasury Sending Medals In Yellow Fever Conquest

Belated Honor Being Paid Survivors and Kin of Maj. Walter Reed and Party for Overcoming Dread Disease 31 Years Ago.

(United Press.)

Twenty-two bright gold medals will be bestowed by a belatedly grateful Government this week in tribute to the valor of Maj. Walter Reed and the volunteers who helped him conquer the peril of yellow fever.

Thirty-one years ago when the fever was sweeping Havana and killing 85 per cent of those who became infected, Maj. Reed and his 21 volunteers risked their lives to test a theory. The theory was that yellow fever is spread by mosquitoes.

The 22 men proved it correct. Some of them permitted themselves to be infected with the deadly fever; all of them were in danger of contamination. Yellow fever was traced to the brilliant female stegomia mosquito. After that it was only a matter of eradicating the mosquitoes.

The Treasury Department yesterday sent out the medals to those of the 22 who survive and to the kin of those who have died. The medals were struck by order of Congress two years ago. At the same time pensions of $1,250 were provided.

The medals bear on their face two upright figures: A woman, carrying the caduceus, symbol of medicine, proudly embraces a stalwart young man bearing a shield and spear. At his feet lies a loathsome serpent, dead. Around the face are the words, "Conquest of Yellow Fever."

On the reverse is the name of the recipient of the award "in recognition of the high public service of Maj. Walter Reed and his associates who gave to man control of yellow fever."

The list, of course, is led by the names of Reed and his closest associates, Drs. James Carroll, Jesse Lazear and Aristedes Agramonte. Maj. Reed died of appendicitis just as he was gaining recognition. Dr. Lazear died of the yellow fever he helped conquer. Dr. Agramonte now lives in Havana.

The others in the valiant band were John R. Kissinger, John J. Moran, William H. Dean, Clyde L. West, Charles G. Sonntag, James H. Andrus, John R. Bullard, A. W. Covington, Levi E. Folk, Paul Haman, William Olsen, Wallace W. Forbes, James L. Hanberry, Warren G. Jernegan, Thomas M. England, James Hildebrand and Edward Weatherwalks. As further tribute their names will be listed annually in the roll of honor in the Army Register.

There is no medal to hand one name, or even a place on the Army roll. It is that of Dr. Carlos Findlay, of Havana. It was Dr. Findlay who first advanced the notion that mosquitoes spread yellow fever. He was considered an eccentric fellow.

GLASS GROUP PLANS SHORT SALES PROBE

Western Senators to Renew Their Fight Affecting Farm Commodities.

(United Press.)

An attack on short-selling of stocks by Senator James E. Watson (Republican), Indiana, interpreted by many as an administration pronouncement, yesterday brought assurances from Western Senators that they will redouble their attempts to prohibit short sales of farm commodities as well as securities.

Watson's threat of an investigation of the Wall street bears was echoed by some, and it was pointed out that at least one phase of short-selling probably will be investigated by the Glass subcommittee on banking and currency, in November before Congress meets.

Senator Carter Glass (Democrat), Virginia, said in Lynchburg, Va., yesterday that his subcommittee would investigate "that phase of the subject which deals with the use of Federal Reserve funds in stock exchange transactions."

Glass would not discuss this subject further, but it is known that he plans to delve deeply into the subject.

Would Curb Speculation.

The Senate authorized his committee to investigate last spring after Glass introduced a bill to limit short-selling by taxing all resales of securities made within 60 days of their purchase. Glass has said this would curb speculation, and it is known that he refrained from pressing this only when the investigation into banking methods of curbing sales was approved.

Meanwhile Western senators spoke heartily in favor of prohibiting all short sales of both commodities and securities. Senator Smith W. Brookhart (Republican), Iowa, announced he would reintroduce and press his bill to deny the use of the mails and interstate commerce, including the telephone and telegraph, to such transactions in securities.

Senator Lynn J. Frazier (Republican), North Dakota, said he favored Brookhart's bill, and also the proposal by Senator T. H. Caraway (Democrat), Arkansas, to prohibit such transactions in cotton, wheat and other commodities. Both are necessary, in Frazier's opinion, to stop speculation. "It's a crime to allow the people to be swindled as they are today," he commented.

Died in Committee.

These legislative proposals died in committee at the last session, but the events of this summer, coupled with President Hoover's open denunciation of speculative short selling, are counted on to promote their chances of passage in the long session which starts in just eight weeks.

President Hoover defended legitimate "hedging" in commodities—buying and selling futures to counteract each other and prevent a loss on future deliveries—but he was forthright in criticism of commodity speculation. The action of the stock exchange in virtually prohibiting short sales last week after the British gold suspension also has helped to stir up the question anew.

Watson's statement, however, did not advocate any outright prohibition, but suggested that the stock exchange leaders put their own house in order. This is regarded as a development of the President's own opinion that business ought to regulate itself. But Watson coupled the idea with the distinct warning that Congress may take drastic action, investigating and perhaps legislating too, if business does not.

Chicago Council Acts.

Chicago, Oct. 1 (A.P.).—The city council unanimously adopted today a resolution denouncing short selling on stock exchanges and urging the governor's revenue commission to investigate and curb the practice.

Another resolution petitioning President Hoover to call a special congressional session to modify the Volstead act received only two dissenting votes. Alderman James C. Moreland, introducing the proposition, averred modification would relieve unemployment and aid farmers in disposing of grain.

Short selling of securities for profit was condemned today by the Midwest Manufacturers Association in a resolution directed to President Hoover, Secretary of the Treasury Andrew Mellon and governors of the Chicago and New York Stock Exchanges.

HOOVER TO ADDRESS LATIN CONFERENCE

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover's decision yesterday to address the fourth Pan-American Commercial Conference here next week gave the meeting impetus as early delegates began to arrive.

Pan-American Union officials were frankly delighted with the President's announcement and pointed out that four of the Nation's highest officials now have offered their contributions to the success of the conference.

Secretaries Stimson and Mellon are entertaining the delegates, while Secretary Lamont is to speak. Secretary Stimson will greet the delegates at the opening Monday.

Silver Discussion Likely.

It was clear to conference observers yesterday that the tariff question is uppermost in the minds of the delegates. The silver question, the much discussed proposal of an inter-American mortgage bank, customs union and currency stabilization plans appear certain of consideration, if not in all the plenary sessions, at least in the smaller discussions between delegates.

But customs duties will come up and many observers and some delegates feel the conference will be called upon to pass some definite resolution before adjournment.

Reports here were that the Mexican delegates and the Cubans have indicated their intention to concentrate on the tariff problem next week. The Salvadorean delegates have already arrived and indicated the tariff as the principal objective of their attentions in the conference.

Tariff Held Important.

Dr. Rafael Belaunde, representing the Chambers of Commerce of Lima, Arequipa and Callao, said he considered the tariff the most important question before the conference. He is a professor at the University of Miami, Miami, Fla.

He was asked by Provisional President Samanez Ocampo of Peru to serve that government as legal adviser, he said yesterday, but declined so he could assist with formation of the national concentration movement.

The concentration program, he said, had resulted in agreeing upon a common candidate, Dr. La Jara y Ureta, Peruvian Minister to Brazil, for the coming presidential elections.

Altogether, Pan-American Union officials expect 600 delegates, about 130 of whom will represent Latin American countries or organizations, and about 80 of whom will come directly from the countries which they represent.

Bolivian Salary Cuts Reduced.

La Paz, Bolivia, Oct. 1 (U.P.).—The council of ministers decided today to reduce salaries of government employes by 10 per cent only, instead of 20 per cent, as originally planned. Municipal authorities, it was announced, are taking drastic measures to prevent increase in the cost of living.

Cab Driver Captures Man After Accident

An irate taxi driver pursued an automobile last night at Fourth street and Massachusetts avenue northwest and captured the driver, who was charged with leaving the scene of an accident without making his identity known. The prisoner was Lawrence A. Mizer, 32, 921 Pennsylvania avenue southeast, and his captor was Samuel A. Smith, colored, 52 Patterson street northwest.

Smith charged that Mizer fled after the crash, which resulted in little damage, and leaped out and ran when overhauled at New Jersey avenue and K street northwest. The cabmen held the motorist until he was taken in custody by Policeman W. W. Vaughn.

$80,000 Sought For Two Kisses

Damages of $80,000 were asked of William W. Burdette, retired merchant, living at the Ambassador Hotel, by Mrs Mary G. Ridgeway, 24 years old, of 421 Farragut street northwest, in a bill filed in the District Supreme Court yesterday.

Mrs. Ridgeway charged, through Attorney George D. Horning, jr., that on four occasions Mr. Burdette either attempted to kiss her or did kiss her in her home. She asked for compensatory damages of $10,000 and punitive damages of the same amount for each of the alleged assaults.

According to the bill of complaint the visits of Mr. Burdette to the Farragut street home occurred on May 30, when he put his arms around Mrs. Ridgeway and attempted to kiss her; June 12, when, she alleges, he succeeded in kissing her; September 8, when he attempted to kiss her, and September 27, when he succeeded in embracing and kissing her.

Red Matches Banned, Now Our Army Is Safe

By JOHN J. DALY

FOR some years the American Army, unwittingly, was in danger of being blown to smithereens. Officers and men were using Soviet safety matches—as if there could be such a thing as a safety match made in Russia.

Patriotic societies with an interest in their land, and some other patriots with an interest in the match-making business, learned of this dangerous situation. Congress took the necessary steps, and from now on American doughboys who want to light up their fags will use matches made in America.

Friction matches, ever since they were invented by the Englishman, John Walker, a druggist of Stockton-on-Tees, away back in 1827, and later improved upon by Schotter, the Austrian chemist, who made the first safety match, have been dangerous weapons.

Sometimes called Lucifers, matches have done as much harm as good in the world, for not only have they kept the home fires burning, but they have also burned homes to the ground.

WHEN they were first known as Prometheans—after the god who stole fire from heaven to comfort mankind—tapers wrought a great deal of havoc in the world. In honor of the vestal virgins, tapers took on the name of vestas and became quite productive in the destruction of earthly goods.

Then came the safety match and, later, the Army contract with Russia—an order entered by the War Department when American firms were underbid 33 1-3 per cent. As it develops, Russia, to work her designs, could easily afford to give safety matches to this man's army, for these matches might have blown the entire United States off the map.

It is reasonable to suppose that the world could not be kept safe for democracy if the men sworn to uphold and safeguard the safety of democracy continued to use so-called safety matches made in Russia—matches distinguished by the red flame of revolution. They are symbolic of hell-fire and brimstone.

From the days of the Congreves, predecessors of the Lucifer matches—splints dipped in sulphur and then tipped with chloride of potash paste—to the ingenious little lighters of today is a long, long step down the corridor of time. Stalin, the man of destiny in Russia, has encouraged the study of chemistry. So there is no telling what the Russians have developed in the way of a dangerous safety match.

• • • •

BEHIND this sale and distribution of red Russian matches to an unsuspecting American Army there may have been a deep-dyed plot.

One fine day an old-time drill sergeant, weary after his morning on the parade grounds with the rookies, would have retired to the sanctity of the bunkhouse to light up a pipe. There and then the tragedy would have occurred. One stroke of a devilish Russian safety match and the entire American Army might have been blown into eternity. In the language of the barber shop, the boys had a close shave.

Anything could have happened. The company cook, getting ready for the evening meal—a slight repast of slum—might have paused for a smoke, lighting a Russian red match. The biscuits could have been blown out of the oven, leaden-like pellets flying hither and yon, killing, perhaps, a couple of major generals.

No cantonment, no encampment, no American fort or fortress—for the enemy does not respect even the female of the species—was safe from the dangerous Soviet safety matches.

What a relief that the menace has passed!

MINORITY STOCKHOLDERS MAY RULE GAS COMPANY

tral Public Service Corporation funds which have been used in the deals revolving about acquisition of control of the local gas system and the admitted close supervision of management of the system by corporation officers.

Should the Utilities Commission concur, as it is expected it shall, in this view the procedure will be to refer the matter to the District Commissioners for further action. The District Commissioners, in turn, are expected to initiate court proceedings to have the present owners divested of their local holdings.

Pending settlement of this effort, the court would be asked to prevent the alleged illegal ownership using its stock to run the company. Should this request be granted it would mean that the 84 per cent of the Washington stock would be removed from the management, thus putting the minority stockholders in the saddle, the most important of whom, from a stock control standpoint, probably is Corcoran Thom, president of the American Security & Trust Co. Mr. Thom has been a director of the gas company, but tendered his resignation which has not been acted upon, and his name was presented by representatives of the Chicago interests as one of the directors of the company when they submitted a list of officers during the gas hearings before the Utilities Commission.

Commission officials yesterday visited the Georgetown plant of the gas company to witness a gas pressure demonstration. The commission is expected to approve a higher pressure than has been authorized in the past. Heretofore the limit has been 6 inches. The company has asked a 10-inch maximum. It is thought likely that the commission may split the difference and authorize an 8-inch maximum with a 3-inch minimum. The present minimum is only 2 inches. Gas company officers and experts testified that the danger of poor service to customers lay in too low than too high pressures.

One feature of the order looked for next week is expected to deal with the life of gas meters. The hearing developed that natural gas tended to dry out meters more quickly than artificial; hence, the requirement that meters be changed every five years may be changed to three or four years.

George A. G. Wood, president of the Washington Gas Light Co., and Walter M. Russell, chief engineer, were hosts to the commission. The demonstration attempted to show that high pressure does not cause a waste in gas consumption.

E. A. Potter, chief gas inspector for the utilities body, also was present, as were William McK. Clayton and Edwin S. Hege, of the Federation of Citizens Associations.

D. A. R. Workers Lay Winter Plans

The library and national defense committee of the District of Columbia Daughters of the American Revolution met last night at the Hay-Adams House and formulated winter plans.

Dr. Jean Stephenson, chairman of the library committee, told of plans for a consolidated index of publications on American history and geneology of the last 30 years based on the bibliography of American historical writings recently compiled by Miss Grace Griffin and published by the American Historical Association.

At the national defense committee meeting it was decided to inaugurate a series of classroom lectures to acquaint members with necessity for adequate defense, emphasizing the menace of communism and impractical aspects of ultra-pacifism. Miss Helen Harman, District regent; Mrs. Philip J. Rombeau, and Mrs. Noble Newport Potts, vice chairman, addressed the committee. Mrs. Tonnis Holzberg presided.

LABOR TO CONTINUE ITS FIGHT FOR BEER

Green Says Effort Will Be Made to Secure Action by Congress.

Seattle, Wash., Oct. 1 (A.P.).—Definite steps to obtain the return of beer through Congressional action will be taken by organized labor, William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, said here today.

The labor chief, on his way to Vancouver, B. C., for the annual convention of the federation next week, said the organization will "emphatically reaffirm" its stand for modification of the Volstead act to permit the sale of beer containing 2.75 per cent alcohol.

Repeal of the eighteenth amendment, however, is not urged by the federation, he stated.

The federation will go on record, Green said, against wage cuts and for allocation of idle workers to public and private jobs as "temporary relief in an acute situation."

Expressing opinion there had been a decided change in public opinion on the prohibition question, Green disclosed that the federation is "planning to call upon its friends in Congress to support legislation to bring about modification."

"The federation is firmly convinced modification of the Volstead act will serve to promote true temperance," he added. "Modification is necessary to help economic conditions throughout the Nation by stimulating production enterprises in many lines—reconstruction of breweries, greater demand for farm products and by stimulating transportation."

Turning to wage reductions, Mr. Green said, "They add to the seriousness of an already serious situation."

Mr. Green said he did not believe communism was a menace in the United States at present. "The American Federation of Labor is a bulwark against communism, and as long as the federation functions there need be no fear."

YOUTH, 16, CONFESSES TO SHOP GIRL'S DEATH

authorities Bell talked freely of knowing the Teuber girl. They learned Bell had been arrested in San Diego last December on a grand theft charge.

"Those eyes," Bright said Bell screamed. "Everybody's looking at me and they seem to say 'There goes that murderer.'"

Bell told authorities of meeting Miss Teuber on a San Diego street and pulling up to the curb in an automobile he is alleged to have stolen. She entered the car, Bright said Bell told him, but left him a few hours later to meet him again at 8 o'clock that night.

"I was filled with alky, straight alky," Bright quoted Bell as saying, "and I don't remember much. I tried to make love to her but she wouldn't stand for that. We argued. I took off my coat and pulled it tight around her neck. I don't remember anything after that. I don't remember taking off her clothing nor anything about the rope found around her neck."

Authorities said Bell, a native of Idaho, had been living with friends in an auto camp at San Diego.

Capt. Bright said he believed Bell's confession, but would investigate any discrepancy.

(Associated Press.)

The latest proposal for 1932 among the Western political insurgents is to put into the field a set of independent candidates for elector, pledged to no presidential nominee, with a view to throwing the choice of a President into the House of Representatives.

The plan, if adopted, would take the place of a more definitely organized third party movement, and appeal would be made to insurgents in both Republican and Democratic ranks. The hope would be to accomplish a deadlock in the electoral college, whereupon the choice would automatically be thrown into the House of Representatives.

Reports reaching Washington are somewhat vague, but the movement is understood at the Capital as contemplating action in probably 25 States, including the central and far West.

In order to permit voters to mark for independent presidential electors, it is believed it would be necessary in many States to obtain legislation.

In the Northwest States, where the movement is reported to have started, members of Congress have been in frequent opposition to the policies of President Hoover.

Senator Borah, of Idaho, one of the leaders of the Republican Independents, returned to the Capitol yesterday but declined to discuss the political situation in the West.

He did make it clear to visitors, however, that he felt the Republican party should adopt a program along the lines he outlined in a speech this week at Sioux City, Iowa, including consideration of the monetary question and military expenditure reduction.

Should the election of a President be thrown into the House, the new assembly which is almost evenly divided between Republicans and the Democrats would make the choice of the President.

Decision Is Reserved In "Wine Brick" Case

New York, Oct. 1 (A.P.).—Decision was reserved today by United States Commissioner Frank A. O'Neill on the motion of counsel for Vinosano, Inc., to set aside the search warrant under which Federal agents raided the company's Fifth avenue "wine brick" shop August 3.

COURT THROWS OUT SUIT AGAINST KAHN

"Swedish Nightingale" Is Criticized by Judge for Bringing Action.

New York, Oct. 1 (A.P.).—Mme. Lydia Lindgren's $500,000 suit against Otto H. Kahn, millionaire "guardian angel of New York opera," was dismissed today on the ground the Swedish nightingale had not established that Mr. Kahn had ruined her career.

"This type of action is not favored by the courts," said Supreme Court Justice Ducham, in granting a motion for dismissal made by the defense attorney before he had called a single witness.

"I hold that the so-called slander action is based on a fraudulent claim," the court ruled. "Evidence of plaintiffs in actions of this character should be examined with scrupulous care and if the court is convinced a prima facie case has not been made out, it is the duty of the court to so decide unhesitatingly."

Kahn on Stand Briefly.

Mr. Kahn, who was called to the witness stand yesterday by Mme. Lindgren's attorney, and asked merely to identify himself, was not in court when the dismissal came.

The blond prima donna, who had testified yesterday amid much weeping and gesturing, showed little emotion when she learned she had lost her case.

Her claim was that Mr. Kahn had established a $150,000 trust fund for her in 1926 and had given her $13,000 when she dropped a libel suit against Mme. Julia Claussen, another Swedish singer, but that he had failed to keep alleged promises to provide her with a $3,000 annuity for the rest of her life, to replenish the trust fund with $135,000 more, and to "remember her in his will."

Blame "Ill Advice."

The depleting of the $150,000 trust fund she blamed onto "ill advice" she said she received from Mr. Kahn about a European concert tour.

George W. Whiteside, attorney for Mr. Kahn, in making his motion for dismissal, denounced the defense counsel for bringing the millionaire philanthropist into court yesterday and then asking him only three or four questions.

"Mr. Kahn could better have been occupied in Wall street than in court," he said.

He termed the suit a "nuisance case, with no legal standing," and said that among the motives for bringing it was "Mme. Lindgren's desire for the limelight."

He praised Mr. Kahn for "not being cowed, but having the courage to go through with the matter in court."

DECISION ON RATES IS EXPECTED SOON

I. C. C. Speeds Consideration of Railroads' Pleas for Increases.

(Associated Press.)

A divided Interstate Commerce Commission today stepped quickly from hearing to conference room to deliberate the railroads' plea for higher freight rates. The carriers are asking a general 15 per cent increase.

Hardly had official stenographers transcribed all the testimony given at the protracted hearings just concluded when Chairman Brainerd summoned the commission into special conference.

Every commissioner responded, and throughout the day their divergent views on the decision to be made held them engrossed behind closed doors. Tomorrow they will meet again, with other conferences to be held as necessary.

The speed with which the commission took up executive consideration of the case led to the belief that a decision might be had not later than October 17.

That there is a difference of opinion among the commissioners as to what should be done developed during the latter days of the arguments.

Commissioner Farrell, during closing arguments for the railroads, said he had read daily abstracts of the testimony, and nowhere had he been able to find the railroads had refuted statements of shippers that an increase would drive freight to trucks and water lines. Other commissioners asked questions and made statements which led to the conclusion that they were in doubt as to what should be done.

Several decisions are possible. Besides a flat refusal or full granting of the demand, the commission may grant part of the increase asked; it may grant increases on some classes of freight and not on others, and it may act subject to congressional approval.

HOOVER WILL HOLD TO GOLD STANDARD

(Associated Press.)

The Hoover administration sees no reason for tampering with this country's gold standard or the return to bimetalism. An official circles, where this position was made clear yesterday, such agitation as is going forward for a return to bimetalism was described as coming chiefly from senators representing silver-producing States.

Gold was characterized as the most satisfactory base for the country's monetary system, and the temporary abandonment of the gold base by Great Britain and several other European countries was regarded as not reflecting a permanent policy.

The United States, with its coffers containing more gold than any other country in the world, was described as having no reason to abandon the gold standard.

Predictions From Capitol.

From Capitol Hill in recent days there have come predictions that bimetallism would return as a public issue. The latest came from Senator Sheppard, of Texas. Although not advocating bimetallism, he said yesterday it might grow into a full-fledged issue by 1932.

Senators Borah of Idaho, Walsh of Montana, Shipstead of Minnesota and Couzens of Michigan have discussed the possibilities of bimetalism recently.

The temporary abandonment of the gold standard by Great Britain and some other European countries has given heart to some of those most interested in silver, and they have renewed demands for an international conference to discuss the rehabilitation of that industry.

The United States had a bimetal currency system early in its existence. The first monetary system established by law on April 2, 1792, set two units of value, one the gold dollar containing 24.75 grains of pure gold, and the other a silver dollar containing 371.25 grains of pure silver. The ratio of gold to silver was 1 to 15, and both were legal tender.

Changes in System.

In various changes in the monetary system which folowed, the gold dollar remained as the chief base, but in 1878 Congress directed the coinage of silver dolars and provided they should be legal tender at their nominal value for all debts, unless otherwise expressly stipulated in contracts.

When the gold standard was adopted in 1900, the law provided that nothing in it should affect the legal tender quality of the silver dollar or any other money issued by the United State. The Federal Reserve act of 1918 reaffirmed the parity provisions of the previous act.

The present silver dollar contains 412.5 grains of silver, 0.900 fine. It was pointed out that refusal of the people to accept silver dollars in circulation was the chief cause of their scarcity. There still are dollars stored in the mints that could be put into circulation if there were any demand for them.

A further decrease of $158,000,000 in the Nation's supply of gold was shown yesterday in the Federal Reserve Board's weekly report for the week ended September 30.

The loss brought the total outward flow of gold in two weeks to $276,000,000, leaving the country's stock at $4,739,000,000. Two weeks ago the country held $5,015,000,000, almost half of the world's supply. Earmarking of gold in New York for foreign account caused the change in the direction of the gold flow, which had been to the United States for the last year. On September 30 this country held $228,000,000 more in gold than it held a year ago.

Caruso's Widow Named In Ring Recovery Action

New York, Oct. 1 (A.P.).—Mrs. Dorothy Russell Calvit, daughter of Lillian Russell, actress, obtained today a Supreme Court order directing Mrs. Dorothy Caruso, widow of Enrico Caruso, to show cause why she shouldn't be examined before trial in an action to recover a diamond and emerald ring.

Mrs. Calvit, who says she received the ring from the late Alexander B. Moore, former Ambassador to Spain, desires to know under what circumstances Mrs. Caruso obtained it.

INJUNCTION SOUGHT IN TRACKS TANGLE

The fight of the Mount Vernon, Alexandria & Washington Railroad Co. to secure some sort of reimbursement for its tracks when they are torn up by the Government in the extensive building program south of Pennsylvania avenue between Twelfth and Fourteenth streets northwest was carried to the District Supreme Court yesterday when counsel for the company argued a motion for an injunction against the Secretary of the Treasury and others who are directing the building program.

Attorney John S. Barbour, for the company, claimed that Congress did not have the right in effect to order the tracks taken up, when it directed that the streets on which most of its trackage lies should be closed as a portion of the program. When it directed that these streets be abandoned, Congress failed to make provisions for the railway company and the situation which now confronts the company is that its tracks will be torn up and the terminal and other equipment will be wiped out without compensation.

John W. Fihelly, for the United States attorney, and J. R. Benny, of the Treasury Department, argued that the right to tear up the tracks was inferred by Congress when it directed that the streets be closed. In this way, the Government contended, the company's charter had been automatically revoked.

Justice Adkins took the motion for injunction under advisement.

settlement without such aid. Conferences had been held at intervals over a period of several months, although they were recently interrupted by the petition for higher freight rates which the commission now has under consideration.

To the Pennsylvania: Wabash, the Detroit, Toledo & Ironton, and Norfolk & Western.

To the Baltimore & Ohio: Ann Arbor, Reading, Central of New Jersey, Western Maryland, the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh, Buffalo & Susquehanna, Lehigh & Hudson River and Chicago & Alton.

To the Chesapeake & Ohio: Nickle Plate, Erie, Chicago & Eastern Illinois, Bessemer and Lake Erie & Lehigh Valley, giving the Pennsylvania certain trackage rights over the Lehigh.

No disposition was made of the Virginian.

The four principal roads have already acquired control, either directly or indirectly, of most of the properties necessary to complete the proposed redistribution. Many financial details must still be settled, including adjustments to minor stockholders of the various roads to be merged.

Insurance Company Faces Virginia Quiz

Richmond, Va., Oct. 1 (A.P.).—The National Benefit Life Insurance Co., handling insurance for Negroes, was ordered today by the State Corporation Commission to show cause October 10 why its license to do business in Virginia should not be revoked.

The company went into voluntary receivership last week following impairment of assets ascribed to the business depression, and local officials have predicted an early reorganization. The company is enjoined from writing or exchanging contracts for insurance in Virginia pending the hearing.

MRS. COLLINGS OFF TO VIEW SUSPECTS

Entrains for Daytona Beach as Smith Is Found Alive; Stories Conflict.

New York, Oct. 1 (A.P.).—Mrs. Benjamin P. Collings, seeking the men who killed her husband aboard the cruiser Penguin weeks ago, tonight left by train for Daytona Beach, Fla., in an effort to determine if a father and son held there had any connection with the case.

She was accompanied by Assistant District Attorney Fred J. Munder, of Suffolk County; her attorney, William A. Kelly, and a woman unidentified, but believed to be her sister-in-law.

Before deciding to go South, Mrs. Collings and her party had spent hours at a hotel studying pictures of L. D. Ritchie and his son, William, now held at Daytona Beach.

Suffolk County authorities had requested Florida officials to hold the Ritchies while Mrs. Collings hesitated in her efforts to say whether the men resembled those who boarded the Penguin, killed her husband and abducted her, leaving their daughter aboard the cruiser.

William Smith Found.

Almost as Mrs. Collings was starting for the train, one theory in the investigation was exploded when William Smith, 35, was found at Bloomfield, N. J. A body found early this week had been identified as that of Smith, a mechanic formerly of Norwalk, Conn., and a friend of the Ritchies.

For a time it was believed the body might have been that of a "wounded man" Mrs. Collings said the men told her husband they were taking to shore for medical attention.

Smith said he had never heard of Collings and "never even knew he was murdered."

Smith scoffed at the report the Ritchies were held in connection with the Collings case.

Smith, a short, slight individual, with grayish hair, who also is known as William Ziga, said he had not seen the Ritchies in at least two months. This statement conflicts with the one credited to Mrs. Ritchie at Daytona Beach that she had seen Smith on August 20.

Unable to Make Up Mind.

Before they left, Kelly said Mrs. Collings had been unable to make up her mind definitely one way or another whether the Ritchies resembled the slayers of her husband. He said she was inclined to doubt they were the men, especially since the height and hair of the elder Ritchie as shown in his picture did not correspond with her recollection of the pair who left her in a moored motorboat after they took her from the Penguin.

A new witness, described as "highly important" by Assistant District Attorney Joseph Arata, was being questioned tonight. He is Halvar Halvarsen, captain of the tugboat Henry Steers, who told of being hailed by a man in a power boat on Long Island Sound the night Collings was slain aboard his yacht Penguin.

The man asked Capt. Halvarsen directions to Oyster Bay or Huntington, he said. He returned some time later for some more detailed directions.

Halvarsen was taken aboard the Penguin in an effort to determine whether that was the boat he encountered. Arata declined to say whether the identification was made but brought Halvarsen back to Huntington for further questioning.

TALK OF LIQUOR REFERENDUM BELITTLED BY SENATOR BORAH

Congress convenes December 7, and the moratorium is scheduled to go into effect December 15.

The Senate is a continuing body and therefore may proceed immediately to take up the moratorium and other legislation. The House, however, occupies a different status. Each House must organize and elect a presiding officer before it can function. With the question of control now up in the air, there is no predicting when the House will be able to take up the moratorium legislation.

Would Abolish Farm Board.

The Idaho senator, who belongs to that group of independents that will hold the balance of power in the next Congress, said that he favored abolition of the Federal Farm Board unless it changes its policy. The practice of the board in holding on to wheat, he said, is responsible for the present low price of that commodity. He would have the board either sell the wheat abroad or give it to hungry China.

He said that the foreign relations committee would take early action on the World Court protocols, and expressed the opinion that the Senate would take up the matter in the course of its seven-month session.

Senator Borah, a bitter opponent of American adherence to the world court, said that, as a result of the court's decision in the Austro-German customs union case, he is more than ever convinced that the United States should remain aloof from this tribunal.

While he is opposed to the "dole" as it is handled in Europe, Senator Borah would have the Federal Government help States and municipalities to meet the unemployment relief problem this winter.

Senator Borah's statement follows:

Calls Navy Cut "Modest."

"I think the President extremely modest in his call for a cut in the naval budget. In my opinion, he could have gone much farther in the way of reducing these expenditures and been well within reason and common sense. If the reduction is made in accordance with the President's wishes, we will still, I understand, appropriate for next year's naval appropriation something over $340,000,000.

"When we contemplate the condition today of the leading nations economically and financially, the expenditures for armaments are simply appalling. But, wholly aside from the question of economy, if we lead out in this matter, it may make other nations think seriously of a holiday in naval building. I see it has been suggested that this matter may be taken to the country. What a blessing it would be if the whole Federal budget could be taken to the country!

"It seems altogether probable we will have to deal with the question of taxes at the coming session. There is nothing quite so conducive to extravagance and waste as the habit of passing the cost of running the Government over to posterity. We ought, in the first place, to cut governmental expenditures to the lowest practical level. There would be some compensation in this depression through which we are passing if there should result from it a thorough overhauling of governmental expenditures. And, after we have cut expenditures as much as possible, we ought then to pay as we go. We will not spend nearly so much if we do.

"I do not see anything in these proposals about referendums and beer and kindred propositions. They would would not settle the question at issue. There is just one proposition with reference to prohibition, it seems to me, and that is repeal or not repeal. If the eighteenth amendment is wrong, it is fundamentally wrong. None of these proposals reach the heart of the controversy and would settle nothing. The eighteenth amendment is in the Constitution and it seems to me the sole question is: Do the American people want to take it out of the Constitution?"

Senator Borah began to agitate for an increase in the tax on large incomes at the end of the last session. Like the other Progressives, he is opposed to a general sales tax such as was recently proposed by Senator David A. Reed (Republican), of Pennsylvania.

For that matter, he would even be opposed to a luxury tax such as was advocated by Representative Isaac Bacharach (Republican), of New Jersey. He is afraid that a luxury tax might be extended until it was so widespread as to amount to a general sales tax.

Borah Backs Navy Slash As Hale and Britten Arm

(Associated Press.)

Senator Borah yesterday backed President Hoover's plan to slash naval expenditures while department heads prepared to make it effective.

In the meantime, opposition to the administration's policy was being organized by Chairman Hale of the Senate naval committee and Representative Britten, who headed the last House naval committee.

Hale, a regular Republican, returned to Washington yesterday to combat the administration's program. He refrained from adding anything to his statement Wednesday at Portland, Me., that the President had "disregarded the mandate of Congress" but said he would have something to say within a day or two.

The Maine senator conferred with Secretary Adams about the administration's decision to cut the destroyer construction program from eleven to five vessels.

It is this feature of the economy program that has most aroused Hale and Britten. Congress has appropriated $10,000,000 for beginning construction of the ships.

Adams plans to meet with the chiefs of all Navy bureaus today to seek methods for meeting the President's demand that the department's budget be cut from $401,000,000 to $340,000,000.

ects, particularly in the Reclamation Bureau. There also have been some cuts resulting from deferring irrigation construction in the Indian Bureau.

Although the Commerce Department this year had $54,335,000, for 1932-33 the figures asked is less than $50,000,000.

The next appropriation will contain only about $1,000,000 for the Census Bureau, still operating on what is left of the $39,000,000 originally appropriated for the census.

Secretary Lamont said the entire matter was in the hands of the Budget Bureau. He expressed confidence Director Roop would make every effort to comply with the President's expressed wish for minimum appropriations.

Pressure from the White House doubtless is having its effect in cutting down the estimates of money departments say they need, and even more probably will be cut in drawing the budget. The latter almost invariably is the case, leading to it being taken for granted in many Washington quarters that departments will ask the budget for more than they either need or expect to get.

Then, on top of that, as often as not congressional committees radically alter the Budget Bureau estimates.

It is not only on matters of domestic and governmental economics that the President places attention. To the contrary, the world situation is being closely watched—especially in the light of the early visit Premier Laval of France is to make.

It was emphasized in official circles that important results are expected from the personal contact between Mr. Hoover and M. Laval. Not the least of these is hoped to help toward economic rejuvenation for Europe, as well as aid the cause of disarmament.

The State Department sees the fact that no formal agenda has been prepared for the discussions is likely to contribute to their success. A general discussion is looked upon as certain to produce a broader and more beneficial understanding than conferences restricted as to topic.

ARMY PLANS BUDGET CUTS FOR NEXT YEAR

Will Profit by Rebuff Given Navy's Estimates; Will Press Air Plans.

(United Press.)

The War Department, it was learned yesterday, will profit by the Navy's example and submit a 1932-33 budget estimate lower than its allowance for the current fiscal year.

When the Navy recently handed the Budget Bureau a request for $401,000,000—an increase over its present budget—the White House promptly sent it back to Secretary Adams with an order that it be cut to $340,000,000.

War Department officials said yesterday that when they present their estimate on October 10, it will be below the $465,853,252 appropriation the Army was given this year. Strict regulations forbade the department from disclosing the amount to be requested.

One important Army program, however, is not expected to suffer materially from the tight budget—the five-year air expansion program. In an informed quarter it was said the program, which calls for 1,800 serviceable planes, will be virtually completed by funds to be included in the next budget.

Despite political pressure from members of Congress, the War Department expects to continue its economy program of abandoning isolated Army posts. The Department said today that troops already had been withdrawn from some of the 57 stations to be struck off Army rolls.

Little opposition is coming from districts in which forts will be turned over to other departments of the Government such as the Veterans Bureau, Justice Department and Interior Department. Members of Congress and civic bodies seem satisfied so long as some Government agency continues to bring Federal funds into the communities near forts.

Those interested in posts to be completely abandoned are protesting vigorously. Department officials had a good laugh recently when one protestant said he would be willing for fighting troops to be removed from a post, but pleaded with the Army to keep the regimental band there.

Slight Earthquake Felt in San Diego

Early Morning Shock Lasts 25 Seconds and Does No Damage.

San Diego, Calif., Oct. 1 (A.P.).—A slight earthquake, felt by a few persons, was recorded here at 3:45:40 a. m. today. The shock lasted 25 seconds and did no damage.

New York, Oct. 1 (A.P.).—An earthquake of unusual severity was recorded on the seismograph at Fordham University today. The first shock was at 6:52 a. m., and the disturbance reached its height at 7:06. It was estimated that the quake might be in the Central American region.

(Associated Press.)

A severe earthquake, estimated to have been centered within 1,000 miles of Washington, was recorded early yesterday on seismographs at Georgetown University. The first shock occurred at 7 a. m., with the second phase at 7:02:42 and the maximum at 7:06:30.

Fascist Council Backs Duce on Money Stand

Rome, Oct. 1 (A.P.).—Premier Mussolini's policy of maintaining the lira and safeguarding it against the dangers of speculation received the hearty backing of the Fascist grand council at a meeting tonight in the world map room of the Palazzo Venezia.

The council passed a motion affirming that deflation of currency, increase in the gold reserves and the adjustment of prices to the money level are to the best interest of the nation. This action was taken at a meeting in which the council surveyed the domestic and external policies faced by Italy.

U. S. Officials Outline Views on Farm Crisis

(Associated Press.)

The views of Chairman Stone, of the Farm Board and Secretary of Agriculture Hyde, on the agricultural crisis, were obtained yesterday by the executive committee of the National Grange.

The committee, headed by Louis J. Taber, national master, is preparing a program designed to afford relief to the farmer. Among the topics discussed yesterday were the export debenture, farm taxes, land utilization and rural credits.

Smugglers Use Sewers To Convey Rum Hauls

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 1 (A.P.).—A policeman was surprised early today to see a manhole cover rise and a head appear. Investigation disclosed that the Hertel avenue sewer, a large drain recently enlarged, was being used to convey ale from Canada into Buffalo.

Small boats put out under cover of darkness from the Canadian side loaded with ale and liquor and were rowed against the Niagara River current to the mouth of the sewer. They were then unloaded through manholes when trucks appeared by appointment.

The smugglers disappeared down the sewer today and evaded capture.

PUBLIC CAB HEARING LISTED FOR OCT. 19

The Public Utilities Commission yesterday set October 19 as the day for a public hearing into all phases of taxicab regulation in an effort to stabilize operation and put an end to rate wars.

Notices of the hearing, which will be sent today to all owners, operators and drivers of taxicabs in the District, state that the inquiry will have to do with rates, zone boundaries, service and equipment. The investigation will constitute the first move by the commission to regulate the taxicab industry since zone fares were inaugurated more than two years ago.

The commission also set October 12 for a hearing on a request by residents of Kenyon street to change the route of the Park road bus line of the Washington Railway & Electric Co. from Kenyon to Irving street. The hearing, which will open at 10 a. m., was moved up from October 3 upon the suggestion of People's Counsel Richmond B. Keech because of a meeting of the Park Road Citizens Association scheduled for the night of October 10.

Just what zones and rates will be established by the commission is, of course, conjectural; but it is expected that the changes will be slight, though somewhat in favor of the taxicab operators. A smaller first zone, and an initial rate of 25 cents may come out of the proceedings, as evidence is expected to be offered to show that the present rates do not accord operators a fair return.

Although the commission at the outset was opposed to the operation of flat-rate cabs and made a futile effort to require universal installation of meters, it is believed now that the body favors retention of the zone system so long as it is properly regulated.

People's Counsel Keech, who sponsored the zone cabs and later made an attempt to end the rate war, will take an active part in the hearing. He said yesterday that he was particularly eager to see the industry stabilized before celebration of the Washington bicentennial begins.

Crime for Profit Shows Increase

Burglaries and Thefts Lead Lists in 1,141 U. S. Cities.

(Associated Press.)

Financial profit apparently is gaining as a cause for crime. The daily average of serious offenses in August reported to the Justice Department by 1,141 cities showed increases over July figures in those classes which conceivably returned cash benefits.

Figures made public yesterday showed the other classes—manslaughter by negligence, aggravated assault and criminal assault—declined from July averages.

August murders averaged 9.7 a day, as compared to 8.6 in the same reporting cities in July. Robberies jumped from 107 to 114 a day; burglaries from 364 to 380; thefts of $50 and over from 136 to 143; thefts under $50 from 612 to 618, and automobile thefts from 429 to 454.

RICHARDS HONORED BY HIS ASSOCIATES

Tax Assessor of District Is Congratulated on His 40 Years' Work.

Friends and associates of William P. Richards, tax assessor, yesterday paid tribute to him upon his completing his fortieth year of service for the District of Columbia. A crowd that overflowed his spacious office quarters witnessed a ceremony in which the District Commissioners and members of Congress participated.

D. Luther H. Reichelderfer, chairman of the Board of Commissioners, made the first talk, and he was followed by Representative Ross A. Collins and Maurice H. Thatcher, members of the subcommittee on appropriations of the House District committee; Maj. Gen. Herbert B. Crosby, Police Commissioner, and Ralph W. Lee, a college mate at Lehigh University.

Mr. Richards was given a chest of silver by his employes, and numerous baskets of flowers and telegrams of congratulation were sent to him by friends. Among those sending telegrams were Representative Carl Mapes and Representative Robert G. Houston.

In a husky voice, the veteran tax assessor recalled his coming to Washington at the request of Capt. William T. Rossell, District Engineer Commissioner, under whom he had worked at Vicksburg, Miss. Working first in the street extension service and later as District surveyor, Mr. Richards had much to do with the laying out and the development of Rock Creek Park.

After seventeen years service in the Engineer Department, he was made tax assessor by Maj. Gen. J. J. Morrow, Engineer Commissioner. During his 23 years service in this capacity, he has not only placed the assessment system upon a sound economic basis, but has achieved a national reputation as an expert in so doing.

John R. Bardorff, of the board of assessors, acted as chairman of the ceremony. Other members of the board helped arrange it.

Next, he was reported sitting in an automobile with the same youth near the cemetery gate.

When found yesterday he had been dead about eight hours, examiners said. The automobile, which he had borrowed for the summer from Mrs. A. P. Garrett, mother of the scenario writer, with whom he had been boarding, was found on a highway about a quarter of a mile distant. The headlights were burning.

Raisbeck, whose home was in East Moline, Ill., produced a play called "Rock Me, Julie," in which Paul Muni, noted character actor, and Helen Menken played the leading roles, last winter. The drama closed after two weeks and Raisbeck was working on another when death interrupted.

absorbed the Equitable Trust Co., early in 1930, through which it eclipsed the National City to become the world's largest bank. On June 30, Chase reported resources of roughly $2,400,000,000 and the National City, with Bank of America, would come within about $100,000,000 of that on the basis of the June 30 statements.

Both the Bank of America and National City are among Wall street's oldest banking institutions. Both were founded in 1812. National City from time to time has absorbed other New York City banks, and for several years was the largest bank in the United States. It has been anxious to extend its branch system in New York City for some time. In the autumn of 1929, its directors approved a plan to acquire the $300,000,000 Corn Exchange Bank, which has an extensive branch system, but the plan was drawn up just before the 1929 crash in the securities markets and by the time the National City stockholders met to act upon it, the values of the stocks of the two institutions had been so altered that it was decided that the plan was inequitable, and it was abandoned.

Became Factor in 1928.

A. P. Giannini first became a factor in New York banking through acquisition of control of the Bank of America in 1928, which he purchased through the Bancitaly Corporation, predecessor of Transamerica. Mr. Giannini had previously acquired the Bowery and East River National Bank and the Commercial Exchange National Bank, which were merged with Bank of America.

Dr. A. H. Giannini, A. P. Giannini's brother, is chairman of the Bank of America. It is understood that his status under the merger is as yet undecided. The matter was complicated by the dropping of A. P. Giannini and other members of his family from the Transamerica directorate last week, when they were replaced by members of the large banking firm of Lee Higginson & Co.

In discussing the proposal, Charles E. Mitchell, chairman of the National City Bank, said that the Bank of America was in very sound and liquid condition, and had an equipment of city branches which could well be combined with that of the National City, and it was believed that the union would be beneficial in every way.

Plans to Retain Stock.

Mr. Walker, chairman of Transamerica, pointed out that the plan would give his company a substantial interest in one of the largest banks of the country, instead of controlling interest in a smaller institution. He said that the directorate had no present intention of disposing of the National City stock which it would receive.

It was explained that the merged institutions would continue under the present name of the National City Bank and the corporate title of the smaller institution, which in full is "Bank of National Association," disappear from the role of Wall street banks.

The Bank of America has outstanding 1,471,012 shares of capital stock of $25 par value. Of the exchange basis of one and two-thirds of these shares for each share of National City the latter institution will have to issue 882,607 shares of its stock of $20 par value, which will necessitate an increase of capital of $17,652,140.

Stocks at $33 and $52.

Closing bid prices in the over-the-counter market for Bank of America and National City stocks today were, respectively, $33 and $52 a share. From the Bank of America price should be deducted $7, the official net asset value as of September 30 of the stock of the Bancamerica-Blair-Corporation, the shares of which are held in equal amounts with Bank of America stock by its stockholders but which is not included in the merger. These stockholders will receive one share of their proportionate amounts of Bancamerica-Blair Corporation stock in addition to National City stocks.

Also, in addition to the National City stock received, stockholders of the Bank of America will eventually get 40 cents a share. This disbursement represents the capital required for the administration of certain trust accounts administered by the Bank of America pending their transfer to the City Bank Farmers Trust Co., trust affiliate of National City.

National City Bank stock pays annual dividends of $4 a share and the Bank of America rate is $2. Stockholders of the Bank of America approximate 20,000.

FOURTH MAN SEIZED FOR FIRE DEATH QUIZ

Auto Mechanic at Quantico Offers Alibi as Early Hearing Is Slated.

The fourth of a group of men, who occupied a cabin 2 miles from the house where Goodwin Miller and his wife and child were burned last Friday, was arrested in Quantico yesterday by Prince William County officials.

He is Ben Dooley, 28 years old, an automobile mechanic, who was sought for questioning by Sheriff John P. Kerlin, who believes that members of the Miller family were murdered before their bodies were cremated.

Dooley, when taken into custody by Justice of the Peace Willard E. Lloyd and Constable C. A. Bryant, was in a garage at Quantico, where he is employed as a mechanic. He was charged with vagrancy and posted $500 for his appearance in court.

Under questioning by the officers, Dooley said that he had been at Quantico and at Joplin on the night before the bodies were found and returned early to his cabin near the Miller home. He retired early that night, he said.

Others under arrest in connection with the case are Eugene Barber, his brother, B. J. Barber, and Jonah Cole, who lived with Dooley. All are charged with vagrancy.

A hearing of the four men on the vagrancy charges is scheduled for today or tomorrow. Sheriff Kerlin said all the men have "pretty good alibis," but he intends to question them further before they are released.

Farm Board Praised By Western Dairymen

(Associated Press.)

West Coast dairymen and egg producers yesterday praised to President Hoover the aid lent them by the Farm Board under the cooperative marketing act.

Commissioner Schilling, of the Farm Board, who introduced the group to the President, said no requests for new Federal aid were laid before the President. He added the group was cordially received by Mr. Hoover.

JOBLESS MOBS FIGHT POLICE IN DOLE RIOTS

London, Oct. 1 (A.P.).—Mounted police armed with batons today broke up serious riots in Glasgow and Salford, Lancashire, and in Bristol and London there were imposing unemployed demonstrations which, however, went off without police being required to interfere.

In Salford, in the heart of the hard-hit textile area, police battled a mob for half an hour before restoring order and many persons were arrested.

The Salford rioting centered at the city hall, where the municipal government was debating a cut of nearly $300,000 in the relief fund. A crowd numbering thousands and carrying red banners stormed the building.

Armed with sticks and shouting "Remember 1914!" they attempted to rush the entrance, but were held back by police. Women members of the mob bit and scratched the guards and, until strong reinforcements arrived, it appeared that the demonstrators would win the day.

Finally the officers began to make arrests and dozens of the rioters were marched off to jail under heavy guard. For more than half an hour the square at city hall resounded with the screams and grunts of the battlers.

The clash grew out of a parade of unemployed demonstrators who had marched to the city hall square and there broke ranks.

Among the police reinforcements was a detail of mounted men who rode up at a gallop and immediately charged the throng. Many persons were knocked down and trampled as the crowd retreated from this assault.

Banners Assail Government.

In Bristol demonstrators marched with banners reading "Not a penny off the dole," "Down with the national government" and "We support our naval comrades"—the last being a reference to the strike by members of the Atlantic fleet in protest against the naval pay cuts in the government's economy program.

The British government, a virtual dictatorship by virtue of its new economy powers, put forward a bill to block profiteering today.

The bill, aimed at persons who make suspension of the gold standard the occasion for profiteering in food, passed its first reading in the House of Commons. It provides penalties ranging up to three months imprisonment and a fine of $500.

Meanwhile, it was reported unofficially tonight that the chief Liberal members of the national government had decided to stand by Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, election or no election.

Assuming the accuracy of this report, observers considered the prospect of an election before the month is over as having been greatly heightened.

Decide Against Lloyd George.

The ministers concerned in the report are Lord Reading, foreign secretary; Sir Herbert Samuel, home secretary; Sir Archibald Sinclair, secretary for Scotland; Sir Donald MacLean, president of the board of education, and Lord Lothian, chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster. Their decision was understood to have been made against the wishes of their nominal leader, David Lloyd George, whose political future thus has become more than ever a subject of speculation.

As in the days immediately before the formation of the National government, King George saw some of the political chiefs today. Lord Reading, Stanley Baldwin, Conservative leader and president of the privy council, and Sir Austen Chamberlain, Conservative and first lord of the admiralty, visited Buckingham Palace at different times. Presumably they discussed the whole situation with his majesty.

The call for Prime Minister MacDonald to make some definite announcement regarding election plans has become more insistent in the press and elsewhere. Both those who want an election and those who do not want one urge that he relieve the present uncertainty.

In some quarters it was expected Mr. MacDonald would make an announcement before leaving tomorrow for a visit to his constituency at Seaham Harbor, where he will meet local labor leaders who recently demanded his resignation as their member in the House of Commons.

HANGING STIRS LITTLE NOTICE

There was a hanging in Rawlins Park just south of the Department of Interior yesterday right in broad daylight, but it attracted little attention. It was this way, the construction gang in charge of placing the statue of Maj. Gen. John C. Rawlins on its pedestal in its new location found the easiest way was to put a noose about the neck of the statue and hoist it into place.

ELECTRIC LINE RAPS GRADE CROSSING ACT

Washington & Old Dominion Also Objects to Plan to Divert Stream.

Richmond, Va., Oct. 1 (A.P.).—The Washington & Old Dominion Railway petitioned the State Corporation Commission for relief from the grade crossing act of 1926, and from the intention of the State Highway Commission to change the channel of Four Mile Run.

The petition claimed that the railway had been asked to contribute to the cost of constructing public highways over which "are operated buses and trucks for active competition with disastrous results upon its revenues."

A public hearing on the petition was set for October 13.

The railway, an electric freight and passenger line, operating from Alexandria to Bluemont, in Loudoun County, recently was informed by Highway Commissioner Henry G. Shirley, that it would be required to pay half the expense of an overhead crossing on route 711, the Lee Memorial Highway, at a point near Glencarlyn.

In its petition, the railway alleged that its tracks at the point lie in a natural valley and that the road is to pass at an angle over and above the level of the tracks. It added "it is physically impossible for a grade crossing to be constructed at this point."

The railway claims that under existing conditions it is not subject to the terms of the act.

The petition also asserted that the highway department planned to change the channel of Four Mile Run and that the change would be injurious to the rail line by overflowing of the stream in heavy rains.

The line runs through Arlington, Fairfax and Loudoun Counties, under a lease from the Southern Railway. William M. Farr, of Fairfax, is counsel for the company.

Commissioner Shirley has been made a party to the proceeding and summoned to the hearing.

ALEXANDRIA WINS W.C.T.U. SESSION

Convention at Hampton Ends With Challenge on Beer as Jobless Aid.

Hampton, Va., Oct. 1 (A.P.).—Adoption of resolutions asserting that propaganda for beer as an aid for employment is a fallacy, and a banquet tonight brought the annual convention of the Women's Christian Temperance Union to a close.

Alexandria was named as the 1932 convention city, and Richmond was selected for the 1933 meeting. The executive committee will meet in Petersburg in March.

Resolutions this afternoon opposed any form of prohibition modification, declaring that the sale of beer or more than one-half of 1 per cent alcoholic content would "be an entering wedge for general prohibition repeal."

Another resolution declared emphatically for world disarmament.

Mrs. Howard M. Hoge, of Lincoln, today began her second term as president of the State organization, having been reelected at the voting held yesterday.

Other officers named for the new year were Mrs. Evelyn G. Peterson, of Pamplin, recording secretary; Mrs. Lillian A. Shepherd, Norfolk, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Elizabeth R. Strickler, Roanoke, treasurer.

The Rev. E. J. Richardson, State superintendent of the Antisaloon League, addressing the assembly yesterday, said that temperance forces are facing a test, and urged perfection of dry units throughout the State.

Judges Would Cut Court Congestion

Hughes, Associates Seek Ways to Speed Justice in Federal Circuit.

(Associated Press.)

Ways of speeding up the administration of justice in Federal courts were sought today by Chief Justice Hughes and ten Circuit Court judges.

A mass of data was presented by Department of Justice officials giving their views on how to relieve congestion and expedite litigation. This will be considered by the judges in formulating their recommendations.

At a later session the group will consider the report by the Wickersham Law Enforcement Commission on the Federal courts. The report, which was not completed, asked for $25,000 to carry on the investigation.

Mexico to Continue Air Mail.

Mexico City, Oct. 1 (A.P.).—An economy proposal to suspend air mail service throughout Mexico was definitely rejected today by the treasury department on the ground the service was indispensable.

Holiday Is Urged On National Debt

(Associated Press.)

Senator Hastings (Republican), Delaware, yesterday advocated a "moratorium" on payment of the national debt in order to avoid an increase of taxes at the next session of Congress.

He said he saw no reason why the Nation should continue to pay any more than interest on its public debt during the depression. By this method he believed a tax increase could be avoided.

He added he was opposed to suggestions for a sales tax advanced by Senator Reed (Republican), Pennsylvania.

ANNAPOLIS CLASS ENTERTAINED HERE

Graduates of '81 Will Pay Honor Today at Tomb of Unknown.

Observing the fiftieth anniversary of their graduation from the Naval Academy, some 25 members of the class of '81, retired admirals and captains and men high in civil life, will pause for a few minutes today at the graves of their comrades in the burial plot set aside for them in Arlington National Cemetery.

The class, holding its semiannual reunion in Washington this week, yesterday were guests of Mrs. George Barnett, widow of Gen. Barnett, U. S. M. C., at Wakefield Manor, near Huntly, Va. Gen. Barnett was a member of the class. They returned to Washington by way of Winchester, Va., and the Shenandoah Valley.

Following the visit to Arlington today the members will be entertained at luncheon by Mrs. Katherine Weeks Davidge, daughter of the late Secretary of War Weeks, who was a member of the class. Former Senator Orvington V. Weller, president of the class, who arranged the reunion, will entertain them at dinner tonight at his apartment at the Wyoming.

Tomorrow the group, representing a good half of the living members of the class, will motor to Annapolis to attend the football game between Navy and William and Mary College. Afterward they will be entertained by the superintendent of the academy at a reception. Then they will return to Washington to disband.

Those who yesterday answered the class roll were:

CONTRACTORS PLAN RELIEF FOR JOBLESS

Col. W. A. Starrett Is Chosen Head of Organization to Conduct Program.

Promulgating an ambitious and specific program for the immediate relief of unemployment and depression, the Associated General Contractors of America, at the closing session of its two-day fall meeting at the Washington Hotel here yesterday, selected Col. William A. Starrett, outstanding New York constructor, to head its national organization during 1932 and called upon all elements of government, business and industry to cooperate unitedly in its plan to bring back national prosperity.

The program is predicated upon the generally accepted theory that construction is the key industry of the Nation, its tendrils reaching into practically every field of business, industry and commerce, and that its well directed acceleration inevitably must stimulate and revive all business. The program contains eighteen specific recommendations, including one that special sessions of the Congress of the United States and the State Legislatures be called if necessary to put the program into effect immediately.

Summary of Recommendations.

A summary of recommendations is as follows: Maximum expenditure of local, State and Federal funds that can be immediately raised to undertake a constructive program for America; special bond issues to provide a two-year moratorium for tax bills for needed improvements; borrowing on the unimpeachable credit and collateral of semipublic institutions for the immediate construction of their deferred needs; extension of the powers and functions of the Federal Reserve System so as to release hoarded capital; enactment of legislation prohibiting the competition of prison labor with free labor and the entering of the Government into competition with its citizens; the general reappraisal of construction securities; a community analysis of value received for taxes paid; the extension of Federal aid, similar to that now accorded the States for highways, to provide schools, hospitals, eleemosynary institutions in order to hasten the provision of such needed facilities; the issuance of State bond issues for public buildings as well as highways; the setting up of expansion reserves by public utilities for the extension of their facilities; the certification of construction so that more liberal financing terms may be arranged; and the licensing of contractors and the establishment of credit bureaus to determine their responsibility.

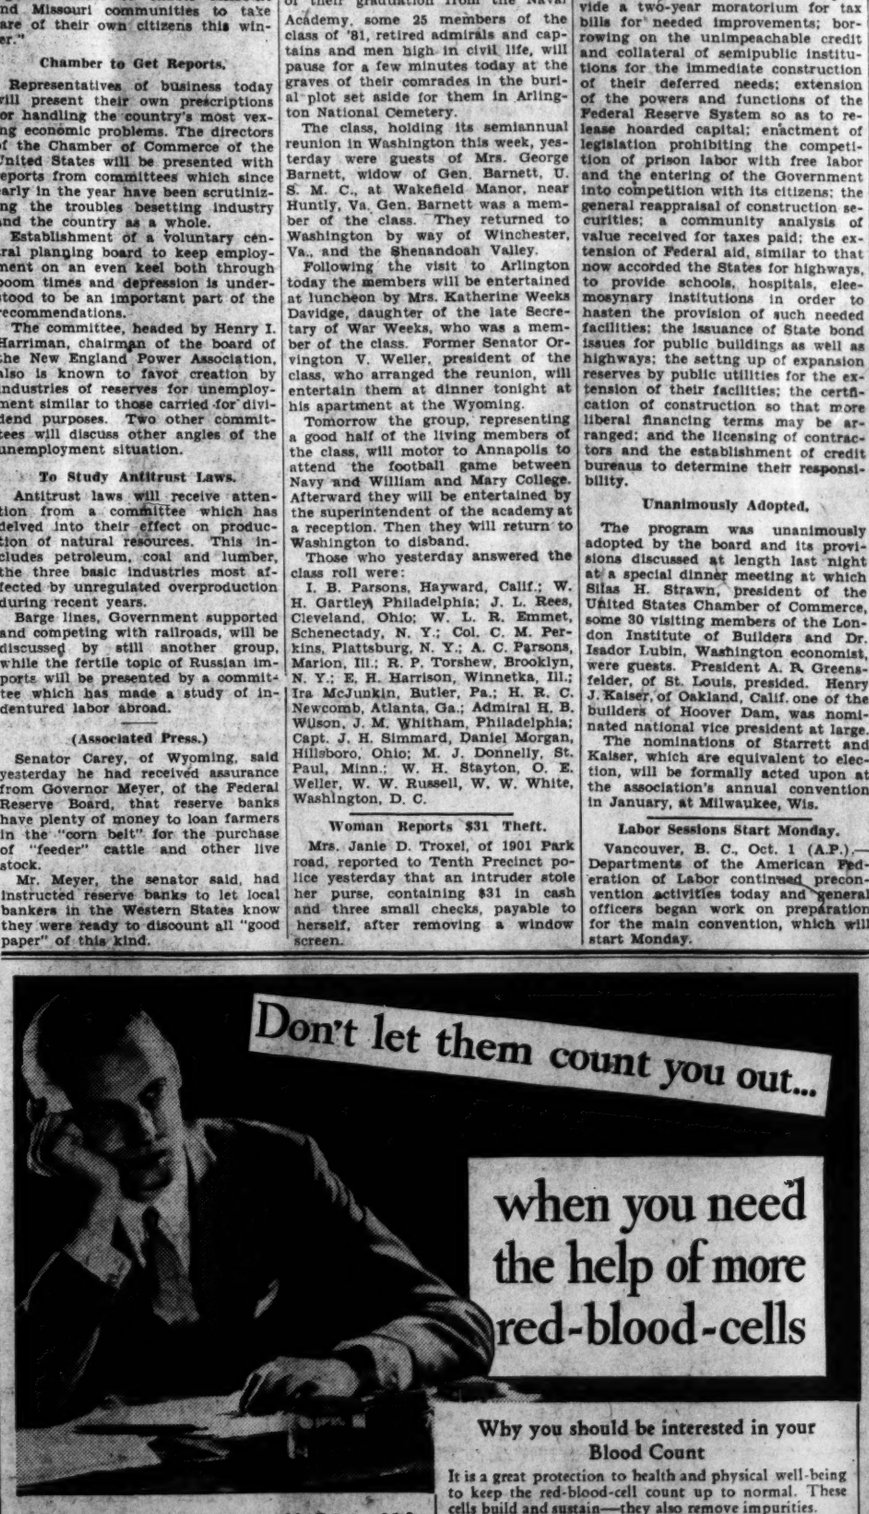
Unanimously Adopted.

The program was unanimously adopted by the board and its provisions discussed at length last night at a special dinner meeting at which Silas H. Strawn, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, some 30 visiting members of the London Institute of Builders and Dr. Isador Lubin, Washington economist, were guests. President A. R. Greensfelder, of St. Louis, presided. Henry J. Kaiser, of Oakland, Calif. one of the builders of Hoover Dam, was nominated national vice president at large.

The nominations of Starrett and Kaiser, which are equivalent to election, will be formally acted upon at the association's annual convention in January, at Milwaukee, Wis.

Labor Sessions Start Monday.

Vancouver, B. C., Oct. 1 (A.P.).—Departments of the American Federation of Labor continued preconvention activities today and general officers began work on preparation for the main convention, which will start Monday.



—at 4 p.m.—"flat"!

... minutes seemed like hours ... the "punch" to finish the day gone

TODAY, please take a moment to find out why you are sluggish or low in spirits.

It is not easy to be "up and doing" when that body of yours seems to rebel against work or play.

So often the reason is simple—that good body of ours has "run-down" under the strain of our way of living ... pressure of work and worry.

Those important precious red-blood-cells that mean so much to vitality become lowered in count ... the hemoglobin percentage begins to fall and we wonder "what is the matter."

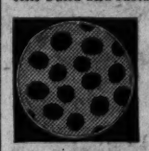
If this is your trouble, why not take steps to overcome it—remembering that a "tired feeling" may be a warning ... so are pimples, boils and paleness. A general run-down condition means a lack of normal resistance to infection and disease. A lagging appetite often leads to underweight and ill health.

You cannot be low in strength and be happy—let's be happy. "Don't let them count you out" when more red-blood-cells will give you that New Strength to "carry on."

Enriches the Blood

Why you should be interested in your Blood Count

It is a great protection to health and physical well-being to keep the red-blood-cell count up to normal. These cells build and sustain—they also remove impurities.



(Left) Microscopic view of healthy red-blood-cells. The blood stream should contain about 5,000,000 of these cells to the cubic millimeter. They carry nourishment and oxygen to every part of the body—they also remove impurities from the tissues.

(Right) Weak red-blood-cells—only 60 per cent of normal strength—they lack the power to resist infection and disease or to rebuild flesh and to carry away the impurities. Such a condition is often responsible for body weakness, paleness, sallow complexion, pimples and boils.

Don't let them count you out!

For generations S.S.S. as a tonic has been helping people gain New Strength, better health and happiness. Its successful record of over 100 years in restoring strength and vitality to the blood surely warrants your giving it a good trial.

You should know that S.S.S. has the distinct advantage of being composed of fresh vegetable medicinal ingredients in concentrated form ... it is Mother Nature's formula.

PREMIER LAVAL'S VISIT.

Unless the motive for Premier Laval's trip to the United States is made clear to the French it may lead to misunderstanding, rather than greater amity between the two nations. Sentiment reflected by the French press indicates that many people are of the opinion that America is seeking more than a purely friendly discussion; that the United States has an ax to grind. Therefore, if Premier Laval does not carry home some advantage for France he might easily become the object of popular resentment. The theory voiced by most of the newspapers is that President Hoover, motivated by the disaster of British finance, wishes to gain French cooperation. One paper even suggests that the President fears the dollar might follow the pound.

It is argued by some of the French writers that in return for French support America should support France's position with regard to such issues as the debts, disarmament and reparations. This type of thought was prevalent at the time of Ramsay MacDonald's visit to President Hoover in 1929. The French did not then believe, and are not yet convinced, that action inimical to France was not then planned. This conviction led to many difficulties when the naval conference took place in London. Unless the present interview can be made clear to the French people its results may not be beneficial to common understanding between the two countries.

The enthusiasm with which Mr. Hoover's invitation to M. Laval was met in this country was not shared in France, because it was looked upon there, not merely as a move for greater friendship but as actuated by an ulterior motive. The gain from the proposed conference can be no more than psychological. It is hoped that the meeting of the leaders of both countries will pave the way to a more intimate understanding of mutual problems. If either of the parties expects more M. Laval's visit may do more harm than good.

CONTROLLING PRODUCTION.

The cooperative marketing system first used by Western fruit growers has been successfully followed by many agriculturists in other parts of the country and finally by industries. Now a State has undertaken to coordinate the efforts of its producers. The Legislature of Pennsylvania in its 1931 session created the Greater Pennsylvania Council with the idea of substituting scientific planning for the haphazard methods formerly used in industrial, economic, agricultural and recreational development.

One of the important features which occupies a large part of the council's program has to do with the grading, labeling and marketing of farm products. The establishment of well-defined grades and methods of packing under uniform labels will enable the public to ascertain the quality of the food it buys. Regular inspection will assure both grower and buyer of the integrity of the label used. Upon this basis of dependability can be built the structure of a stable market with reasonable prices and returns.

Producers will be advised by the council as to the nearest and most profitable markets. Scientific information will be dispensed to producers in various lines. Practical results have already been obtained from this type of service in some fields. In the dairy business, for instance, milk production per cow has been substantially increased and poultry farms have been able to get more eggs per hen. Periods of depression due to an uncontrolled system of production will be less likely to recur when more planning of this type is instituted throughout the country.

COSTLY RATE DELAYS.

A recent ruling by the Interstate Commerce Commission has caused a storm of protest in the State of Washington. This sectional case is of special interest, now that the whole country is awaiting the vital decision of the commission on the proposed increase in railroad freight rates.

Just before the opening of the short but active shipping season of the apple section in Washington the railroads made a voluntary reduction in apple rates between the main shipping points and the ports of Seattle and Portland. The Interstate Commerce Commission, however, refused to allow the reduced rates, pending a hearing which has been set for October 22. This date comes too late to benefit this year's crop. The result, according to apple growers, will be a loss of approximately $100,000 to the producers.

Another aspect is the detriment that the railroads have suffered by the increase in truck shipments. This feature was, doubtless, one of the most important reasons for the voluntary rate cut. Benefits to the trucking interests have been great. Many of the trucks are capable of transporting 750 boxes in a load, which is the capacity of the ordinary freight car. Some having refrigeration are able to handle fruit for export. These facilities have made a serious encroachment upon railway freight traffic.

Protests from the apple growers will be considered at the hearing later in the month. That will be too late, of course, to alleviate the present situation. According to the growers, many apple buyers had contracted for fruit to be shipped at the lower freight rate. The suspension of this rate caused cancellation of orders. Last year's crop from the two great apple valleys, Wenatchee and Yakima, was approximately 3,500,000 boxes, a record amount. A large part of this fruit was exported to Europe. This year the growers have been seriously handicapped in marketing their fruit because of the arbitrary action of the commission. This appears to be a record year for delays on the part of the commission.

GORING HIS OWN OX.

Demands of politicians and farmers for approval of the export debenture plan by the next Congress have already returned to plague them. Secretary of Agriculture Hyde is in receipt of a cablegram from the representatives of eight European cotton associations to the effect that "the proposals for subsidizing exports of American cotton by means of debentures or similar measures have already disrupted dealings with mills, and is preventing buyers of manufactured goods from placing orders, thereby seriously contributing to the world-wide depression in the cotton industry."

Cotton buyers of Great Britain, France, Germany, Spain, Italy and Holland met at Milan, Italy, to consider the situation. They agree that the present price of cotton offers them unusual opportunities. Yet buying has practically ceased because they believe that if Congress enacts the debenture plan cotton prices will be still further depressed. Unless assurance can be given that Congress will not embark upon such a rash venture little or no American cotton will move across the Atlantic.

Some farmers in the United States have deceived themselves into believing that the debenture or some similar scheme of rewarding growers for exporting agricultural products would enhance prices. European buyers adopt a more realistic attitude. They knew full well that the effect of the proposed debenture plan would be to stimulate the production of cotton and that the new surplus would push prices to a lower level than at present. The stark irony of the export debenture "relief" measure is made conspicuous by this skepticism of the European cotton buyers.

A few weeks ago a movement was under way to sell large quantities of this year's cotton crop to Europe on long-term credit. These negotiations are reported to have been quashed by the attitude of the European buyers. "It is obvious," says the cablegram from the Milan conference, "that uncertainty is gravely limiting the purchase of the present cotton crop until something definite is known of the views and intentions of the American Government, which would allow buyers to operate with a feeling that such purchases would not be adversely affected later by the passage of the debenture proposition."

Secretary Hyde has given the European cotton interests assurance that the administration is opposed to the debenture and all similar nostrums, but of course he can not furnish a guarantee against congressional action on that subject. National farm organizations are actively engaged in agitation for the debenture and its cousin, the equalization fee. The farm bloc in Congress is planning a drive to put it through. So long as this agitation goes on European buyers will remain chary and the exportation of surplus crops will lag. In effect, foreign buyers are waiting for American agriculture to commit suicide with the aid of Congress, so that they may profit from the result.

FRANCE'S MONEY MARKET.

France has evidenced a strong desire to become a capital market, yet, despite her large gold backing of the franc, it is improbable that she is in a position to take over this function. Her discount market is inadequate and there is not sufficient volume to the French foreign trade. About eighteen months ago the Paris bankers, under the auspices of the Bank of France, founded an acceptance bank. The sudden decline in the value of the English pound created a remarkable opportunity for Paris to cut into the field of England's long-term financing business, and an increased activity is confidently expected for the French acceptance bank.

The wise handling of her gold supply has built up in France a gold stock surpassed only by that of the United States. She has removed one handicap from her market since the war by maintaining a single gold standard. Before the war the Bank of France was permitted to pay out either gold or silver, or both. From this change of policy France has gained a position of influence and prestige, as well as financial preeminence, on the continent. It is not surprising that she casts longing eyes at the income realized in England from banking commissions and other foreign financial services that are estimated at from $250,000,000 to $300,000,000 annually.

France's only rival on the continent for England's financial trade is Holland. This little country, expert in financial matters from centuries of activity in this line, is, however, incapable of becoming an important financial power in world affairs due to insufficient resources. Hence France's supremacy in Europe is established. It remains to be seen whether she will build up an extensive foreign business in acceptances, since she is not temperamentally a nation of traders and bankers, but rather a nation of savers.

The ultimate effect of the crash of sterling will probably be felt more by France than any other nation. Immediate financial benefits will be offset by injurious dislecation of trade. If England's new policies result in a tariff French goods will be the first to suffer, while British production for export will be stimulated both by customs protection and the lowered value of the pound.

FUTURE USE OF POWER.

From 1913 until the beginning of the depression the trend of prices in virtually every line was steadily upgrade, yet the cost of electric current during this period was consistently reduced. For this reason M. S. Sloan, president of the New York Edison Co., believes that the present drive against utility companies will not succeed. Criticism and antagonism seldom originate with the customers; they are rather the product of those who have axes to grind, especially political axes. Some time ago former Gov. Smith voiced this same idea when he stated that there was nothing in the so-called utility issue. It must have been through experience that the former governor learned the truth of this statement.

Government ownership in the field of utilities is improbable. Progress and increasing usefulness in the electrical industry will lead to a great expansion under private ownership. The next two decades are expected to witness a growth in the business comparable to that of the last eighteen years. Cost reductions due to increasing economies and efficiency will provide power at a decreasing price to consumers. This will augment the amount of power used and increase the density of load tending to further reduction of cost.

The greatest growth in power consumption will doubtless come in the industrial field, yet the largest consumers of electricity in homes do not consume more than about one-third of the power which might be applied advantageously to domestic uses. The development of this market alone should increase sales for many years to come. It is expected that air conditioning, which is now confined to a few commercial institutions, will be used extensively in homes.

Other fields which provide a constant development for electricity are commercial and industrial lighting, street and highway lighting, electrification of office and store equipment, refrigeration and railway electrification. These known sources present vast opportunity, while invention is constantly finding new ways of employing electricity for benefit and pleasure.

Maybe Pierre Laval is coming here to find out why France's income from American tourists has been so invisible this year.

ARBORETUMS

From the Boston Transcript.

The current number of the Bulletin of the Arnold Arboretum contains an article on "Arboreta and Botanic Gardens in the United States," by Elizabeth D. Bennett, which conveys the surprising information that there are now in this country no fewer than 155 arboretums, or tracts, reservations and gardens where the collection and preservation of trees and shrubs are carried on. These reservations include several State parks or forests, and a considerable number of private arboretums, most of which are open to the public, and all of which serve as means of preservation of trees and shrubs such as will thrive in the latitude in which they are located. The tree sanctuaries thus listed in Miss Bennett's record are found in all the States of the Union except Delaware, Kansas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Montana, Nevada, New Hampshire, Oklahoma, Vermont, Washington and Wyoming. It is needless to point out that several of these States here listed which are without recognizable arboretums, nevertheless, have great forests—such as Montana, for instance, New Hampshire, Vermont, Washington and Wyoming. An arboretum, presumably, properly so called, looks beyond the border of its own State in its collections, and includes trees and herbaceous plants capable of local introduction or cultivation. We have in Massachusetts no less than ten such arboretums, and our Arnold Arboretum, under the authority and charge of Harvard University, serves as the model and prototype for all the others.

Our Boston park system is in itself an arboretum, including, as it does, a reservation so rich in adapted species as the Public Garden. The possibilities of acclimatization are well suggested in the noble specimens which the Garden contains of the sophora and the ginkgo from Asia and the elms and maples of Europe. Private arboretums like the Hunnewell Pinetum in Wellesley, and the luxuriant arboretum of Thomas E. Proctor in Topsfield, reveal what private wealth can do in the successful adaptation of species to practical or ornamental purposes in New England. California is particularly rich, as its climatic possibilities suggest that it should be, in arboretums.

The Government has waked to the desirability of displaying tree and plant growth at the Capital of the Nation. The whole of the City of Washington, indeed, might be called an arboretum, though the great national arboretum in the District of Columbia is still in the form of a project merely—but a project sure to be brilliantly realized.

The original colonists in this country began their history by destroying the trees. Trees were in the way of settlement; they were mowed down in windrows and set on fire. Time and need of timber have changed our people's tune in this regard. In Illinois, in Iowa, in comparatively treeless North and South Dakota, big stretches of naked prairie are being converted into forests or botanic gardens. Arboretums represent the repentance of the Nation. They are the "expiatory chapels" which atone for the ravage wrought by the pioneer Americans. The names of two great men stand out as the founders and achievers of this Nation-wide atonement for the slaughter of the forests. They are the names of J. Sterling Morton, of Nebraska, founder of Arbor Day, who turned the thought of millions from tree destruction to tree preservation, and of Charles Sprague Sargent, of Massachusetts, author of the "Silva of North America," who, on the basis of the modest bequest of James Arnold, of New Bedford, taught the world how to make an arboretum.

APPLE TREE.

Of all the trees, it seems to me,
The friendliest is the apple tree.

Its laden boughs in early fall
Offer its treasures to us all.

Beside the road it seems to wait

Who nods and smiles as men appear
And always has a word of cheer.

Reach up and take the red fruit there;
It acts as though it doesn't care.

If praise men speak, it seems to be Delighted with their company.

If small boys come, with stone and stick
To storm the branches, fruited thick,

I'll swear its ways as gracious are
As grandma's at her cookie jar.

And that an apple tree enjoys
Such visits from the girls and boys.

Some trees there are which seem to frown
And live aloof with their renown,

But apple trees appear to me
The friendliest of all to be.

If You Economize by Starving the Cow, What Will You Use for Milk?

By ROBERT QUILLEN

GOVERNMENT officials and prominent citizens of the older generation are quoted day after day in defense of frugality.

Because they are men of renown, their opinions have news value. The public reads what they have to say and follows their advice. And thus they do more harm than twice their number can undo, for the public is easily persuaded to be timid and selfish.

What possible good can be accomplished by the practice of thrift now?

Ever since that dim and distant day when men ceased to be wandering hunters or wandering herdsmen and established a permanent habitation, they have earned their living by creating new wealth.

Whether cutting down trees in the forest, drawing fish from the sea, digging minerals from the earth, tilling the soil, changing raw materials into useful products or transporting goods from one region to another, they have earned their bread by serving one another.

What prompts their industry?

Necessity and the hope of gain.

What gives them reasonable hope of gain?

The world's demand for the products of their toil.

When that demand is great, the hope of gain is great. Every man finds work to do, creating some form of wealth or rendering some kind of service; and the more wealth is created, the more there is to divide.

When demand decreases—when men deny themselves comforts and luxuries, and each endeavors to improve his condition by getting as much as he can and spending as little as he can—there is nothing to encourage the production of wealth and men everywhere are unemployed.

The matter isn't debatable. The truth is obvious and indisputable. Nations or individuals can buy only as much as they sell.

If the baker doesn't buy meat, the butcher has no money with which to buy bread.

Men were frugal in the time of our fathers, and as a result they worked twelve hours to earn a dollar and whipped their hungry children for stealing sugar.

Men reap what they sow. He who would save his life shall lose it. The bread that returns is the bread cast on the waters.

When you deny yourself an apple, you also deny yourself the reciprocal patronage of the apple grower.

Uncle Sam Is Not Rich.

Minneapolis Journal.

Those in and out of Congress who are presently demanding that more and more of the business of relieving human distress be paid for out of the United States Treasury are fond of referring to ours as "the richest Government in the world." It is unthinkable, they are saying, that "the richest Government in the world" should not do this or do that for its citizens.

Where do they get that "richest Government in the world" stuff? In potentialities for the production of wealth, the American people may be the richest in the world. But their Government is not the richest in the world. Nor has it been for some time.

For, just as no man who is flat broke and heavily in debt can be considered rich, neither can a national government that is flat broke and heavily in debt be considered rich. And any government that is borrowing money to balance its budget, as our Government is now borrowing and may continue to borrow for some time to come, is flat broke—not only broke, but bending under a heavy burden of previously accumulated debts.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

"Hickory" Is Against the Eighteenth Amendment, but Opposes Nullification—Repeal It, Says He.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I was surprised at this statement of a Post correspondent, Overton C. Luxford:

"The repeated statement that the people had issued the mandate or passed or voted for the eighteenth amendment to the Constitution is not in accordance with the facts."

He further remarks that "the approval of the eighteenth amendment was by Congress and the legislatures of the several States, not by the voters."

The fact that a great many otherwise well-informed citizens take the limited view of your correspondent reflects discredit on the schools of the country. It may be true that in the case of the prohibition amendment a direct vote of the people might have been more satisfactory. But ours is a representative government; Congress and the legislatures of the several States voice the will of the people; and accordingly the work of devoting the United States to teetotalism was done decently and in order.

Incidentally it looks to me as if The Post's correspondent's statements are not altogether "in accordance with the facts" if we accept his own line of reasoning. He repeats the claim that "the Federation of Labor and the American Legion are strongly in favor of a return of light wines and beer." I myself do not feel at all certain that a referendum vote by the Federation and the Legion would be "strongly" favorable to the return of light wines and beer.

Let me confess that I am a Democrat more or less old-fashioned in my democracy, with a strong prejudice against constitutional shysters. I was fond of a convivial dram now and then when it could be lawfully imbibed; and when the question of ratification arose I was opposed to the eighteenth amendment. I would not now regret its outright repeal. But I am opposed to nullifying it by unlawful means. If you don't like any part of the Constitution, repeal it; but do not nullify it, because this will lead to the destruction of the entire Constitution.

HICKORY.

Short Selling on Stock Market Is Blamed for Lack of Confidence, Which Prolongs Depression.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Mr. Lanier's statement in this column September 29 that the depression is largely psychological and that nothing would better tend to cure the depression than for financial leaders to stop raids on security values and bring about a gradual appreciation of security prices, is undoubtedly a correct diagnosis and properly suggested cure.

However, so long as short-selling raids, not by the lesser fry, but by those who have the stock control locked up in strong boxes, are permitted, other financial leaders will lack the nerve to bolster stocks as Mr. Lanier suggests.

Wall street has clearly demonstrated that it is not eleemosynary or patriotic. Its rule is devil take the hindmost. That great mart which has done so much to aggregate capital to bring the most remarkable prosperity any country has ever known can also function as the most murderous and tyrannical pirate ever known.

More than a year ago the writer called attention to what took place in Wall street the day President Hoover signed the tariff bill. The action of the market that day showed clearly that certain disgruntled magnates had set about to discredit the President. An examination of the stock record sheet transactions of that day will show a great selling snake wriggling its slimy folds through the market until demoralization set in. Since that day there has been no market worth speaking about, and from that day, followed by the drought and England's demonetization of silver in India, we have experienced the worst commercial depression in our history.

Legionnaire Says Riffraff at Convention Demanded Beer Against Wishes of Most Veterans.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The papers have had much to say recently about the stand of the American Legion on the prohibition question. I wish to make a couple of statements on the question.

In the first place the views expressed by the Legion in its recent convention are not the stand of the Legion of the country. It was the riffraff of the organization that packed the convention for the purpose of stirring up an agitation for booze and a bonus, neither of which we want or need. Those of us who have anything to do and sense enough to do it stayed at home and attended to our own affairs, and it makes us sore to be classed with these hoodlums who bawl themselves hoarse for beer. The reading public should be set right on this point.

Some Authorities See No Hope of Business Upturn Before Spring.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Editorially you say: "The first signs of a reawakening in business and industry are unmistakable."

Every major and important business index in this country affirms that August business marked a new low point in the depression. Similarly economists and business services agree that contrary to every year in the past since 1921 there has been no seasonal upturn this fall, and it is now agreed that if any improvement is to come it will not make itself felt until spring of 1932.

Jury Gets Murder Of Teachers Today

Alibi Is Offered as Final Defense Move in Oklahoma Tragedy.

Newkirk, Okla., Oct. 1 (A.P.).—Testimony designed to condemn or to clear Earl Quinn, of the murders of Jessie and Zexia Griffith, attractive school teachers, was halted abruptly late today without either Quinn or his young wife taking the witness stand. The case will go to the jury tomorrow.

Quinn's attorneys, in a brief defense, sought to establish that he was in Wichita, Kans.—90 miles from the roadside death scene—an hour after the time the State charges that he shot the sisters after halting their automobile. He is being tried for the murder of Jessie, the younger girl.

The sisters were killed about 4:30 a. m., December 28, 1930, south of Tonkawa, Okla., as they were returning to their schools after a Christmas holiday vacation with their parents at Blackwell, Okla. Jessie was attacked before she was slain.

Wine Concentrate Trade Is Attacked

(United Press.)

Senator Royal S. Copeland (Democrat), New York, asserted last night that the administration in permitting sale of wine concentrates "is conniving at an evasion of the prohibition enactments that makes a mockery of the eternal exhortation to the people of America to abstain from law violation."

"Even more incongruous," said Copeland in a statement issued through the Democratic national committee, "is the circumstance that only one branch of the wine-making industry in this country—that for which former Assistant Attorney General Mabel Walker Willebrandt stands sponsor—is permitted to pursue business unvexed, while its competitors are being indicted by the Department of Justice for sending out a wine-making base in brick form, as against the fluid grape concentrates which are permitted.

"There must be a reason for this discrimination by the administration. Perhaps a clew may be found in the circumstance that the California grape wine industry is motivated and directed by Thomas C. C. Gregory, of San Francisco, the former associate of the President."

INDEPENDENTS HAIL WOR WATT VICTORY

Station Not Allied to Chain Wins Only High-Power Channel Open.

(Associated Press.)

Elevation of radio station WOR, of Newark, N. J., to rank with the Nation's most powerful commercial stations was viewed in Washington yesterday as a victory for the independent broadcaster.

The New Jersey station, which is not affiliated with any chain, was awarded the right by the Radio Commission to operate with 50,000 watts power over the only remaining maximum power channel in the first zone. This right was sought also by stations WHAM, Rochester; WBJ, Boston, and WJZ, New York.

Yesterday's assignment fills the quota of the first zone for 50,000-watt stations. Others in the zone include WEAF, New York; WABC, New York, and WTIC, Hartford. WGY, Schenectady, is operating with maximum power pending court litigation, and its assignment is credited to the West Coast.

Station WCAU, Philadelphia, which also was awarded maximum power by the commission yesterday, serves part of south Jersey, although it is located in the second zone.

At hearings several months ago, WOR pleaded the cause of the independent broadcaster against the combined efforts of chain broadcasting systems to secure the high power The station cited its program as proof that an independent station can put programs on the air equal to those offered by the chains. Officials of the station maintained that WOR had become an institution in New Jersey, ranked with the oldest commercial stations on the air, and was entitled to high power so that its programs, of particular interest to New Jersey residents, might be heard in every corner of the State.

The examiner first recommended that all stations in the first zone requesting maximum power be granted the right to broadcast with 50,000 watts. This was rejected by the commission on the ground that such action would clog the air with volume broadcasting. Small stations objected on the ground that the broadcasters of 250 watts would be forced off the air. The commission requested the examiner to make specific recommendations for the assignment in each zone.

Station WJZ, of New York, whose broadcaster is located at Bound Brook, N. J., operated on 30,000 watts and requested the right to step its power up to 50,000 watts.

Allman New Head Of Chicago Police

Sworn In Quickly and Is Too Busy to Tell Plans to Oust Gangsters.

Chicago, Oct. 1 (A.P.).—A grim faced man with the build of an athlete and the terse vocabulary of a soldier was installed today as commissioner of Chicago's police.

James P. Allman, a policeman since 1900, captain since 1917, was appointed by Mayor Anton J. Cermak, unanimously approved by the city council and sworn in quickly. He was ordered by the mayor to use a firm hand in controlling vices.

He was too busy getting his office on a working basis and starting the long promised Cermak reorganization of the police department to issue any statements about "ridding the city of gangsters" or "waging relentless war on crime."

DIPLOMATS ENROLL FOR HILLTOP STUDY

3 Embassy Secretaries Are Taking Special Courses at Georgetown.

Secretaries of three foreign embassies in Washington are included among a coterie of young diplomats registered at the Georgetown University School of Foreign Service which opened its 1931-32 academic year yesterday in the morning and evening departments.

Dr. Pablo Campos-Ortiz, first secretary of the Mexican Embassy; Senor Mario Rodriguez, Second Secretary of the Chilean Embassy, and Mr. Nuri Sabit, First Secretary of the Turkish Embassy, are registered for special courses. Another member of the corps, Baron Dreyhausen, of Austria, is numbered among other staff members who are attending the Georgetown school this year.

The young brother of the Queen of Siam, Nondiysdat Svasti, who drops his title of prince in ordinary usage, was one of the first of the returning students to register for the new year. He has just returned from Vancouver, where he was with his sister and brother-in-law, King Prajadhipok. Prince Svasti is preparing to complete his final year at Georgetown prior to entering the diplomatic service of Siam.

The son of a former United States Minister to Siam, W. W. Russell is another new student registered at Georgetown this year, and the son of the former Minister of Bolivia, Raoul de Madina, now on the staff of the Pan-American Union, has registered to complete his course in foreign service.

Courses on international law and foreign relations of the United States, as well as a number of other special courses devoted to economic and commercial conditions, are chief attractions to the foreign diplomats attending the school. Dr. James Brown Scott, noted authority on international law, and Dr. Thomas H. Healy, assistant dean, are lecturing on international law and foreign relations.

The graduate department of the school is located this year at the Hilltop, convenient to the college archives and libraries. Research work in connection with American principles of government is being encouraged this year in view of the George Washington bicentennial program.

Tammany Official Accused of Threat

Assemblyman Charges Intimidation After Gambling Protests.

New York, Oct. 1 (A.P.).—A high Tammany official was accused today before the Hofstadter legislative committee of threatening a former assemblyman with the loss of his political position if he continued to protest about gambling in Tammany clubs. The testimony was that of the former assemblyman, Frederick L. Hackeburg.

Details were revealed of how the late Police Commissioner Joseph A. Warren resisted four hours the insistent arguments of his closest friend who wished him to change the wording of his letter of resignation, after it had proved displeasing to Mayor James J. Walker.

For the first time since the Legislature gave the committee broad powers to grant immunity, a witness defied the investigating body and refused to waive immunity. The witness, Jack Price, alias "Nigger Rue," a professional gambler accused of operating in Tammany clubs, was excused without being questioned.

Soviet Modifies Edict On Heating Residences

Moscow, Oct. 1 (A.P.).—Owing to unseasonably cold weather in Moscow, Soviet authorities have modified a recent decree by ruling that homes may be heated once every three days until the regular heating season begins, October 15. The temperature today was in the upper thirties.

Citizens previously had been forbidden, as a fuel economy measure, to heat their homes without special authorization.

Hindenberg to Observe 84th Birthday Today

Berlin, Oct. 1 (A.P.).—Germany's "grand old man," President Paul von Hindenburg, will observe his eighty-fourth birthday anniversary tomorrow in physical health and mental vigor, which he attributes to hard work and plain living.

It may be his last birthday as president of the German Reich, for his term expires next May.

Envoy Forbes Arrives Here For Parleys

Polo Game Arranged in Home for Ambassador to Japan.

An absentee for more than a year, the United States Ambassador to Japan, Mr. W. Cameron Forbes, slipped into Washington yesterday to confer with State Department officials, en route to his home in Westwood, Mass., where he will spend a leave of absence from his post. Ambassador Forbes' arrival in this country was somewhat unheralded, although he has been on duty in the Far East continuously for over a year and his vacation has been due for several weeks. He came directly to Washington from the West Coast.

Arranged in celebration of his homecoming, there will be a polo match staged at his beautiful estate, which bears the alluring name, Gay Farms, in Westwood, on Monday. Well versed in the science of equitation, Ambassador Forbes will captain one of the teams. Mr. B. Nason Hamlin, of Boston, will be captain of the opposing team. That evening the members of the Westwood Polo Club will entertain at dinner in honor of the popular envoy at the Dedham Country and Polo Club house, when a group of his old friends will assemble to welcome him home.

Ambassador Forbes' estate in Westwood is one of the show places near Boston. Covering many acres, there are tennis courts and other features which make his home one of the most luxurious of the large estates in the Boston suburbs. According to present plans, the ambassador will spend most of his leave there, with the exception, perhaps, of occasional visits to Washington on business in connection with the hostilities between China and Japan.

What Today Means to You

"LIBRA."

IF OCTOBER 2 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 7:45 a. m. to 9:30 a. m., from noon to 3 p. m., and from 7 p. m. to 9 p. m. The danger hours are from 9:45 a. m. to 11:30 a. m., and from 9:30 p. m. to 11:15 p. m.

October 2, astrologically speaking, holds out bright prospects, especially for those engaged in electrical and engineering work. Home relationships will also be favored. The spirits of energy and sympathy will prevail. Tangible results may not immediately materialize, but some seeds will drop and these will yield a plentiful harvest later on.

Children born on this October 2 may, and probably will, be a disappointment in early years. Just prior to adolescence, however, they will astonish all concerned—including themselves—by a new outlook on life. They will then begin to work hard, study unremittingly, and become affectionate, tolerant and sympathetic.

You, if born on October 2, are capable of ascending to sublime heights or descending to abysmal depths. There are always two distinct individualisms striving within you for supremacy. You have the best intentions in the world and really mean to do what is right. On the other hand, your pleasure-loving proclivities are very apt to make you wander far from the "straight and narrow." Your horoscope says that this internal tug of war will continue until romance steps in and, by the strength of passion that it invokes, makes you discard, once and for all, "the aching for the flesh pots."

Nature gifted you in a niggardly fashion. Mentally, you are away above the average, and, physically, you are brave and courageous. A spirit of adventure often impels you to do things that are foolhardy—and you get away with it. Until you "settle down," your life will be colorful, exciting and full of "ups and downs." Once you realize that life is real and earnest, your habits will change and you will become a stickler for everything that is conventional. You will be an uncompromising critic of those who do not live according to the rules and by-laws laid down by Mrs. Grundy. You will forget your lurid past, and only live in the respectable present.

Wives of Tomorrow

FRANCES M'DONALD

By FRANCES M'DONALD.

Why Men Stay Single!

THIS is written with a view of answering several "very important" queries that have bee nasked in your column, and oh, so many others.

Yes, my dear young ladies, there are at least a few decent fellows left on the face of the earth, in spite of all that you have done to wreck them. But, may I ask, when do you think that they will be bothered with ginguzzling, cigaret-smoking females, such as are running around these days.

In three years I have been out with four girls. One was a very nice young lady to meet, seemed well educated, and had evidently a good cultural background, but by the time the evening was over, at least as far as I was concerned, she wanted to go places, "where I can get a decent drink." Number 2 was a college girl, and had as much real education and intelligence as a "housefly." All she did all evening was to smoke cigarettes and talk about her relatives, and the wonderful fellows that she had met on her only visit to the city. Number 3 was hopeless, one of the type that I suppose could be called chronic gigglers. All she said all evening was "Oh, you're a scream!" The last attempt was number 4. A charming young thing who was more interested in whether I had tried the new Rhumba or whether I preferred Scotch or rye.

I have been asked by friends why I didn't go out with so and so, that she was "just crazy" to go out with me, but what is the use? All that would occur all evening would be the same routine. Some day I will meet a girl, I hope, who can talk about something but cocktails and dances, and even though she is as homely as an "alley cat," as far as facial beauty goes, she will be more beautiful than the rose, for she will be a companion.

Please do not think that I want a funeral sort of person, for I like gayety as well as any one else, but where is there gayety in drinking, smoking and telling risque' stories, especially when we have good theaters and wonderful scenery to go and see?

Therefore, I say that until I meet a young lady who is a young lady, and not one of Hollywood's imitation of what a young lady should be, there is one decent fellow, I hope, who is not available for exploitation.

Creamy Frosting.

3 tablespoons butter
1 tablespoon hot coffee
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon vanilla
1 cup sifted confectioner's sugar

Jane Interprets the Mode

New York, Oct. 1.

THE one most important point of the new fashions is at the sleeve and shoulder region. So-o-o-o many things are being done with them nowadays that it's dizzying and, of course, extremely interesting.

There are three types of sleeves on daytime frocks that stand out from the general mass, as it were—the balloon-top sleeves, tight between wrist and elbow or a little higher; the rather loose, straight sleeve which is attached to a wide shoulder yoke that ends midway between shoulder and elbow, and the peasant-puffed sleeve, with the puff over the elbow and tight above and below this. Coats, of course, don't have puffed sleeves, but they do interesting things with fur just the same. Sometimes the sleeve is fur from wrist to elbow, or else from elbow to shoulder—and the very smartest and newest are entirely fur!

And shoulders? These are drop-shoulder effects, given by wide shoulder yokes, kimono style or raglan. They are roomy and generally square. And though there is an occasional sloping shoulder, it, too, is comfortably roomy.

A Happy Housewife's Hints.

Dionne writes: "L'ls Lovebug is all right again, thank goodness. But when she was in bed the thing that she adored most of all was the glass globe you sent her. You know—the one that's full of flying snowflakes when you shake it. I know you can buy them in the 10-cent store, but I hadn't any idea how much they would amuse a child!"

• • • •

In these days of crisp, golden weather, lovely ladies are just flying to outdoor sports! 'N' they find themselves very grateful to Dame Fashion for the little sports ensembles that are jacketed—for one needs a jacket for warmth, while a coat is so-o-o-o apt to be bulky. Just such a wearable and chic little sports ensemble is the one I illustrate today. The frock's of dark green jersey, with a bodice closing in the new cross-over way, and zigzag incrustations on the skirt. 'N' the warm and perky little hand-knitted jacket is waistcoat style, very snug over the hips, and striped in eggshell, orange and green!

• • • •

Jacket hand-knitted, you notice! You clever fingered ladies who can knit your own are fortunate, for the rest of us adore them and have to pay dollars 'n' dollars for them.

• • • •

And in the world of sports, hats and scarves are all-important. The saucy ensemble that I sketch for you today is of black cashmere, embroidered in red, gray and brown wools, incrusted with red leather and with little gold motifs.

• • • •

All Paris expressed in one little bitty pocketbook! Wel-l-l-l-l, maybe not all Paris, but about 80 American dollars in francs worth of Paris. It's irresistibly lovely, this bag of mine, with its marcasite top and its Parisian flounces. And I discovered that it's makable, too, and wrote a leaflet about it for my dear public. So why not send your stamped, self-addressed envelope off in a great big hurry to the Dare department of The Post for your copy. You know how Lovely Ladies just grab any opportunity for acquiring more and lovelier bags!

Au Revoir!

CULBERTSON ON CONTRACT

By ELY CULBERTSON

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

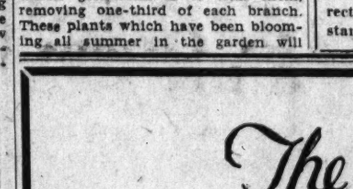
SAVE YOUR PARTNER FROM ERROR.

MANY a contract has been fulfilled at the Bridge table because the defending players did not help their partners to play correctly by correct counting of the hands. The question of distribution is an important factor in the bidding. Its place in the play is no less important. The hold-up of an Ace frequently will result in defeating a contract which would be made by the play of it on the first or second round of the suit and a little concentration upon the distribution of the suits as revealed in the bidding and confirmed in the play.

Below is a hand that arose in expert rubber play in a New York Bridge Club. Neither side was vulnerable, but North-South had a partial score of 90. East, Dealer.



The Bidding:

East	South	West	North
1♣	1♠	Pass	1NT
2♣	2♠	Pass	Pass
Pass

The bidding requires no particular comment, as it followed quite conventional lines. The play, however, furnished to West an opportunity for accurate defense, which he failed entirely to grasp.

The Play:

(Figures after plays in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

West	North	East	South
1—♣5	♣8	♣10	♠4
2—♡2	♡K	♡J(1)	♡3
3—♠2	♠5	♠4	♠Q
4—♠6	♠3	♠10	♠A
5—♣9	♣6	♣K	♠3
6—◇A	◇3	◇9	◇4
7—♡9	♡Q	♡A	♡4
8—♣2	♣9	♣A(2)	♠7

South makes balance—three-odd.

1—Giving up one heart trick which North must always make, but killing a re-entry in Dummy, and preparing the way to make 2 heart tricks if West obtains the lead.

2—East should know from West's return of the highest heart (the nine) that West has not five hearts. East, however, failing to make this inference, guessed wrong, and played South as having the other club. West, however, at trick six can protect his partner against any possibility of an error.

West should refuse to win the first and second leads in diamonds, but should take the third trick. The Declarer will then have no further entry in Dummy and must lose 2 heart tricks, even if East lays down the Ace of clubs. West can be sure that he will not lose the Ace of diamonds by this play if he will simply take the trouble to count the hands. East must have held five clubs (he had bid 1-2-3). He must have at least three hearts, as the lead of the Knave under the circumstances shows A J 10. He has shown three spades. Consequently, he must have held three hearts and two diamonds, or four hearts and one diamond. South has shown six spades and one club. It is impossible for him to have four hearts. Consequently, he must have at least three diamonds. If he held four diamonds originally, no play would defeat the hand. It will thus be seen that West can lose nothing by the hold-up of the diamond Ace until the third round. He could have gained much—namely, the defeat of the contract.

TODAY'S POINTER.

In bidding it is important to weigh the hand of balanced pattern against the hand of unbalanced pattern, and select notrump as the final bid only when it is clear that there are no suit bids available which carry with them the extra bonus of long suits and ruffling tricks.

Indoor and Outdoor Gardens

BRINGING YOUR GARDEN INDOORS.

SO many people stand aghast when they realize that their garden is over for this season. They want to save everything in sight and yet realize the futility of this. It is not practical for more reasons than one. Therefore, we must lift only plants that will yield 100 per cent dividends when it comes to converting them into house plants.

The question of geraniums must be solved first, for every garden has them. There are three things you may do with these plants.

The most practical, provided you have space, is to take off cuttings from the old plants and thus start an entire new stock of these friendly little flowers. If started now you should have blooming plants by the first of May, possibly before that date. For these cuttings use a good garden soil, sand and manure in equal parts.

The second thing you may do is to lift the plants and hang them (tops down) to the rafters in a sunny, well-ventilated part of your cellar, where they will, without any further attention, keep alive until next spring.

The third and less desirable way to winter geraniums is to trim them, removing one-third of each branch. These plants which have been blooming all summer in the garden will not bloom in the house in winter, but they will keep alive and at once start to grow and set buds when planted in the open in the spring.

Should you have snapdragons in your garden, at this time do not forget that these plants will not only live but really bloom if you cut them back to within six inches of the roots and lift them to a warm, sunny window. They may take a little time to get over being disturbed, but they will grow and flower in the house before Christmas.

Ageratums are worth lifting and carrying indoors. Cut the plants back severely, put them in small pots, set in a shady place and water. Do not bring them indoors until forced to do so by the fear of frost. Spray them at least twice a week while indoors with cold, soapy water to prevent the advent of the red spider. If kept in a sunny window these plants should continue to bloom until after the holidays.

METHODISTS VOTE JUDICIAL COUNCIL

New Body Limits Bishops' Powers; Mouzon Sounds Moral Warning.

Roanoke, Va., Oct. 1 (A.P.).—The Baltimore Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church South today voted overwhelmingly in favor of a judicial council which would have appellate powers and would limit the powers of bishops.

Other business transacted at a crowded session included passage of the characters of ministers and hearing of addresses by Bishop Edwin D. Mouzon and the Rev. F. M. Watson, jr.

The conference referred four names to the committee on superannuate relations before the close of the morning session. These were the Rev. W. H. Marsh, the Rev. L. B. Atkins, the Rev. H. L. Houtt, of the Alexandria district, and the Rev. E. W. Brubaker, of the Lewisburg district, who are incapacitated for further active service in the ministry of their church.

Two-Thirds Majority Needed.

Bishop Mouzon called for the constitutional question near the opening of this morning's session and Dr. H. M. Canter, the secretary, read the proposed amendment, which was adopted by a vote of 205 to 31 without discussion.

The amendment, to be made part of the church's constitution, must receive a two-thirds majority at three-fourths of the annual conference meetings. Churchmen here yesterday were of the opinion that the measure generally would be adopted by the other conferences.

The measure provides for a judicial council composed of 5 traveling preachers and 4 laymen elected by the general conference, which meets every 4 years, from a list of 20 traveling elders and 16 laymen of the church nominated by the bishops. The term of office is for 8 years.

The appellate powers of the body are: It can pass upon the constitutionality of the general conference or annual conferences and it can pass upon appeals of traveling preachers, or the bishops, except when passing upon the character or the efficiency of the bishops, or from connectional boards or bodies of the church. This body also has the power to arrest acts of connectional boards and bodies of the church. The decision of the council is final.

Warns Middle-Aged Men.

Bishop Mouzon opened the morning session with a devotional address upon the text, "Let us run with patience the race that is set before us," in which he stated that he was profoundly concerned for his church, for the ministry and for himself.

"Every minister of the gospel should be above suspicion," he stated. "Thank God that even wicked men believe the church should be above suspicion."

Warning against the moral lapses characteristic of middle-aged men was issued by the presiding bishop.

"There is always a possibility of reverting to the past, if you have been sinful. Don't think you have run the race until you have completed it. That man is already dead who does not have an ideal to attain. The period of middle age is the period of danger. I am not uneasy about old men or the young men. I've trusted young men time and again, and have never been seriously disappointed but in one."

He concluded with the exhortation to the ministers to be pioneers. "One sure way of getting a promotion is to make it."

Fairfax Liquor Net Gets District Men

One Arrested After Accident; Other Jailed at End of 20-Mile Chase.

Two Washington men were arrested in Fairfax County, Va., yesterday on charges of violating the State prohibition law.

Harvey E. Renois, of 2821 Thirteenth street northwest, was arrested by Deputy Sheriff Paul Herrman after an accident at Bailey's Cross roads. He was charged with driving while under the influence of intoxicating liquor. Renois told the police that he was an employe of the Government Printing Office. He is alleged to have struck the car of Marion Riley while crossing the intersection of the roads at a high rate of speed, turning his car over. Both cars were badly damaged. Renois was given a preliminary hearing before Justice of the Peace John B. Dowden at Bailey's Cross roads and held under $500 bond for the grand jury at the November term of the Fairfax County Circuit Court.

James Carper, of 632 I street northwest, was arrested by State Motor Vehicle Inspector T. F. Stafford, of Warrenton, Va., at the end of a 20-mile chase at about 70 miles an hour. Inspector Stafford stated at a hearing before Justice of the Peace Thomas P. Chapman at Fairfax that he chased Carper from Gainesville, Va., on the Lee highway to a point near Fairfax. Part of a half gallon of alleged liquor was found in the car. Carper was chaged with reckless driving and with transportation and possession of ardent spirits, and ordered held for the November grand jury. Failing to give bond, he was lodged in the Fairfax County Jail.

Nomination of Mrs. Harry Colfax Grove as State regent of the District of Columbia Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution was announced yesterday following a meeting Wednesday night at the Mount Pleasant Library.

Mrs. Grove, who is now vice State regent, and the other officers nominated, will have no opposition due to the decision of the independent group of the local chapter not to put up a slate. This decision was announced at the meeting by Mrs. Albert N. Baggs, regent of the Maj. L'Enfant Chapter and chairman of the independent group.

No Opposition Offered.

Mrs. Baggs explained that the independent group had been encouraged to refrain from offering any opposition due to the fact that the election will take place at the State conference in March, at the height of the celebration of the George Washington Bicentennial.

This will be one of the rare occasions on which complete harmony is expected to prevail at a D. A. R. conference. Miss Helen Harman, the present State regent and official hostess for the local D. A. R. during the bicentennial year, is credited with having brought about this spirit of amity.

Announcement Is Surprise.

Mrs. Baggs, in asking for the floor to make her announcement, which came as a surprise to the nearly 100 members present, was accompanied by three national officers, Mrs. David D. Caldwell, vice president general; Mrs. John M. Beavers, national chairman of the buildings and grounds committee, and Mrs. James Henry Harper, director of the Children of the American Revolution.

The other candidates nominated are: Mrs. George Grimes, vice State regent; Mrs. Edward M. Weeks, State chaplain; Mrs. Maude T. Cappo, recording secretary; Mrs. Jean Labat, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. A. Y. Cazemova, historian. The nominee for treasurer is to be announced later.

Federal Barges Prosper As Shippers Economize

(Associated Press.)

Hard times have boosted the business of at least one concern—the Government Inland Waterways Corporation.

Officials of the corporation, which operates the Federal barge lines, said yesterday that shippers, with their margin of profit lowered, were seeking the cheapest means of transportation.

"We're making money, "Maj. Gen. T. O. Ashburn, director of barge lines operations, said. "We expect to continue to make money. In addition, we have $3,000,000 on the $10,000,000 Congress voted us three years ago in reserve."

Ashburn said he did not expect to ask Congress for any more money.

The barge line cleared approximately $150,000 during the first seven months of this year. It has put 321 steamboats and barges on the Mississippi and its tributaries.

The law setting up the corporation provided for the eventual transfer of the boats to private ownership. Gen. Ashburn believes, however, that the time for disposal of the lines has not come.

"It might undo all the good we have done," he said. "The barge line is not yet firmly enough established. Besides the law directed us to install the service on the Missouri and Illinois Rivers. We have not done that yet."

Zoning Body to Receive $1,500 Pay for Services

The city council in Alexandria yesterday appropriated $1,500 to compensate the city zoning commission for services in zoning the city to permit preparation of a comprehensive zoning ordinance. Two letters from the commission were read, each requesting payment of $300.

Replying to a previous request, the council had given the commission a resolution of thanks for its efficient work, with the explanation that no other city in Virginia had paid compensation to a zoning commission. The members of the commission are George E. Garrett, chairman; John U. Reardon, secretary; R. L. Kane, Nicholas J. Lawler and B. B. Earine.

ALEXANDRIA GETS TAX MORATORIUM

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

The city council of Alexandria yesterday adopted a resolution providing that, in view of present-day conditions, taxpayers will be permitted, as a temporary measure, to pay their real estate taxes for 1930 and prior years in such installments as they may desire.

Heretofore taxes have been payable in two installments, and no payment of less than one-half the taxes then due could be accepted by the city collector. Mayor Edmund F. Ticer, who offered the resolution, said several taxpayers had told that while they were unable to pay the full amount of taxes due, they could pay in small installments, and he felt that the city would profit by accepting the small payments, rather than take drastic action to collect the full amounts at once. The resolution does not apply to taxes for the current year.

A communication was received from William T. Reed, chairman of the committee on unemployment in Virginia, taking a census of unemployed asking the cooperation of Alexandrians. It was decided that Dr. W. Lewis Schaffer, city health officer, will conduct the census on October 6. All unemployed, as well as those only employed part time, will be asked to fill out blanks.

Tax Equalization Asked.

A letter received from Attorney Henry P. Thomas, asking that the council consider an equalization of tax rates for the various laundries of the city, was read, and Mr. Thomas will be advised by the city manager that the matter will be considered when the annual ordinance comes up just prior to January 1.

A request from W. H. Meyers for a permit to build a store and dwelling at Belmont avenue and Braddock road was held for consideration.

Attorney Presents Book.

Attorney James R. Caton gave the council a book of which he is the author, and the city manager was instructed to acknowledge the receipt of the volume with thanks of the council, and to have it bound and placed among the records of the city.

A resolution of thanks from the Fidac International Congress for entertainment received in Alexandria last year has been received by Mayor Ticer and will be hung in the city hall. When the Fidac Congress met in Washington the delegates were entertained at tea in historic Gadsby's Tavern.

A resolution offered by Councilman Herbert to close Franklin street from the east side of Union street eastwardly to the Potomac River, and the Strand from the south side of Wolfe street southward to the southern corporate limits of the city, was adopted.

A petition from J. Lee Price for a permit to erect a church building and a school on Dick street and Washington avenue, for the Seventh Day Adventists, was received and referred to the city engineer and city manager for recommendations.

Alexandria Man Draws Fine and Jail Sentence as Second Offense.

A number of prohibition cases were disposed of yesterday in the Fairfax County Circuit Court. In each case the defendants agreed to dispense with a jury trial and the cases were heard by Judge Walter T. McCarthy. J. V. Praether, of Alexandria, was fined $200 and costs and sentenced to serve six months in jail on an indictment charging second violation of the State prohibition law.

Raymond N. Jones and Clifton Gaskins were fined $100 and costs and 30 days in jail each on charges of operating automobiles while under the influence of liquor.

H. L. Wells was fined $50 and costs and sentenced to 30 days in jail on a charge of transportation of ardent spirits; Robert Toler, was fined $50 and costs and sentenced to 30 days in jail on a charge of transportation and possession of ardent spirits. Montgomery Democrats Move to Enlist Women

In order that Democracy may present a united front in the coming presidential campaign in Montgomery County, Md., members of the executive committee of the Women's Democratic Club of Montgomery County voted yesterday at its meeting in the Bethesda County Building, to seek membership among all Democratic women.

The board decided that it needs the cooperation of every Democratic woman, and that it will be necessary therefore, to act as an independent organization, regardless of county factions.

The organization has been "accused" of supporting the administration faction in the county, and it is hoped this will be obviated by concerted action of all Democratic women under its banner, according to members of the board.

The board, therefore, decided to invite every registered Democratic woman in the county to attend the annual meeting in November, when officers will be elected and plans discussed for participation in the national presidential campaign. Miss Ruth Shoemaker, chairman, was authorized to form clubs throughout the county on this basis.

The board was informed that Mrs. C. E. Roach, of Chevy Chase, former chairman of the county club and at present corresponding secretary of the State organization, has been chosen as State chairman by the nominating committee of the United Democratic Women's Clubs of Maryland, which will hold their annual convention at Baltimore October 14 and 15. Each of the twelve branches in the county is urged to send delegates to the convention.

The following nominating committee to select a slate for election of officers of the county organization was selected by Miss Shoemaker: Mrs. Robert D. Hagner, of Bethesda, chairman; Mrs. Johanna Ryan, of Glen Echo, and Mrs. James Gott, of Rockville.

NEW PARKING RULES MADE FOR BETHESDA

Telephone Wisconsin 4205.

Importance of Bethesda as a shopping center for the western section of Montgomery County was recognized yesterday by the Montgomery County Commissioners in promulgating new traffic regulations for the town. The ordinance deals chiefly with parking of automobiles on Wisconsin avenue, the main business street.

The ordinance prohibits parking on the west side of Wisconsin avenue and the Rockville-Georgetown pike between Edgemoor lane and Watkins avenue, and prohibits parking in front of the State Theater. Parking for more than one hour is prohibited on the west side of Wisconsin avenue between Watkins avenue and Montgomery lane, and on both sides of Wisconsin avenue, from Leland street to Walsh street.

All vehicles must be parked parallel to the curb on the west side of Wisconsin avenue, between Watkins avenue and Montgomery lane, and on both sides between Leland and Walsh streets. Penalties for violating the ordinances are fixed at a fine of not more than $50 or more than 30 days in jail. County police are charged with the duty of enforcing the new law, which becomes effective November 1.

The county commissioners received the report of Judge A. L. Wilson, of the Takoma Park Police Court, for the month of September. Judge Wilson's report showed that fines and costs totaling $318.50 were collected, of which $45 goes to the motor vehicle commissioner for motor vehicle law violations.

Following a survey of the number of children crossing Wisconsin avenue at Grafton street to the Somerset School, conducted by Sergt. Leroy Rodgers, of the Bethesda Substation, Montgomery County Police, County Commissioner Robert D. Hagner has informed Curtis Walker, chairman of the committee on police and public safety of section 2, Chevy Chase, that the stationing of a policeman at that intersection is not warranted. The commisioner suggested the establishment of a schoolboy patrol, instead.

Mr. Hagner declared, however, that a policeman would be stationed there if the number of children crossing the street warrants it. Police officials will continue to keep the intersection under surveillance to determine whether larger numbers of children are crossing.

Two Held on Liquor Charge.

Two Washington colored men, John Stewart and Robert Frederick, were arrested in Brentwood last night and charged with illegal possession and transportation of ten cases of liquor. They were arrested by Policeman R. E. Brown, who chased them when the pair deserted their car. Both were locked up in the Hyattsville Jail.

ARLINGTON SHERIFF HITS RUM ACCUSER

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Amid the cheers of more than 300 citizens who filled the Lyon Park Community House to its capacity last night and large groups on the lawn who failed to gain entrance, Sheriff Howard B. Fields answered an attack made by one of his opponents that there are today more bootleggers in the county than ever before. He said: "If I live until Monday, October 19, when the grand jury meets, not mentioning any names, he will be given an opportunity to tell the grand jury what he knows. There are doubtless some men within the hearing of my voice who will be on that grand jury. You heard what was said and I hope you will make him tell you what he knows."

Seeking his third term, Sheriff Fields said: "I stand on my record of the last eight years and ask your support on election day.

"I am the first and only sheriff of Arlington County that has maintained an office in the courthouse with a telephone, and fully equipped," he said.

Says Gamblers Raided.

"I defy any man or woman to say that there is a gambling den in this county that has not been raided. The police force of this county, under my supervision, has been built from three men to eleven, and officers have been stationed at the schools in the county.

"I ask you to investigate my office, either through Richmond or through any attorney in the county for whom I have served papers.

A. C. Clements, former sheriff, the next speaker, said that he had maintained an office in the courthouse, but that he did not have time to stay in it.

"I admit that Arlington County has an excellent police force, and if elected I will retain those who have been efficient and make replacements where necessary."

Edward Duncan, who started the fireworks, declared that there are more bootleggers in Arlington County than ever before. I say the police of Arlington County are the best politicians that there are in the county. Amid loud laughter he said, "They are going around pleading votes for Fields, fearing they will lose their jobs."

Schultze Lauds Fields.

Carl A. Schultze stated that he considered Sheriff Fields an efficient officer, and when Mr. Fields arose to reply to attacks made upon him offered the time he was allotted but did not use.

Harry K. Green, seeking his fourth term as commissioner of revenue, the next speaker, said: "Four years ago I asked that an investigation of my office be made. It was made, and I was reelected with a handsome majority. I ask that it again be made this year.

"It has been said by former Gov. Harry Byrd of Virginia that the office of commissioner of revenue of Arlington County was the best in the State. This," said Mr. Green, "has not been due to me, but to my able assistants and deputies and the confidence that the voters of the county have had in me."

C. W. Clever, who is opposing Mr. Green, stated that his experience as an accountant for more than twelve years and many years in the real estate business fitted him for the office.

The meeting was held under the auspices of the Lyon Park Citizens Association, with Arthur Orr, president, presiding.

Montgomery County Club Plans Drive for Existence

The Montgomery Country Club gained a new lease on life last night at a meeting held in its socially and politically historic hall. The membership voted to keep the club open for another month in order to permit time for a drive to gain new members.

Action on the future of the club was postponed until another meeting, which will be held November 4. It was decided that a drive for new members probably would bring in a large enough membership to carry the club through to continued activity, according to Nicholas Brewer, of the board of directors.

The condition of the club was not really known by the membership, even by the board of directors, until a few weeks ago when they were surprised by the announcement that its membership and revenues had been lowered so that carrying on was a real problem. There has been no membership campaign for a number of years and the older members somewhat apologetically announced that they felt the situation more a result of carelessness than any functional trouble in the organization.

The club has been the scene of many notable social and political gatherings in the past and a more roseate future than was forecast a few days ago is now in view, members declare. Donald A. DeLashmutt, of Rockville, is president.

Man Gets 5 Years On Murder Charge

New Trial Is Denied After Conviction for Slaying in Rum Bout.

Luray, Va., Oct. 1 (A.P.).—Herbert J. Minor, jr., of Shenandoah, Va., today was convicted of second degree murder, and sentenced to five years in the penitentiary for the fatal shooting of James F. Lucas in the Lucas home, near here, May 28. A notice of a new trial was denied by the court. The jury deliberated two hours after taking the case late this afternoon.

Defense witnesses testified that Lucas on his death bed told neighbors the shooting was an accident, and that Mrs. Lucas told them that Minor shot her husband accidentally. Minor, on the stand in his own defense, said he went to the Lucas home to trade guns and get whisky. He said they passed the night of May 27-28 drinking. He asserted he had no recollection of what happened after midnight.

Mrs. Mamie Lucas, the widow, testified that she saw Minor fire the shot that killed her husband about 4 a. m. She and her father, John Yaeger, asserted the opinion that Minor was sober, and came to the Lucas home with the intention of "starting a fight."

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

EVIDENTLY I am not the only one who has suffered.

Since putting the finger on rowdyism in the downtown, first-run motion picture theaters in this space a day or two ago, I have been deluged—no less—with offers of cooperation from the multitude of attendants at the movies who are heartily sick of having their pleasure ruined by the hoodlums who seem to specialize in new bills, for no better purpose than to spoil the enjoyment of those seated near them.

There have been some very elegant retributive measures suggested—far surpassing my own modest bat-swinging and blackjack-wielding—but I am still in just a bit of a quandary as to how a kettle of boiling oil can be managed in the loge of a modern theater.

Veterans of the playhouse who long have been accustomed to the genial helpfulness of "Jimmie" Hughes, for many years the efficient treasurer of Poli's and for the past two seasons associated with the Shubert-Belasco Theater, today will pause as the hour of 2 is sounded to pay the tribute of a kindly thought to the man whose passing marks a definite loss to the box-offices of the Capital.

Jimmie was a World War veteran who for many months had been a patient at Mount Alto Hopital. His obsequies will be celebrated this afternoon at the Martin Hysong funeral home, with interment in Arlington National Cemetery.

Vale, old friend.

You probably have noticed it, and this is pretty late in the week to be bringing it to your attention even if you haven't, but the famous "I am the shadow"—even to the soft and beguiling chuckles that have made this detective figure a radio mystery of mysteries—at last has come to the talking screen.

The Rialto this week is presenting the first of the "Shadow" series, with a dozen or so more to follow at fortnightly intervals. The current short thriller was adapted from Herman Landon's "Burglar to the Rescue."

This Author Landon, by the way, was once the incumbent of an editorial post on a Washington newspaper. He has since those struggling days carved out a successful career for himself as a writing man.

It seems that a little group of enthusiasts has been meeting at the Arts Club one Saturday in the month during the past several winters to study the writing, acting and producing of plays. They are known as the "Workshop."

Some evenings they have read their own plays for criticism; sometimes they have produced these same plays, or others, as if in the classroom, without scenery or costumes. Again they have presented complete and finished performances of one-act plays, chosen fr[om] the best of the work done by their members.

Last year the Workshop sponsored a one-act play contest, and in May the prize-winning plays were presented in the garden of the Arts Club. This year another contest is under way, to close on the fifteenth of October.

This season the group will inaugurate its activities on October 17 by the production of two one-act plays—"St. George of the Alley" and "Veils," both from the pen of Mrs. Alfred Schaublin. Mrs. Schaublin will direct "St. George," and "Veils" will be directed by Mrs. William F. Baker.

An interesting evening is assured those who attend—and you might even get your play produced, who can tell?

Even the great can stumble.

According to a brief item in the last issue of the Motion Picture Herald, Lee Duncan is at San Antonio, Tex., with Rin-Tin-Tin, the canniest of the police dogs that were taught to act, working plenty hard for steaks—dog biscuit—bones—any old thing! What will you offer?

Several attention-callers have prodded me for not having mentioned the swell-elegant piece of work done by Ruthelma Stevens in the role of the office of secretary in "Once in a Lifetime," still bowling them over at the Belasco, in Tuesday's review of that provocative burlesque.

The point is extremely well taken—and so was the part.

I had planned to have Fifi D'Orsay out to the house to dinner during the brief gasp that is the intermission between her last afternoon and first night performance, but by one of those diabolical combinations of circumstances my revered mother—the mainspring of the Bell establishment—was taken mildly ill, I fell victim to a passing misery, the cook succumbed to a desperate attack of something or other, and when I talked with her over the phone Fifi didn't feel so well herself!

Oh, well, that's the way it goes!

And how, if I am not too inquisitive, have YOU been?

MORTGAGE BANKERS WILL GO TO DALLAS

Capital Delegation to Attend Convention There Set for October 27.

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Washington members of the Mortgage Bankers Association of America are preparing to attend its eighteenth annual convention at Dallas, October 27 to 29. They will hear at this meeting why $7,000,000,000 in mortgages now held by life insurance companies constitutes an important factor in the financing of city and farm real estate. This will be told them by S. F. Westbrook, vice president, Aetna Life Insurance Co., Hartford, Conn.

He will speak on "Administration of Mortgage Loans and Lands From the Home Office Standpoint," and will recount the experience with this form of life company investment, the total of which has been doubled in the last seven years and is five times the amount held 20 years ago.

Of the total now invested, nearly $2,000,000,000 are in farm mortgages and more than $5,000,000,000 in mortgages, including those on single and duplex dwellings, apartment buildings, commercial and office buildings and, in a lesser number of cases, special purpose structures.

Theme of Convention.

"The Future of Mortgage Banking" is the theme of the convention, which will include addresses and discussions having to do with business practices and economic and legislative affairs affecting borrowers, investors, banks and mortgage loan companies. General sessions will be held each morning and group meetings, each afternoon, will deal with special topics. Between 400 and 500 delegates are expected from the 40 States in which the association has members.

Eighty million dollars in cash to 400,000 American families for paying bills and meeting emergencies will be advanced by Household Finance Corporation during 1931, according to an estimate made yesterday by L. C. Harbison, president.

"This averages $200 to 1 out of every 30 families in the trading areas of the 89 cities served by our 148 branch offices," said Mr. Harbison. "Since the first of the year we have been advancing more than $250,000 daily in cash amounts up to $300 to from 800 to 1,200 families. So far this year $55,000,000 has been advanced to more than 270,000 families."

Signs of Hidden Money.

Signs indicate that there is probably more money hidden under mattresses, in vases on the old family mantelpiece, and under loose bricks by the fireplace than at any time in history, according to a study by Investors Syndicate, with local offices.

The regular Federal Reserve figures showing the amount of currency in circulation now stand approximately 25 per cent above the average for the last five years, or $1,000,000,000 above normal. With such a large amount of currency outstanding, yet with business subnormal, it is clear, the study reminds, that where a dollar bill changed hands ten times during a day in 1929 it is carried around in some one's pocket all day long in 1931.

In past depressions, the study recalls, this hoarding has been one of the last developments before a general upturn. With such a large amount of currency in the hands of the ultimate consumer, it takes only a small increase in the speed of circulation to make a significant improvement in trade

Car Reductions Seen.

The American Railway Association announced yesterday that shippers of the country, through estimates just submitted to the Shippers' Regional Advisory Boards anticipate that carload shipments of the 29 principal commodities in the fourth quarter of 1931 will be approximately 8,153,250 cars, a reduction of 508,000 cars or 7.8 per cent below the corresponding period in 1930.

Richard C. Hunt, chairman of the reorganization committee, announced yesterday that the committee had completed the formulation of the triutilities reorganization plan and that copies would be available for distribution to security holders as soon as printing was completed on or about October 5, 1931.

E. E. Mountjoy, local representative of the American Bankers Association, will attend the association's convention at Atlantic City and take part in its sessions.

Silas E. Moore, National Metropolitan Bank, assistant manager of the Washington Clearing House Association, has returned to his duties, after having recovered from the effects of an automobile accident.

Miss Grace M. Bromley, assistant secretary, District of Columbia bankers Association, will attend the convention of the American Bankers Association at Atlantic City next week.

CHEAP BONDS LISTED IN PAR REDEMPTIONS

New York, Oct. 1 (A.P.).—Holders of the foreign bonds that would bring only $1,760,000 in the open market can redeem them today for a total of $3,550,000.

These bonds have been drawn by lot for redemption at par under sinking fund provisions. Some fortunate holders of drawn numbers can redeem their bonds for cash amounting to two, three, four and even five times what they could get for them in the open market, even though the bonds are virtually all payable in gold dollars, and not directly affected by fluctuations of other currencies.

Bankers for the Republic of Brazil are redeeming $413,500 of that country's bonds at par, while recent market prices have been around one-fifth of that. This extreme case is due in part to the fact that Brazil has announced that this redemption will be the last for an indefinite period or until economic conditions improve in that country.

Other Low Issues.

Several other issues, in which there have been no official suggestions of default, are selling at less than half their redemption values. These low prices reflect in a considerable degree uncertainty over their future and forced jettisoning of holdings through need of funds.

Holders of 651 bonds of the Free State of Prussia will be able to redeem them on October 15 at $1,000 per bond of that par value, while they are now selling around one-third of that. Poland's 8 per cent issue has thus far been regularly drawn by lot for redemption at somewhat above par to the extent of 2 per cent of the entire issue annually, but the bonds are quoted in the market at little more than half of par.

In the more palmy days of finance, some speculators, particularly in London, made a practice of buying a few depressed bonds before drawings in the hope of holding a few lucky numbers.

Chance Is Long One.

Americans have never shown much interest in this sort of speculation, and in these times traders in London have little heart for it. As a matter of fact, the chance of drawing a number is a long one, for semiannual drawings usually amount to only one-half of 1 per cent of the issue.

Many bonds are not retired by drawings. Some governments, in setting up the provisions of a sinking fund, have been willing to acknowledge that their issue may at times fall below par.

Naturally it is only the holder of a depressed issue that likes to have his bond drawn for redemption at par. In normal times it is bad rather than good fortune to have a bond of high rating and liberal yield drawn at this time. For instance, $386,000 par value of Nord Railway of France 6½ per cents is being redeemed at par today. The current open market price is around par, but has recently been several points above.

List of Drawings.

The following table shows the amount of foreign bonds (at par) which have been drawn for redemption today, together with the redemption price per bond of $1,000 par value, in contrast to recent market quotations.

	Redemp. Price.	Market.

The more drastic deflation of open market values of foreign dollar bonds had been largely confined to Latin American and central European issues until the recent lapses from the gold standard by England and the Scandinavian countries sent virtually all issues sliding for a time. There has been considerable recovery in many issues this week.

Of the United States foreign investments of more than $15,000,000,000, about $8,000,000,000 represent bonds, roughly three-quarters of which are the obligations of governments and municipalities. German and South American issues held in this country approximate some $3,000,000,000 at parity, and the bulk of these issues are selling around half their par values, although there have been no defaults on German issues. The holders of numbers of several apparently have thrills in store, as they are drawn by lot for redemption.

Argentina to Pay Notes For 50 Millions in Full

New York, Oct. 1 (A.P.).—The full amount of fund necessary to pay the $50,000,000 Argentine government one-year notes, with interest, due today has been received by the banking group headed by Brown Brothers Harriman & Co. completing the refunding operation.

Complete returns from the subscriptions of American corporations operating in the Argentine to the new six and nine months loan have not been totaled, but it was said they probably will approximate $5,000,000. The banking group purchased $20,000,000 new notes.

STOCK PRICE LOSSES CUT BY FINAL RALLY

New York, Oct. 1 (A.P.).—The stock market struggled through several fits of extreme depression today, but managed to close with a rally.

Although the late upturn was insufficient to cancel all of the losses, it nevertheless reduced them substantially, and few pivotal issues finished higher. The average net decline in leading issues was 1.4 points, the smallest of the week. Activity increased rather substantially, sales totaling 3,590,640 shares.

At their worst, the so-called Blue Ribbon stocks looked badly bedraggled. American Telephone was thrown for an extreme loss of 4 points; which it cut to 1. The day's low was 126⅝. United States Steel, after breaking under 70, the lowest in 16 years, closed ⅛ up. General Electric flopped to 26½ and General Motors to 22½, but the former's net loss was nominal and the latter's ¾. Consolidated Gas was steadily pressed most of the day, sagging to 64¾, from which level it made considerable recovery. American Can, Eastman, Westinghouse and a few others returned net advances.

Rails Again Decline.

Rails had been well groomed for the Eastern merger agreement and formal announcement of that decision brought quick selling, probably on the old theory that the good news was out.

Almost simultaneously, the general market swooped into a fresh decline, although it previously had not been unduly troubled by suspension of a stock exchange firm. However, the trend, highly confused all day, again reversed itself in the late trading and prices were advancing when the session ended.

A firmer tone to the Government bond market was helpful. Foreign loans also reflected a feeling of greater confidence toward the European outlook. Domestic corporation bonds, however, showed general weakness.

Believing that short selling is relatively light at the moment, the market is attributing the weakness to real liquidation, much of which is said to be coming from abroad.

Foreign Money Firmer.

It is felt in many quarters, however, that European pressure on this market will soon subside. Foreign currencies are firming, today's rise being led by sterling, which closely approached $4. The final rate on cables was $3.92, or 4 cents higher.

The Canadian dollar reduced its discount as bond maturities payable in American gold were met. Gold earmarkings increased $24,200,000, and more than $6,000,000 was withdrawn for export to France.

Federal Reserve credit expanded more than $250,000,000 chiefly through extensive open-market bill purchases, although Government security holdings and discounts also rose. Circulation was up about $50,000,000.

Weak cables, bearish Argentine estimate and poor export demand brought easier wheat prices, and the close was unchanged to half a cent lower. Corn sagged moderately, influenced by beneficial rains in Kansas. All cotton futures made new lows for the decline, losing 75 to 80 cents net.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, Oct. 1 (A.P.).—Regardless of an unstable stock market, grains kept relatively strong today. Commission house buying of wheat developed volume enough to resist adverse financial factors, purchases being based largely on belief export pressed by trade authorities that grain price deflation had been completed, as shown by slenderness of declines in the last month. A steadying influence of grain was the fact that United States 1931 spring wheat yield, unofficially reported as 61 bushels an acre, was declared the smallest on record, approaching nearer to a failure than ever before known.

Wheat closed firm, unchanged to ½ cent lower; corn ⅛@⅜ off, oats a shade to ⅛ up and provisions at 2 cents to 7 cents advance.

Support for wheat accompanied opinions voiced that hereafter there was likely to be a distinct trend toward buying of commodities, wheat in particular. Country mills were reported as outbidding terminal markets, and primary receipts of wheat today were less than was the case either a week or a year ago. Some unofficial estimates of domestic spring wheat production were as low as 104,000,000 bushels, and the average of forecasts was 113,000,000, compared with 115,000,000 unofficially predicted a month ago. Liverpool reported that large deliveries of wheat there had gone into strong hands.

Although sales of corn to arrive here were large and actual receipts heavy, 197 cars against 77 at this time last year, the corn market emulated wheat and held fairly steady. A reason was that unofficial estimates of corn production, although about as had been looked for, averaged 2,681,000,000 bushels, compared with last month's expectancy of 2,733,000,000. The first two cars of this season's arrivals of corn in Chicago were in today. One from Indiana trading No. 6 yellow sold at 30½ cents a bushel. The other, a car of hot corn from Illinois, no grade, brought 22 cents. Oats crop estimates were reduced materially from a month ago.

Provisions responded to upturns in hog values.

U. S. BONDS HIGHER IN BUYING SUPPORT

Advances Mark Firmer Tone in Foreign Issues; New Lows Persist.

New York, Oct. 1 (A.P.)—Buyers rallied to the support of United States Government obligations in sufficient numbers today to halt the decline of recent sessions that carried several issues below par. Advances ranging up to nearly a point were registered in a large turnover, and provided the most encouraging development of the day's trading.

The presence of bargain hunters was apparent as foreign governments continued the recovery from the low levels of recent years touched by many of them in recent weeks. Most of the changes in the active issues were on the upside and there were only a few noteworthy weak spots.

The load of liquidation under which domestic loans have made successive new lows each day this week was somewhat lighter, but selling pressure was sufficiently persistent to carry many rails, utilities and industrials to new minimums on losses ranging from 1 to about 5 points.

Another encouraging development was the upturn in Canadian government loans and those of the two Canadian railroads, Canadian National and Canadian Pacific. All have fallen several points this week, due to nervousness over the decline in Canadian exchange and the adverse effects of the business depression upon the revenue of the two carriers. Canadian governments advanced 1 to 3 points, and Canadian carrier loans were 1 to 6 higher.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

To the limit of space questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

AMONG CAUSES OF CANCER.

A FEW points about cancer seem to be definitely established. Among them are the following: Prolonged application of certain tars and oils can cause it. Likewise, prolonged exposure to mild irritation.

Inheritance is a factor, though not an outstanding one, in the causation.

Exposure to X-rays and radium can cause it.

Prolonged exposure to sunlight and wind may cause it.

Leucoplakia patches in the mouth are often followed by cancer, though just why is not known.

Cancer of the skin is declining.

Chimney sweep cancer has disappeared.

Cancer generally is very much on the increase.

There are some other opinions, held by good people, that are not so well established.

There has been some difference of opinion as to the responsibility of tar and oils, the reason for which is becoming known. It is pretty generally accepted now that various oils and tars differ in their ability to produce cancer. Drs. Twort investigated the cancer producing power of different mineral oils and confirmed the common view that some were quite dangerous and others but mildly so.

Venezuela oils are the most dangerous. Russia and Pennsylvania oils only one-tenth as high. A great range was found in Texas oils. One specimen from that State had 30 times the cancer causing capacity of another from the same State. There is no report on Oklahoma oils. (What Gov. Murray will do about the discrimination against his State was not part of the report.)

Just what it is in oils and tars that causes cancer has not been decided, though there has been work which shows just about where in the mixture is located the causative material.

The spindle oils have more of it than the heavier grade oils. Certain temperature qualities of oils point to the cause. The method of refining oil has much to do with deciding how much of a cancer producer the product will be. This suggests that by using the right method of refining, oil and tar could be made entirely safe. As soon as this safe process is established a way might be found to adapt it to tobacco so that smokers might be guaranteed against cancer.

Drs. Twort found that adding lanolin to sperm oil greatly reduced its cancer producing properties. Adding of 10 per cent lanolin reduced the cancer producing power of sperm oil by 90 per cent.

TRAINING IS NEEDED.

Mrs. M. L. O. writes: Please tell me what I should do about my 3½-year-old boy. He is very constipated most of the time. His bowels will not move unless I give him a physic or enema. He eats cereal, milk, vegetables, fruits, and mineral oil, but nothing seems to help him.

REPLY.

The constipation habit is made worse by the habitual use of physics, including mineral oil and enemas. You probably need help from a physician. The habit can be overcome by training; by the use of an abundance of water (once a day a glass of weak or normal salt solution should take the place of a glass of water); and by diet. The diet should include plenty of fats and sour milk.

GROVE HURLS ATHLETICS TO 6-2 VICTORY IN OPENER; CARDS PIN HOPES ON HALLAHAN TO EVEN SERIES TODAY

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 1.—Cardinal hopes will be intrusted with "Wild Bill" Hallahan tomorrow in the second game of the world series with Manager Street hewing to his determination to send Derringer against the Athletics in the opener and follow up with his little left-hander, who stemmed the tide of Philadelphia triumphs in the series last year with a shutout victory.

On the premise that Connie Mack, in starting Lefty Grove in the opening game, is going to introduce no radical pitching strategy, George Earnshaw will be on the firing line for the Athletics tomorrow. Earnshaw, like Grove, was a two-time conqueror of the Cardinals in the 1930 series.

Connie Mack was unperturbed during the first-inning assault on Grove today. The game was young yet and it was unlikely that the Cardinals could win with two runs, but in the third inning, in the midst of the Athletics' own uprising, Mack was the most excited personage on the Philadelphia bench.

He had just seen Derringer fan four of his six best hitters in two innings and maybe he envisioned some truth in the tales they told about the pitching prowess of the young St. Louis box ace. But when Philadelphia hits started rattling off their bats and Derringer faltered to the extent of walking both Cochrane and Simmons, Mack forsook the comfort and the dignity of his seat and stood on his feet until four runs were safely across the plate.

The game resulted in mixed emotions for Cardinal fans. There was encouragement in the fact that the National League pennant winners had raked the delivery of the great Grove for twelve hits, more than Mack's ace is wont to permit in two afternoons of toil on the hill, but the ability of Grove to bear down in the pinches dissipated much of the confidence of St. Louis fandom.

Grove appeared to be the same great pitcher out there this afternoon who had toyed with the American League clubs during the past campaign. He had his same blinding speed and the absence of bases on balls is testimony of his control, but the Cardinals were able to connect solidly in frequent cases. The four hits against Grove in the first inning, three of them consecutive, might well have been discouraging to Grove. Martin's double to the right field screen, and he is a right-handed hitter, was the only solid wallop of the four. Roettger's single was a handle hit; Frisch's single was sliced to right field, and Bottomley's single was a high bounder over Grove's head on which Williams would have made a force play at second if he hadn't slipped in fielding the ball.

They say Jimmy Dykes plays third base on a dime for the Athletics, compared to the ground that other third baskers cover, but if Dykes' play today is a criterion, third basemen would do well to adopt the silver standard, a la Great Britain.

Dykes went far to his left and up in the air to snatch Pinch Hitter Flowers' hard-hit smash in the seventh and followed through with a throw to Foxx for the put-out, redeeming in part the bonor he pulled in the preceding inning when he held the ball while Martin stole second.

Dykes' series play can always be depended upon to inject a feature note. Last year it was his wild throw to first in the fourth game, which enabled two St. Louis runners to score and win the game and tie the series.

Summing up the first four games of the series last year, one correspondent put it thusly: "Grove's pitching won the first game; Earnshaw's pitching won the second game; Hallahan's pitching won the third game, and Dykes' pitching won the fourth game." Which is not untrue.

A red-shirted, red-coated, red-hatted individual who is the Cardinals' foremost rooter, circled the bases in 25 seconds flat just before the game for no reason at all. With Grove in the box it seemed that this would be the only St. Louis run to score, but the Cardinals proved the belief in error.

Cubs Beat Chisox, 1-0, On Double in Ninth

Chicago, Oct. 1 (A.P.).—The Cubs finally emerged from a long scoring famine in the ninth inning today to defeat the White Sox, 1 to 0, and even the battle for the Chicago City championship at one-game all.

Kiki Cuyler and Vince Barton provided the winning punch in the game, which was a great hurling duel from start to finish between Vic Frasier, of the White Sox, and Guy Bush, Cub right-hander. With one out in the ninth inning, Cuyler slashed a hard hit to center field and raced to second. Lester Bell fouled out to Grube for the second out, but Barton rammed a single to right, bringing Cuyler home.

It was the first Cub score in the two games of the series. They were blanked, 9 to 0, yesterday by the 43-year-old veteran, "Red" Faber.

Street Gives Southpaw Chance

By CHARLES DUNKLEY.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 1 (A.P.).—"We lost because we couldn't get that third hit."

That was Manager Gabby Street's explanation for the defeat of the Cardinals in the first game of the world series today. Street, usually genial and affable, was a gruff old sarge as he marched in the clubhouse with his conquered players following him single file. They trooped into the showers, sullen and disappointed.

"We had that game in the old bag three times today, and if we had been lucky enough to get that third hit, not even Simmons' home run would have been enough to beat us," Street said.

"Wild Bill" Hallahan, the pug-nosed left-hander, who shut out the Athletics in one game of last year's world series, will face the world champions tomorrow if Manager Street does not change his mind meanwhile.

Says Derringer Deserved to Win.

"That kid Derringer pitched great ball and deserved to win," Street explained. "Nervous? Not a bit of it. He was as cool as a cucumber. I probably will shoot him right back at them. We're not licked yet. The series has just started. Tomorrow is another day, and Bill Hallahan will be in there for us. If he is right he can't lose."

Paul Derringer, the 25-year-old rookie, playing his first year in the major leagues, and upon whose shoulders was charged the defeat, declared the Athletics were lucky to win.

"Why," he said, "I can't see how they won. I thought I had them handcuffed almost all afternoon. You can't tell me that a guy who looks bad on four or five pitched balls of the same type—pitched to the same spot—isn't lucky when he socks the same kind of ball into the bleachers. That's the way it was all afternoon.

"I'm not afraid of them. If Gabby starts me again, I'll lick 'em."

Praise for the defeated Cardinals and praise for his own players was liberally given by Manager Connie Mack. He declared, however, that he had nothing to say concerning his pitching selection for tomorrow. It was generally accepted he would start George Earnshaw, holding Rube Walberg in reserve.

"It is a great thing to win the first game," Mack said. "It gives my club a real edge, but we are in for a tough series, judging from the opposition the Cardinals gave us today. I am making no prediction as to the outcome, although I am hopeful we will be fortunate enough to win. We must face tomorrow's game just as if today's game had not been won."

Mack Praises Rookie.

Mack declared that Derringer impressed him as having the ability to become one of the great pitchers of all time. He said the youngster had the Athletics on the run for two innings, and that if he had retained control he might have maintained his advantage to the finish.

"But he tried to do it all by himself," Mack added. "He really tried too hard in those first two innings. He forgot there were eight other Cardinals on the field. Now that he has learned he must not try to strike out every batter, I believe he will give us far more trouble before the series is over."

Mack said that Grove was not the real Grove until the third inning, but from there on he was a masterful pitcher.

"For two innings his control was such that he seemed unable to do anything but put the ball right through the heart of the plate. After the second inning, however, his control came to him and he used his head. You know, Grove is a much smarter pitcher than he was two years ago."

Mack also praised Pepper Martin and Walter Roettger, Cardinal outfielders, declaring that while they had little to do in the field, their work at bat against Grove demonstrated to him that they are players of real class.

HURLY-BURLY PRESENT AT SERIES

Congenial Gathering Cheers Simmons and Grove.

By EDWARD W. LEWIS.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 1 (U.P.).—The hurly-burly of 1931's first world series spectacle, with its crowds, soda pop, cowbells, scalpers, and baseball heroes, some sung and some unsung, was presented in all its usual commotion today.

Millions of fans listened in on it, in addition to the 38,529 lucky enough to see it from the stands of Sportsman's Park. But because this is a town of partisan fans and the athletics beat the Cards 6 to 2, there was little joy here on the west bank of the Mississippi tonight.

An uproar began when Wallie Roettger singled in the first, and reached a crescendo when Pepper Martin doubled to right in the same frame—just as he had promised to do off Lefty Grove. But from then on the spasmodically cowbells jangled and cheers came only as the Athletics' southpaw bore down.

It was a congenial crowd nevertheless, ready to cheer Grove when he came to bat, and clap loudly when Simmons made his great catch of a long fly in the eighth.

There were Philadelphia fans present, too, clustered around the Athletics' dugout. If there were others in the stands, they held their applause to a minimum.

Long before game time the rush seat fans had found their places, many peeling off the blazing red sweaters they wore to show their colors, as a warm sun began to beat down. It was a great day for shirt sleeves, with scarcely a breeze stirring in the great green park.

Among distinguished guests were the leading officials of organized baseballdom, like Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, with his long white locks, Presidents Harridge, of the American League, and Heydler, of the National. The mayors of Philadelphia and St. Louis had front row boxes, and for some reason, which President Sam Beacon, of the Cards may know about, the little formal touch of having some political figure throw the first ball was dispensed with. Mayor Victor Miller, of St. Louis, threw it here last year, but it wasn't a strike. Gov. Harry Woodring of Kansas was a box holder.

By mere chance, the press section area just off the screen in the second tier of the grandstand behind home plate, was the mark of most of the foul balls. One unsung hero was the red-haired youth who caught a sharp foul, saving the National Broadcasting Company's equipment from being wrecked.

And then there were two fans who had the worst luck of the day. One, Henry Hermer, a wholesale shoe dealer of Boston, here just for the series, got concussion of the brain when struck on the head by an electric fan that toppled from its perch in a restaurant. He was in the hospital at game time. The other fan, Gilbert Johnson, of St. Louis, waited in line for a bleacher seat with his wife for four hours, only to find just as he reached the turnstile that Mrs. Johnson had been lost in the crowd.

"I can't go in without my wife," he said, and reluctantly he walked away.

There were a few odd little incidents. A large fat man brought a laugh when he tumbled out of a field box, picked up a foul ball, and bounded back in. Then there was the gray-haired fan who always comes to world series games here with a sparkling white suit, adorned with broad red stripes. He ran the bases before game time.

Grove Can Flip Baseball Despite His Dislike of Limelight, Says Pegler

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.
Special to The Washington Post.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 1.—A big, sullen hill-billy from the Maryland corn-liquor country, a left-hander, with a resentful expression in two little ink-blot eyes set close to a razor-back nose, today rebuked the pretensions of the St. Louis Cardinals in the opening game of the world series produced for the entertainment of 38,529 attending customers and vast numbers of absentee radio kibitzers. The name of the party is Mose Grove. He won his ball game, 6 to 2.

People didn't treat him kindly when he was a young fellow coming along with the Orioles and the Athletics a few years ago and, like a horse that has been misused as a yearling, Old Mose is still socially defensive against one and all.

He won't sign score cards for kids, he spends much of his time folded up in deep lobby chairs inhaling noxious fumes from black, hoe-handle cigars, and a little while ago, when a big middle-name writer from one of the Eastern magazines looked him up, wishing to spatter him over with that gaudy importance which the public enjoys in distinguished athletes, he scowled down his long beak, kicked up a puff of dirt with his toecleat and grumbled, "I ain't putting out no dope for no write-ups without I get paid."

Grove Like Horse Misused as Yearling.

So he isn't a Ruth or a Dempsey in the matter of affability and the story of his life may never be written, a great loss to literature no doubt. But he can flip a baseball as nobody else among all the thousands who play the game for fun or revenue and today he beat the champions of the National League with the same rather vindictive emphasis that distinguished his work all season in his own league.

When Mose was new in the majors, a few years back, the athletes of the other clubs tormented him with their harsh banter and their silent vulgarities uttered in the ball players eloquent finger-language from the shadows of the dugouts.

Mose was passing an average of 100 hitters a year in those days and for a long while only Connie Mack, who had spent $105,000 for him, believed that he would ever learn to pitch major league ball. And even in Mr. Mack's case the price was father to the thought.

Old Mose Now Giving World Come-Uppance.

So, now, Old Mose is giving the world its come-uppance, and once today when the Cardinals were giving him a little annoyance in the first inning he threw a ball so hard that when the hitter fouled it back against the grand stand a big steel girder rang like a gong from the blow.

The Cardinals were using their bright young man, Paul Derringer, against him and for a few innings it looked as though their bright young man, starting in a world series game in his first year in the majors, was the equal of Mose Grove. He put away four of the first six hitters on strike-outs while the Cardinals were trifling with Mose to the sum of four hits and two runs in the first.

But Mose got better and Derringer's effective limit was just two innings, for the Athletics rushed him off his poise in the third with four hits and two bases on balls, which gave them four runs, enough to win.

After that, the customers slumped back, raising only occasional bursts of localized cheers and the first world series game progressed to an obvious conclusion in comparative quiet. It is a false impression that people have of the world series as two hours of mass howling. This is probably the only subject on which the statisticians of the two leagues do not keep decimal statistics, but a check would show that the crowds spend long spells in almost melancholy silence, disturbed by only a faint rustling and the clickety jabber of the telegraph machinery in the press coop.

Simmons Gives Fans Expected Home Run.

The home run of the day which no world series would be complete without, was dumped into the left field bleachers by Al Simmons in the seventh inning, scoring Micky Cochrane from first and completing the day's production. The Polak, as the Athletes call Mr. Simmons in their loving repartee, also went back to the same wall a little bit later and leaped high to make a back hand catch of Wilson's fly, which seemed to have home run aspirations, too. This great grab, incredible until Simmons whirled around with his glove aloft and the white speck plainly visible in the palm, was one of two excellent favors which the Athletics showed their Mr. Grove in the field.

The other was a double play in the fourth which retired Martin and Wilson in an instant that seemed fraught with trouble. Wilson hit to Williams and the ball flashed from him to Bishop and over to Foxx at first not like a yarn-and-rubber ball but like an instinct.

Old Mose showed such firm authority after the first inning that it was hard to understand those fresh shenanigans which sent the Cardinals away to a lead and filled them with vain ideas. Roettger, Frisch and Bottomley singled together, wherein Roettger scored and Martin scored Frisch with a double, but that was as far as the serious liberties went.

MERRIWELL FAILED TO CLICK

Street Foresees Card Victory in Time; Rookie Cool.

By H. I. PHILLIPS.

SPORTMAN'S PARK, St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 1.—Gabby Street, manager of the Cardinals, once spent an afternoon trying to catch baseballs thrown from the top of the Washington Monument. Tonight he would like to see Connie Mack and his visiting Athletics tossed at him from a similar height.

Mr. Street still thinks the Athletics can be taken, but is less certain than ever just when.

For a few joyful moments here this afternoon the St. Louis fans had the thrill which comes from giving a visiting ball club the works in a world series, but before they had ceased cheering they were on the losing end again.

Gabby retired tonight with the firm conviction that life is just a series of bitter experiences, that there is very little justice on this earth, that in a world series it is all done by mirrors and that while youth is a wonderful thing, experience is always an ace in the hole.

He carried out threats and sent against the world champions Paul Derringer, a kid pitcher who had never been nearer a world series than a radio loud speaker.

Master Derringer stood the fans on their ears for two innings and for a little while it seemed certain that an old Frank Merriwell thriller was to be staged, with the boy wonder chasing the old established stars off the premises.

He had the Athletics swinging at balls they didn't even see for two innings. The famous Lefty Grove, conceded to be the greatest pitcher in either league, looked as bad as Mahatma Gandhi at a full dress banquet up to a given point.

So heartened were the Cards by this that they got off to a two-run lead and began to think of bonfires along the banks of the Mississippi.

Master Derringer was as cool for some ten or fifteen minutes as if he had spent the summer on Sir Hubert Wilkins' Nautilus, but after that he found himself under the North Pole with no ice-cutting apparatus.

After recovering from their surprise, the Mackmen lit into the boy wonder in a very tiresome manner.

The boy lost control completely in the fourth, even walking men with the bases full, which is one of the gravest errors known to world series pitchers.

Still, it was a tough game to lose, as the Card's smacked Mr. Grove around plenty, getting more hits for the day than the Athletics. The trouble was that the Cardinals were very sad at placing their bets. They placed them in the wrong innings.

This Pepper Martin, another youngster, was the batting hero of the day. He got two hits and a double and had Mr. Grove worried at all times.

If it were not for Pepper, in fact, the Mackmen would be inclined to consider the series in the bag now. That boy may cause a lot of trouble during the next few days.

All in all, it was a snappy opener in which the depression found no reflection. Nobody bought tickets on the installment plan, and the park caterer did not suspend the gold standard in fixing rates for all-hots and peanuts.

Today is another day and Mr. Street never lets a little thing like one disaster bother him. He is an optimist. "In time," he says, "we can lick those Athletics." But he refused to name a date.

PLAY-BY-PLAY

FIRST INNING.

No runs; no hits; no errors; none left.

Cardinals—High struck out, taking a called third strike. Roettger singled cleanly into center field. Frisch singled to right and Roettger dashed to third base. It was the hit and run play and executed beautifully. Bottomley hit over second base and Roettger scored. Bishop stopped the ball, but was unable to make a play and it was a hit. Frisch stopping at second. Hafey struck out, swinging at a fast ball inside. Martin hit against the right screen, scoring Frisch and sending Bottomley to third. It was a two-base hit. Wilson grounded out, Williams to Foxx.

SECOND INNING.

Athletics—Simmons bounded out, Gelbert to Bottomley. Foxx struck out, on a called third strike and the crowd howled. Miller struck out. He was Derringer's fourth strike-out victim and the young right-hander received a tremendous cheer as he went to the dugout.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

THIRD INNING.

Athletics—Dykes singled off High's glove. It was a sharp drive and too hot to handle. Williams singled sharply past first base and Dykes raced to third, sliding into the bag. Grove fanned. Bishop hit to Bottomley and Dykes was run down between home and third base, Wilson made the putout after a short chase, the play being Bottomley to Wilson to High to Wilson. Williams scored on Haas' two-base drive into left field, Bishop stopping at third base. Cochrane walked and the bases were filled. Simmons walked, forcing in Bishop. Haas and Cochrane scored on Foxx's line single through the infield to center, Simmons stopping at second. Miller hit in front of the plate and was out, Wilson to Bottomley.

Four runs; four hits; no errors; two left.

He was Derringer's seventh strikeout victim. Bishop singled into right, but Dykes stopped at second. Haas was thrown out, Frisch to Bottomley.

No runs, two hits, no errors, one left.

FIFTH INNING.

Athletics—Cochrane drove a single to right center on the first ball pitched. Simmons struck out, taking a third called strike. Foxx grounded to Gelbert, forcing Cochrane, Gelbert to Frisch. Miller grounded to Gelbert, forcing Foxx, Gelbert to Frisch.

Cardinals—High flied out to Simmons. Roettger struck out, swinging. Frisch bounced to Bishop and was out at first.

No runs; no hits; no errors; none left.

SIXTH INNING.

Athletics—Dykes walked. Williams bunted and was safe when Derringer fell fielding the ball. It was a single and Dykes was perched on second base. Grove struck out on a called third strike. Bishop lined to Bottomley, who stepped on first to retire Williams on a double play, unassisted.

Cardinals—Bottomley bounced to Williams and was out at first on a brilliant play, the shortstop coming in fast to get the ball and throw to first. Hafey singled to center. Martin singled into left for his third successive hit and Hafey stopped at second. Wilson flied out to Simmons. Hafey stole third, sliding under Dykes as the latter leaped for Cochrane's throw. Martin caught the Athletics napping and stole second. Gelbert grounded out, Williams to Foxx.

SEVENTH INNING.

Athletics—Cochrane singled into right field. Simmons drove a low drive into the left field bleachers for a home run, scoring Cochrane ahead of him. Foxx drove a sharp single through the box into center field. Frisch was spilled by the runner and was unable to make a play at first. Dykes flied out to Martin.

Two runs; three hits; no errors; one left.

Cardinals—Dykes made a leaping stop of Flower's bounder and threw out the runner on a fine play. High fouled out to Dykes, who raced over in front of the field boxes to make the catch. Roettger smacked a line single to center field. Frisch popped a Texas leaguer into short right for a

Rookie Strikes Out 9; Foxx's Hit Gives Macks Lead.

By ALAN GOULD.
(Associated Press Sports Editor).

SPORTSMAN'S PARK, St. Louis, Oct. 1 (A.P.).—The Philadelphia Athletics unlimbered their heavy artillery on the enemy's home battleground today, fired two booming salvos that crushed the youthful Cardinal sharpshooter, Paul Derringer, and moved triumphantly toward their goal of a third world baseball championship.

The final score was 6 to 2, as the Athletics, in a characteristically skillful exhibition, subdued St. Louis in the opening skirmish of the big series behind the somewhat erratic left-handed pitching of the great Robert Moses Grove.

A howling, hopeful crowd of 38,529 hometown customers came out to cheer the Cardinals in their fresh attempt to stop Connie Mack's baseball steamroller. They saw the great Grove hit briskly, touched for two runs in the very first inning, only to steady down and pitch himself out of a flock of critical situations in holding the National League champions scoreless for the rest of the game.

Redbirds Outhit Macks, 12 to 11.

The Red Birds outhit the world champions, 12 to 11, but the big guns of the A's were more destructive, and accomplished the downfall of the youthful Derringer in decisive fashion. Four runs in a wild third inning, when Derringer lost control, forced in the tying run and then was blasted for a single by Jimmy Foxx with the bases full, decided the game.

As a parting salute, Al Simmons drove a home run into the left field bleachers in the seventh inning with Mickey Cochrane on base. After that wallop, the fading Cardinal hopes flickered out, Derringer yielding to a pinch hitter and Syivester Johnson held the A's hitless in the last two innings.

The Athletics won like the favorites and world champions that they are in blasting the hopes that the National Leaguers had placed with such confidence on the youthful and inexperienced Derringer, a "freshman" big leaguer making his first world series start.

For two innings, as he struck out four of the six batsmen to face him, the 25-year-old Kentucky boy looked like the sensation he was expected to be. He fanned Bishop and Haas to start the game and struck out Foxx, and Miller in the second inning to the accompaniment of wild applause.

Derringer Off to Brilliant Start.

It was a brilliant start, too good to be true, in fact, as events in the third inning quickly demonstrated. Jimmy Dykes led the first big attack of the A's, and before it was over hits by Dib Williams, Mule Haas and Jimmy Foxx, interspersed with passes to Cochrane and Simms, accounted for four runs. Dykes was cut down between third and home as the Cardinals fought to stem the tide, but Derringer's wildness and the pinch hitting of the A's was too much to be controlled.

Derringer rallied with a fine show of gameness to check the Athletics in the next three innings, but the big act was put on by Simmons, in the seventh, and Lefty Grove bore down in the stretch to choke off any lingering danger in the Cardinal bats.

It was not a brilliant day for the famous southpaw, although he had remarkably fine control and was master of the situation in the pinches after the first inning, aided by the steady and at times spectacular defense put up by his teammates.

Grove was hit harder than Derringer, however, all the day. He fanned seven Cardinals, whereas Derringer's deceptive curves set down nine of the A's strikes.

Cards Greet Grove With 2-Run Rally.

The Cardinals jumped on Grove at the start with such vehemence that it looked like a very bad afternoon indeed for the southpaw, who set a new winning percentage record this year in the American League. Robert Moses fanned Andy High, the third-base replacement for the injured Sparky Adams, but was touched for successive singles by Roettger, Frank Frisch and Jim Bottomley, followed by a double by "Pepper" Martin, youthful outfielder. This accounted for the only two markers the National Leaguers posted.

In at least three other innings, the fourth, sixth and seventh, Grove was lucky to escape without scoring damage. Jimmy Wilson hit into a double play in the fourth to waste a pair of hits by Martin and Gelbert. In the Sixth a double steal by Chick Hafey

White Clover, Choice, Is Second

Winner Pays $7.70; Inception Third in Small Field.

Secondary Feature Is Captured by Follow On.

By J. B. SNODGRASS.
Special to The Washington Post.

HAVRE DE GRACE RACE TRACK, October 1.—Lemar Stock Farm, the destinies over which M. Lowenstein presides, in Morsel sent a fast horse to the post in the Fort McHenry, the feature, and E. Steffen gave him a good ride, leading all the way. He beat the favorite, the Foxcatcher Farm's White Clover II, by a length, and Rigan McKinney's Inception came in third.

All the conditions were favorable for racing today, the weather being warm and the track fast, and the largest crowd since Saturday was present. Morsel was off like a flash, and he kept up his gait for the mile and a sixteenth, which he ran in 1:44 4-5, which is within two-fifths of a second of the track record.

White Clover II's Challenge Falls Short.

Inception was the closest to the pace to the back stretch, when White Clover II passed him, and challenged the leader, but this was futile. Morsel ran to his best form. Five horses started, Hot Toddy and Berber being the others, with Berber fourth. The winner paid $7.70.

The Sagamore Stable made it a double when Follow On won the fourth race, secondary feature and the jockey, Bejshak, also scored a double. Black Majesty, carrying W. R. Coe's colors, was second, beaten by a length, and C. V. Whitney's Halcyon third. Follow On ran 6 furlongs in 1:12 and paid $6.40. Black Majesty set a fast pace to the stretch, but Follow On always was second. At the turn for home Follow On took the lead and had a margin of one length at the finish. Snappy Snub, of the Sagamore Stable, with Bejshak up, previously had won the second race.

Glen Riddle Farm's Temple Bells, a Man o' War filly, won the first race for maiden 2-year-olds by a length and a half from Mrs. Walter M. Jefords' filly, Gloria Maris, she being a granddaughter of Man o' War, her sire being Mars. S. W. Labrot's Roscobel was third and Big America fourth. The last named filly set the early pace until Temple Bells took the lead, with Boscobel third. In the stretch run Boscobel made a strong bid, but Gloria Maris beat her to the place money. The winner paid $7.00 and R. Workman had the mount. The time was 1:07 2-5.

Monel First Beaten Choice Of the Day.

The first favorite of the day to meet defeat was Monel in the third race, the Glenwild Purse, for 2-year-olds foaled in Maryland, when J. E. Keiffer's entry finished first and third, Daisaburo winning, coupled with Tulach Ard, third. Separating the entry was Ral Parr's Lillybet, beaten a nose. Monel led to the stretch followed by Step Lix and Lillybet. Coltiletti moved fast with Daisaburo rounding the turn and went to the front at the sixteenth, but Lillybet was coming fast and almost snatched victory from the Keiffer colt. The winning entry paid $9.30. The time was 1:07 2-5, five and a half furlongs.

Fervid won the sixth race, being the first field horse of the day to score. Horses coupled in the field with Fervid were Pipe Dream and John Mackler. The price was the longest of the afternoon, $35.60 for $2. Leishman had the mount on the winner, which is owned by Mrs. J. M. Franklin. Star Lassie, Workman up, was second, and Peach Basket, early pacemaker, third. Fervid came to the front with a rush near the finish. Time, 1:47. Pipe Dream, another field horse, was close up most of the way. Bob's Play and Hold delayed the start several minutes.

HAVRE DE GRACE RACE TRACK, Md., Oct. 1.—The Tulip Hills Purse, a mile-and-70-yard test for fillies and mares, will headline a well-balanced program of seven races here tomorrow. Although only five have been named to start, the feature looms as an extremely open race.

The Goodstone Stable's BLIND LANE scored so easily in the mile and 70 yards Belvedere Purse here last Saturday and we are taking her to repeat. She drops four pounds, while ALLEZ VITE drops only one. ALLEZ VITE has run some very good races this year and also some bad ones. She might not have fancied the sloppy going last Saturday. POLLY PLAY is fast and game and she has been training well. ROBIN'S EGG turned in a fine effort in a swiftly run three-quarter mile dash last week. BLIND LANE, ALLEZ VITE and POLLY PLAY all took turns beating ROBIN'S EGG in New York last summer. CONCLAVE will be the outsider in the Tulip Hills.

FIRST RACE—LADINO meets a cheap field of juvenile platers in the day's opener. The Ladkin colt hasn't been to the post since last June, but his recent trials suggest he is fit. LADINO raced fairly well with high-class 2-year-olds in New York. DUSTEMOFF'S last effort here was very good. He lacks early speed and may have to overcome a lot of difficulties. FIRADE was a good thing which missed Tuesday. He isn't likely to start here, but tab him for the future. DUTCH FLIER was second in his only start to date.

SECOND RACE—VOLTAGREEN is the speed horse in the second. The filly could lick anything OUTBOUND could beat at Chicago last summer. She failed to run her race last Friday. They all run bad races now and then. VOLTAGREEN, according to our figures, shapes up as the most probable winner of the day. INFERNO LAD showed good form last Friday when he was third to Aldershot and Golden Prince. He beat VOLTAGREEN, but this is another day. PHILLIP changed hands after his second to OUTBOUND. If the former runs his race he can beat OUTBOUND.

THIRD RACE—Sylvester W. Labrot's MEXICO, winner of the Saratoga Sales Stake is taken to beat the probable favorite, SENADO, in the Robins Purse. THE CRANE should hold the others safe.

FOURTH RACE—MEASURE is in the Mount Pleasant under a feather of 100 pounds. If she is ever going to win a race, it will be this one. FLAGSTONE showed good speed before stopping in the Potomac Handicap. He had light weight up that day. SUNEROS may hang on long enough to earn the short award.

SIXTH RACE—If QUARTER DECK can handle his 120 pounds, he'll be hard to beat in the sixth. The Man o' War colt carried 112 pounds last Friday and stepped a fast mile and a sixteenth to beat Negopoli. MERIDIAN QUEEN is ready to run her best race. REPLEVIN may be the sleeper in the race. Mose Lowenstein has been giving this fellow a careful prep in sprint races. Going a route is his game.

SEVENTH RACE—DADDY NELSON has been third in three starts since the meeting opened. We're going to give him one more chance, because he has been showing improvement with each race. He has little to beat here. TAZEWELL is the one to fear. He went well his last out and he likes this track. MINA F may be better than generally thought. She was very good over the half-mile ovals.

DEL RAY BOOKING.

The Del Ray unlimited football team is seeking a game for Sunday. Teams interested should call Manager Von Deck at National 3926 during the day, or Alexandria 544-JX after 6 p. m.

TEMPLE BELLS, quick to begin and showing good speed, raced BIG AMERICA into submission, drew clear when straightened into the home stretch and had enough in reserve to stall off GLORIA MARIS. Latter, stoutly ridden from the start, continued gamely under a strong drive. BOSCOBEL, forced to race on the outside from the start, hung in the final test. BIG AMERICA weakened after showing good speed for a half mile. SWEEPINGLY was unable to improve her position in the final stages. EXCURSION had a rough trip.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—SNAPPY SNUB, $4.40, $3.00, $2.50; ANGRY PLUME, $4.10, $3.40; TEWSENELDA, $6.30.

SNAPPY SNUB, rushed into a prominent position going to the first turn, was rated along until reaching the far turn, were TEWSENELDA down gradually and was kept under pressure to withstand ANGRY PLUME. Latter moved up steadily after the first half mile and closed with excellent courage in the final drive. TEWSENELDA raced SAPPHIRE SKY into submission after six furlongs and held on well when the real test came. FIVE OAKS finished remotely. JOAN PAT raced well until she tired. STUPENDOUS had no mishaps. IMA QUEEN lacked speed at all stages.

TULLACH ARD showed good speed from the start, but weakened after a bold effort when straightened into the home stretch. STEP LIZ was rushed hard in the first three furlongs to displace MONEL, and she weakened during the final drive. MONEL began tiring after three furlongs. SINGLE A was held safe.

MORSEL, sprinting into a commanding lead when reaching the back stretch, was given a breathing spell before approaching the last turn, responded gamely when shaken up and was under pressure to the end. WHITE CLOVER II saved a lot of ground from the start, moved up when put to a drive and was gaining on the winner slowly at the end. INCEPTION, prominent throughout, held on well to outstay BERBER. Latter, forced wide at the first turn and a trailer early, closed fast in the last quarter mile. HOT TODDY weakened badly under punishment.

Georgetown, Maryland in Features

C. U., American and Gallaudet in Out-of-Town Games.

CAPITAL college elevens today will take their final preparatory exercises to six clashes scheduled tomorrow which constitute the biggest week-end of the season to date in local football. The final tuning up processes will be comparatively light in nature as coaches seek to avert loss of man-power through injuries, but in two instances teams will take the field minus some valuable performers.

Maryland and Georgetown, which figure in the two most attractive games of tomorrow's program, are fortunately situated as regards injuries. Each will be able to send its full strength into battle with large and capable reinforcements held in reserve.

Maryland-Virginia in Big Game.

George Washington and Catholic University do not, however, enjoy the same luck concerning available material. The former, which plays Elon College at Central Stadium, must forego the services of Lee Carlin, Frank Coolger and Johnny Fenlon, all back field dependables, on account of injuries, while Catholic, which meets City College of New York at Brookland Stadium, will play without Phil Gross, giant tackle, and Jim Lyons, an experienced guard.

Coaches Young and Hughes of American and Gallaudet, respectively, expect to place their best teams on the field for opening games. American tackles Lynchburg at Lynchburg, Va., and Gallaudet clashes with Loyola in Baltimore.

The Gallaudet line-up was announced yesterday as follows: Capt. Monaghan and Ladner, ends; Stack and Grinnell, tackles; Hnatow and Gamblin, guards; Davis, center; Williams and O'Branovich, half backs; Bradley, quarter back and Roop, full back.

Maryland, Georgetown Games Double Feature.

The main interest of the fans is divided between Maryland and Georgetown games, both of which rank among the day's best attractions nationally. Maryland's followers are keenly anticipating a victory, which would give the Old Line a 3-2 edge in the gridiron series between the two schools.

It is likely the Maryland-Virginia set-to will develop plenty of fierce football, for each club has a previous poor exhibition to atone for. Maryland disappointed last week by barely beating little Washington College and Virginia failed to get better than a tie with Randolph-Macon.

Georgetown is out to break Western Maryland's winning streak and to achieve partial revenge for a pair of defeats suffered at the Green Terrors' hands the last two years. Among local experts it is generally conceded that the Hilltop will come dangerously close to succeeding, if it does not actually realize its hopes.

The Georgetown line-up, a matter of uncertainty for weeks, is still somewhat of a puzzle to Coach Mills and his assistants. The line is just about settled, but the back field is full of question marks as two full sets of backs have been waging a bitter fight for the regular assignments.

G. U. Back Field Starters Uncertain.

The choice for the various back field jobs lies among the following: King, Costello and Lione, quarter backs; Gellis, MacZees and Donoghue, left half backs; Alenty and Danieu, right half backs, and Bordeau and Bradley, full backs. Coach Mills will not pick the starting quartet from this group until game time tomorrow.

While the dopesters are hesitant about picking a winner in the two major attractions, they are freely predicting victories for the local teams in the George Washington-Elon and Catholic-C. C. N. Y. contests. George Washington has too much power for the North Carolina invaders, and Catholic seems to hold an edge over C. C. N. Y. in a similar respect.

American and Gallaudet are underdogs in their games, although their opponents have not as yet set the football world on fire.

Monaco Will Captain C. U. Eleven Tomorrow

Nick Monaco, veteran guard, will captain the Catholic University eleven in its game tomorrow with City College of New York in Brookland Stadium. In selecting Monaco yesterday, Head Coach Bergman stated: "Monaco's bang-up performance against Boston College last week and his display of spirit and enterprise in practice easily earns him the captaincy for this game. I consider him one of the best guards in this section.

Jockey Haines Killed In Spill at Woodbine

Toronto, Oct. 1 (A.P.).—Paul Haines, steeplechase jockey, was fatally injured at Woodbine today, when he was thrown from Allen Case's Swansea in the 2-mile race over the jumps. Haines died en route to the hospital.

DIXIE PIGS DRILL.

The Dixie Pig unlimited football team will drill tonight at 8 o'clock on the Seat Pleasant field. All players are requested to report in full uniform.

TEMPLE WOULD PLAY.

The Temple Baptists are anxious to book games with teams in the 125-pound class. Roy Hunt, at Potomac 2360-W, after 5 p. m., is arranging the schedule.

Episcopal Hopes to Again Down D. C. Team Friday.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., Oct. 1.—McKinley High Football Team, of Washington, will clash with the Episcopal gridders on Hoxton Field, Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Second flight—Mrs. Jesse Miller defeated Mrs. A. J. Stephens, 9 and 8; Mrs. E. R. Nordlinger defeated Mrs. D. R. Simon, 4 and 3.

The exhibition match on the course of the Kenwood Club yesterday, with A. L. Houghton, the club professional, and Miss Virginia Williams paired against Mrs. Betty P. Meckley, District woman amateur champion, and George Diffenbaugh, assistant professional of the Indian Spring Club, ended all even.

Miss Williams and Houghton were 1 down at the turn and were 2 down when they lost the tenth hole. By winning the twelfth, thirteenth and fourteenth they became 1 up, but Diffenbaugh squared the match with a birdie 2 on the seventeenth and the eighteenth was halved in par 5's. The match was the initial contest on the entire eighteen holes. Diffenbaugh had low gross, 74, with Houghton 75. Meckley scored 83 and Miss Williams was 92.

Charity Football Aid Refused by Harvard

Boston, Oct. 1 (A.P.).—Mayor James M. Curley today announced that President A. Lawrence Lowell, of Harvard University, had declined to donate a portion of the Harvard-Dartmouth football game receipts to an unemployment relief fund. President Lowell also refused to change the location of the West Point-Harvard game from West Point to New York City or Boston for unemployment relief purposes, Curley said.

The suggestion that a portion of the Dartmouth game receipts be donated was made by Mayor Curley, and Mayor James T. Walker of New York was sponsor of the West Point game suggestion.

Regarding the West Point game, Mayor Curley said, President Lowell said he would not disturb the athletic schedule and also that such a move would appear to commercialize athletics.

President Lowell declined to donate a portion of the Dartmouth game receipts, Mayor Curley said, because the revenue from athletics was just sufficient to cover what was required to operate now, and if a precedent were established this year, similar requests would be made every year.

TENNIS FINAL GAINED BY MONTROSE

Chevy Chase Beaten in Playground Net League.

THE Montrose Playgrounds net team yesterday entered the final round of the Playground Tennis League, senior section, playoff by eliminating Chevy Chase Playgrounds, 4 matches to 1, on the courts at Chevy Chase. The Montrose players, although only one of them dropped a match, were forced to display all they had to put over the decision.

Two crackerjack matches evolved out of the meeting between Frank Scheele and Maurice Root, while Scheele won at 7—5, 6—3, while Vincent Sullivan was given one more win by nosing out Wilson Tyrell, 4—6, 6—2, 6—2.

Montrose now awaits developments in the other half of the draw. Burroughs, champions of section B, await a playoff between Rosedale and Garfield for the championship of Section A. Burroughs will play the winner, and the winner of that match will meet Montrose.

Burroughs won the junior division Tuesday. The Burroughs outfit will be honored at the next meeting of the Burroughs Citizens committee.

Washington Conference Adds Banking Teams

American Institute of Banking was granted a franchise last night in the Washington Collegiate Conference at the conference's monthly meeting. The institute, represented by Augie Tearneak, took over the place relinquished by Southeastern University.

Several new eligibility rules were adopted, most important of which was a rule which prohibits conference basket ball teams from playing any other than collegiate teams. Formerly members of the conference went outside college circles to engage independent clubs. Another new rule prohibits players from transferring from one team to another during the same season.

Harry ("Chalky") Councilor, former Tech High and Duke University basket ball star, attended as representative of Strayer College. It is probable he will coach the Strayer quintet this winter. Other conference representatives in attendance was N. S. Almony, Bliss Electrical School; Jack Harrington and Ray Walter, Columbus University, and B. E. Hunsinger, Benjamin Franklin University.

Takoma Tigers, Ciro's To End Season Sunday

Only two baseball teams, the champion Takoma Tigers and Ciro's Villagers, remain in the field. The Villagers plan to close their campaign Sunday, meeting a foe yet to be named, while the Tigers oppose the United Democratic Club, Baltimore champs, in the second of a three-game series at 2:30 p. m. at Garrett Park.

The Tigers copped the series opener in Baltimore last Sunday by a score of 5 to 2, and have high hopes of making it two straight over the Monumental City aggregation. Dick Hughes will hurl for the local champions.

Teams desiring to play the Villagers are requested to call Manager Burruto at Metropolitan 9274 after 7 p. m.

Franchise Fees Due In Capital City Loop

The deadline for posting franchise fees in all divisions of The Post's Capital City Football League has been set for 6 p. m. tomorrow night, at which time all fees must be in the hands of Bill Fiester at French's Sport Shop. The schedule for the 150-pound class will be announced in The Post on Sunday.

All indications point to one of the most successful seasons the league has ever enjoyed. Six teams will compete in the 135-pound class, eight in the 150-pound division, and ten in the unlimited. Dates for the weighing in of the various teams will also be announced Sunday.

D. C. MAN IN LINE.

Behind three Philadelphia youths, Green held the same position among those waiting for a seat in the bleachers for Monday's world series game as he held last year. In 1929 he was first in line for the Chicago world series opening and two previous years he had been first in New York.

Capital Scholastic Elevens Play Eight Contests Today

TODAY.

Central vs. John Marshall, at Central.
Tech vs. Episcopal, at Episcopal.
Eastern vs. National Training, at Eastern.
Western vs. Gonzaga, at Gonzaga.
Business vs. Swavely, at Swavely.
Devitt vs. St. Alban's, at St. Alban's.
St. John's vs. Mount St. Joseph's, at Baltimore.

TOMORROW.

Emerson vs. Gettysburg, at Gettysburg.

SEVEN games spot the scholastic grid card today, with a galaxy of high school huskies in action as Tech, Central, Eastern, Western, Business, Gonzaga, Devitt, St. Alban's and St. John's see service. The day marks high spots on the season's program in the Tech-Episcopal and the Central-John Marshall games, and also serves to usher in the grid period for Western, Business, Gonzaga and St. John's.

Since it is to be played at Alexandria, the Tech-Episcopal game has been eclipsed all week, most of the chatter centering around Central's first appearance on a local field against John Marshall. The big Richmond school team last year beat Central 33-0 in a game which saw four of Central's potential stars wiped out for the rest of the season through injuries.

Central has a big, fast, hard-fighting team this year, and the odds on the outcome have shifted to a point where Coach Bert Coggins' first grid machine is a slight favorite over the boys coming up from the South. The game will start at 3:30 o'clock, in Central's Stadium, with Central's big back field twins, Cumberland and Koscia, expected to make names for themselves.

Tech is out to atone a 13-0 victory Episcopal scored last year, a victory which gave the Virginians undisputed high school championship of this sector. Reversing his habit of using his inferior players at this stage of the campaign, Coach Hardell is sending his full blast of talent into the melee today. Episcopal has been hit more heavily by graduations than Tech, and the local team rules a slight favorite to amend last year's setback.

Eastern has a tough foe on its hands today at Eastern, when the neophytes of Mike Kelley play host to the National Training School.

Western and Gonzaga open each other's season, at Gonzaga Field on Benning road at 3:30 o'clock. The once dusty field has been remodeled during the summer and will be in good shape today for the opening note of the Purple's grid season. Western, a bit heavier than Gonzaga, but still a light team, is favored. Gonzaga's lone hope is to outmaneuver the Georgetown boys, who have practiced only six times since the season opened.

Western Has Strong Line.

Viau, Gonzaga's big back, will have his hands full breaking the Western line. The Reds' frontal wall is its only claim to fame, and in it are both the Buscher boys, prime all-high candidates.

Business officially opens its season today at Manassas against Swavely and looks for a decisive beating at the hands of the well-trained and husky prep school boys.

Devitt, desiring to alter its schedule so that only local teams would be met, will clash with St. Alban's today at St. Alban's.

Dr. Wilson Banged to Floor When Foe Forgets Self; Shikat and Katan Make Good Adagio Team in Cofeature.

By BOB CONSIDINE.

THE two pretty boys, Whatamen and Mr. Americas, of the rassle racket, met in a sociable waltz last night at the ball lot and amid the ohs and ahs of the swooning females in the audience, and some dainty curtseying on the part of the boys themselves, they danced to 26 minutes of fierce blows to the wrist and crashing rights to the elbow, while Umpire "Cyclone" Burns whistled, "Two Hearts Beating in 3-4 Time," through a missing tooth.

It was very beautiful. Mr. Sandor Szabo, the winnah, wore becoming red leggings and panties, while Doctor Ralph Wilson protected himself with baby blue ones. The summer moon above shone kindly on their rippling muscles, and when one of them accidently slipped and almost fell, three strong-hearted men in the audience broke down and had to be led out of the arena. The participants themselves turned very pale.

Waltz Expertly Accomplished In 26 Minutes.

Besides the three men, 4,997 saw the bouts. The waltz was nice and even throughout the 26 minutes, and so expertly accomplished that had it gone any longer the swaying and foot tapping audience would have risen from their Spartan chairs and made a grand ball of it on Mr. Griffith's lawn. All we needed was Chinese lanterns.

I regret to report that Mr. Szabo so forgot himself as to end the bout. Hurrying down to the "Holt Department," with the rest of the experts, it was discovered that Mr. Szabo had used a double arm stretch and a nasty bad old back drop to prostrate our own Dr. Wilson. It was the one jarring note of a pleasant evening, and a quick consensus of the crowd brought to light the supposition that it must have been something Mr. Szabo hauled off and et.

Mine host Josephus Caldwalder Turner 3d was his beaming self last night and provided much in the way of entertainment for his peanut munching guests. A good adagio team, the Shikat and Katan, paved the way for the grand terpischore. Miss Katan, whose 230-pound chassis and scrambled ears belied his calling, tripped lightly about to Mendlesohn's "Spring Song" in her lighter moments, "Barcarole" in the medium moments, and "Lieberstrom," when the two got down on the ground and morosely nibbled on the other's ears. Disaster ended the bout.

Miss Katan Crashes Through Air at Finish.

Miss Katan, in the crashing finale, soared through the air, like a stricken Zeppelin, and that big strong Mr. Shikat failed to catch him. The law of supply and demand or cause and effect of something soon deposited Miss Katan on the mat, supported by the back of her neck and her right little finger. Thirty-one minutes.

With his usual flair for the original, Mr. Turner staged several wrestling matches for the amusement of his guests. In the first, one of the nicest men, named Tiny Roebuck, beat a nasty old man named Don De Laun in 21 minutes with a cute body slam, which loosed the screws in the first nineteen rows of grandstand seats.

Then Mr. Patrick O'Shocker, who has a great shock of red hair and a very shocking bread basket, destroyed a Red menace tagged Ivan Vacturoff. Mr. Vacturoff squirmed very gamely and it took nineteen minutes for Mr. Patrick O'Shocker, who has a great shock of red hair and a very shocking bread basket, to grind Mr. Vacturoff's upholstered shoulders into the mattress.

Cute little Carl Pojello, who only weighs 196 pounds, made Mr. Floyd Marshall look very big and cumbersome in their fight. Mr. Pojello could not be touched, and when Mr. Marshall made ponderous passes at him, Mr. Pojello was discovered in Mr. Marshall's ear, or peeping out of his hair. Mr. Pojello won the bout in 20½ minutes, and why he tacked on that extra half minute is still worrying the 5,000 people who last night were the guests at Mr. Turner's tournament of the tumbling torsos.

PLAYERS WANTED.

PARKS TITLE IS WON BY POTOMACS

Henry Team Beaten in Deciding Match in League.

NEEDING but two more victories to clinch the championship of the Public Parks League, and to thereby become a member of the six-team play-off for the District team championship Sunday at Wardman, Potomac Park yesterday beat Henry Park two matches to none on the courts at Henry Park.

Potomac locked the title in the bag when Maurice Goubeau, Maryland University netman, won a hard-hitting three-set match over R. B. Jones, 4—6, 10—8, 6—2, after trailing repeatedly in the second set against the sternly hit drives of Jones.

Love and Trigg Win Opener.

Potomac gained its first victory of the day when Douglas Love and Hugh Trigg defeated Gilbert Hunt and Bob Considine, 6—4, 7—5, in a doubles match which found all four players hitting the ball with good speed and placement. Considine was the one to crack, missing two shots in the critical moments of the second set, which turned the tide in favor of the Potomac duo. Gilbert Hunt, although he was on the losing side, was the most brilliant player of the lot.

Potomac meets Navy Department, champions of the Department League, in the first round of the city series tomorrow afternoon at 1:30 o'clock. The other match tomorrow brings together Edgewood, champions of the Capital City League, and Bureau of Standards, champions of the Suburban League. Edgemoor, country club champions, and Bankers, Banking League title holders, are the remaining two teams in the running for the city title.

Henry Park was 1930 champion.

Temple Bowlers Win In Three League Games

"Reds" Megaw's Temple pin-spillers invated the domain of the Lucky Strike aggregation last night and swept all three games with their hosts in a National Capital League match. In whitewashing the luckless "Luckies" Temple came within an ace of tieing the mark for a single game with 697 pins to their credit in the second game. The winners tallied 1,865 to their opponents' 1,713, winning each game by a comfortable margin.

Lovett, of Temple, led both teams with his 396 set, although Wiedman, of luckless Luckies was not far behind with 390. Daly's inability to warm to his task in the first game was largely responsible for his team's shutout. He did not hit his stride until the final game.

ROCHESTER DEFEATS ST. PAUL, 5-2, TO EVEN SERIES

Bunched Hits in 6th Net 4 Runs and Clinch Win.

Little World Series to Be Resumed Tomorrow.

ST. PAUL, Oct. 1 (A.P.).—Rochester hammered out a 5-to-2 victory over the American Association champions of St. Paul behind the six-hit pitching of Herman Bell today to even up the junior world series at one game each.

A crowd of 6,000 saw three Saint pitchers attempt to stem the barrage of hits of the International League batters' war clubs, but the Redwings bunched their blows in one big inning—the sixth—to score four runs on as many hits, and added another in the ninth for good measure.

Bell sailed along without much trouble save for the second and fifth innings, when the Saints scored a run in each. John Murphy was the victim of the four-run assault in Rochester's big sixth inning. Prudhomme relieved him.

Both teams will be idle tomorrow, the third game of four to be played here being scheduled for Saturday.

Mrs. J. M. Haynes Bows In Philly Golf Play

Special to The Washington Post.

Philadelphia, Oct. 1.—Playing the finest golf of the day, Mrs. Leo Federman, Glen Oaks, N. Y., star, who set an unofficial record of 79 for the course yesterday, eliminated Mrs. J. Marvin Haynes, Columbia Country Club, of Washington, D. C., in the second round of the Berthelyn Cup tournament over the Huntington Valley Country Club links this afternoon. Mrs. Haynes, who surprised yesterday when she defeated Edith Quier, of the home club, could not find her stride today, and, as a result, was 2 down to the New Yorker at the turn.

However, on the homeward nine, the Washington ace staged somewhat of a rally and played her opponent on almost even terms, losing only one of the next eight holes. The match ended on the seventeenth green with Mrs. Federman gaining a 3 and 1 triumph.

Greenbrier Names D. C. Boy Grid Manager

Special to The Washington Post.

Lewisburg, W. Va., Oct. 1.—Cadet Frank Skinner, son of Mrs. Lillian T. Skinner, 200 Capitol street, Washington, D. C., has been appointed manager of the Greenbrier Military School varsity football team for this season. Cadet Skinner is a senior at Greenbrier and has been prominent in student activities. He won his position through competition against three other assistant managers last year.

and Martin, with one out, had the Athletics momentarily up in the air, but Wilson and Gelbert lacked the punch to bring anybody across the plate.

Roettger and Frisch singled in succession in the seventh with two out, but Jim Bottomley could do nothing better to improve this situation than ground out to Max Bishop. Altosistent batsman was the youthful on the bases, and their only congether nine Cardinals were stranded Martin, who collected three safe blows off the fireball king in his first world series appearance.

Simmons Furnishes Best Catch of Day.

Al Simmons contributed the most sensational defensive gesture of the game when he dashed back and speared Wilson's drive with his gloved hand up against the wall in deep left field in the eighth inning. The great outfielder, however, shared honors with Williams, the kid shortstop, who justified his selection for world series duty for the first time by handling seven chances perfectly and contributing two hits to the Athletics' attack.

Today's triumph was the seventeenth for the American League forces in the last twenty world series contests. It was a bitter blow to their rivals, whether or not it forecasts another sweeping conquest for the House of Mack.

The advantage now is all with the A's, who will play their second ace pitcher, George Earnshaw, tomorrow against the Cardinal southpaw, Bill Hallahan, and then move to Philadelphia for three games next week. The worst that can befall the world champions is an even break before they hit the home grounds, where they have been almost invincible now for three straight years.

The opening game, minus much trumpeting or fanfare, drew a crowd that was barely 1,000 short of the park's capacity. The receipts, $165,161, were about $4,000 short of the record for St. Louis.

YOUNG TEAM BOOKING.

STREET'S CHOICE FOR 2D GAME

ON SOUTHERN GRIDIRONS

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Oct. 1 (A.P.).—The Virginia teams spent almost two hours in dummy scrimmage against freshmen, today, perfecting an attack to be used against Maryland in College Park Saturday. Thirty members of the squad were selected to leave for Washington after a short practice tomorrow.

Reiss, center; Debutts and Briant, guards; Rohrbough and Wager, tackles; Condon and Gravatt, ends; Sackett, quarter back; Capt. Thomas and Myers, half backs, and Harris, full back, formed the team that probably will start against the Old Liners.

Lexington, Va., Oct. 1 (A.P.).—Thirty V. M. I. players who will make the trip to Durham by bus tomorrow were given a long workout by Coach Bill Raftery today. Their work centers largely around defense methods expected to be necessary in checking a passing attack anticipated from the Duke Blue Devils Saturday.

Two regular ends, Capt. Johnnie Gill and Ranny Gregory, and Full Back Wright are on the hospital list, but the Cadets have capable reserves in Jack Walker, Irvin Smith and Ralph Waite.

Lexington, Va., Oct. 1 (A.P.).—The Generals' forward wall showed new power in a defensive drill, as well as in attack in practice here today. The Yearlings were stopped at evry turn. Coaches said Tex Stilson is becoming acclimated to his flank position, and Tom Bolen, Pat Mitchell and Bailey looked strong.

The Davidson Wildcats are expected here tomorrow in time for a short drill and Coach Dehart's eleven will take it easy.

Blacksburg, Va., Oct. 1 (A.P.).—Signal drills and conditioning routine marked the final practice at Virginia Tech today before the squad of 29 left for Athens to battle Georgia Saturday.

Early Dyke, veteran guard, and McIntire, regular end, were left here. Dyke had a bad charley horse and McIntire a broken shoulder. Howard, a full back, accompanied the squad but coaches were uncertain whether he would play.

Last Strike Hard Job for Grove; Landis Chief Subject of Cameras

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 1 (A.P.).—Lefty Grove put over two strikes on most of the Cardinals so rapidly today they hardly had time to get set, but they made it difficult for Robert Moses to slip the third one past. The Cards had two strikes on them nearly every time they hit safely. Grove didn't issue a pass.

Paul Derringer threw only nine balls to retire the first three men to face him. His change of pace had the A's lunging at the start, but they rapped him for eleven safeties in the last five innings he twirled.

The day was perfect. The temperature was around 80 degrees. The boys in the unprotected left field bleachers were coatless and hatless. Just after the game started the sun hid behind the clouds.

Walter Roettger, Cardinal right fielder, poled the first hit of the series, driving a sharp one to center after Andy High fanned in the first inning. The crowd gave him a great hand. Frisch and Bottomley followed him with singles, to the discomfort of Robert Moses Grove. Something unusual was happening to Grove, and it was embarrassing.

Kenesaw Mountain Landis, commissioner of baseball, was a very important individual to the photographers. The squire sat in his front row box, his hat off, his white hair waving in the breeze. With a cigar sticking out of his mouth, Landis rested his chin on his cane, while intently watching every move of the baseball drama going on before him.

Gabby Street, grizzled manager of the Cardinals, did coaching duty at third base, with his first assistant, Clyde Wares, at first. Connie Mack sat bareheaded, with a score card in his hand, on the Athletics' bench. Eddie Collins and Ed Rommel handled the coaching duties.

The Cards missed a big opportunity in the sixth inning, when Chick Hafey caught the A's napping with a clean steal of third. He slid under Dykes, who had to leap high for Cochrane's throw. Dykes thought he had tagged his man out, and in the argument Pepper Martin dashed from first to second. This put the tying run on second base with only one out, but Wilson and Gelbert couldn't produce the much needed hit.

rival benches which brightened the entertainment in last year's portrayal of the same scenario was not running today and even Mickey Cochrane's prominent ears seemed to suggest no humorous ideas to the boys in the white and scarlet uniforms. Possibly they had been asked to disinfect their remarks because both benches had been moved out from the obscurity of the dugouts and Judge Landis was sitting in a field box with his long-staple poll waving like a plume on a spear-carrier's helmet.

The early exercises were of a familiar sort. A band played tolerable music in a position down behind third base. There was a tang of hot dogs and cigarette smoke and a faint autumn smell of dead leaves blown from some distant bonfire. The press coop, which is beginning to assume the dignity of a senior, if sedentary, arm of the world series service, was lively with little personal reunions and infested with ball players attended by their ghosts.

Some of the baseball writers who have been going to these shows, boy and man, for 20 years or more have come to be as much a part of the world series on the important social side as the players themselves are on the field.

Old Kid Gleason, packing almost as much age as Connie Mack, himself, who is seventy now, spent twenty minutes whipping fungoes to the Athletics' infield with his little pipe-stem fungo-stick, a marvel of vigor and temper, too. When irritated at young infielders who call him Abner Doubleday after the Union captain who introduced the game to the troops in the Civil War, old Mr. Gleason can bend the ball as Tilden did with his tennis racquet and it comes off the ground at sharp angles to goque the shins and bend the knuckles back.

A round-robin telegram passed around the press coop of condolence and hope, for Jim Harrison, late of the New York Times baseball staff, ill in a New York hospital, whose wife and child both died recently. Four hundred sport writers and players signed it.

Altrock and Schacht Among Missing.

Sam Breadon, a Tenth avenue boy from New York, who made good selling automobiles, then bought the Cardinals cheap and presently built up a Piggly-wiggly chain of ball clubs, walked the length of the temporary box seats on the sod in a final satisfied survey of his party just before the band brought the crowd up with the National anthem.

Mr. Breadon does not place much store by world series vaudeville and he refused to hire Nick Altrock and Al Schacht to discourse their familiar world series idiotics, but he should have spared the customers the pathetic tantrums of a volunteer clown of local origin, whose mirthless antics have been a pretty gruesome infliction these last few world series. Mr. Breadon's clown works for nothing and it would be worth twice that to have him out of there.

Vines Wins on Coast; Enters Quarter-Final

San Francisco, Oct. 1 (A.P.).—Ellsworth Vines, Pasadena youth, who has won thirteen singles tennis championships this year, including the national, advanced to the quarter-finals of the men's singles in the forty-second annual Pacific Coast championships here today. Vines easily outclassed Gerald Hyde, San Francisco, by scores of 6—1, 6—0.

Edith Cross, San Francisco, who Tuesday eliminated Helen Jacobs, of Berkeley, rated the second strongest woman player in the country, entered the finals of the women's singles with a 6—4, 6—2 victory over Alice Marble, also of San Francisco.

George Lott, of Philadelphia, defending champion, defeated Gerald Stratford, San Francisco, 8—6, 6—3, in a quarter-finals match of the men's singles.

Maureen Orcutt Wins Her Way to Semifinal

Toronto, Oct. 1 (A.P.).—Maureen Orcutt, of Englewood, N. J., defending champion in the Canadian women's golf championship, advanced to the semifinal round today by defeating Marion Hollins, of Santa Cruz, Calif., 5 up and 4 to play.

Marjorie Kirkham, of Montreal, the sole surviving native Canadian, also advanced, rallying after a shaky start to defeat Marjorie Kerr, of England, 4 and 3. Alexa Stirling Fraser, of Ottawa, former United States champion, gave Canada two semifinalists when she upset Enid Wilson, British women's champion, 1 up.

ative record of 31 victories and only four defeats during the American League campaign, today yielded up twelve hits to Cardinal batters, more than is wont to permit in a pair of games. And to the Cardinals went the honors in point of safeties for the Athletics' hits off Derringer and Johnson totaled only eleven. Thus the Cardinals' punctured the myth of Grove's invulnerability, a saving consolation in the defeat of their own pitching ace.

St. Louis' hero tonight is "Pepper" Martin, the diminutive center fielder, who led the attack against Grove with three hits, driving in the second run of the game with a double, and leading both teams in point of safeties. Cochrane, Foxx, Dykes and Williams each came out of the fray with two hits to their credit.

Dykes Made Goat Of Play.

The "master minding" today was confined to a bit of thievery in the sixth inning when Manager Gabby Street engineered two stolen bases by Hafey and Martin in a maneuver that made a "goat" of Jimmy Dykes for a brief spell but which would have been of more serious consequences had not Grove snuffed out the rally which threatened.

Hafey was on second with one out when he stole a long lead on Grove's semi-windup and dashed for third. Cochrane's toss to Dykes nipped Hafey by a full yard, but Umpire McGowan tied the record for astigmatism by calling Hafey safe on the grounds that Dykes had failed to touch him. Dykes tagged him so forcibly that he sent Hafey floundering in a heap on top of the bag. Turning on McGowan, Dykes gave a detailed illustration of the play in wild gestures and it was then that "Pepper" Martin, who was on first base, took the opportunity to steal second while Dykes was pounding the ball in his own glove and expounding the deficiencies of umpires in general and McGowan in particular. With men on second and third and two out, the situation became ominous, but Grove disposed of Gelbert on a grounder to Williams and Dykes was saved the full ignomity of his blunder.

The Athletics obtained their first view of Derringer in action as they went to bat in the opening inning and they saw a husky right-hander who lifts his left leg high, a la Marberry, steam across a fast ball that sometimes curved and sometimes dropped, with devastating effect, until the third inning.

Max Bishop Misses Third Strike.

Max Bishop was victimized on a third strike at which he offered too late and when Haas fanned on another drop, joy was unconfined in the stands. Cochrane went out tamely enough on a grounder to Charley Gelbert, the Cardinals' hero of last year.

Grove, too, recorded a strikeout in his initial effort when Andy High watched a third strike sail past, but then the bombardment began in earnest. Wally Roettger, one of the seven right-handed hitters in Street's reversible line-up, interrupted a two-and-one count with a sharp single to center and Grove was almost heard to mutter some word of surprise as he dipped his head deep beween his arms in the windup that foreshadows the coming of one of his fast balls.

But Frankie Frisch, who has batted better than .300 in five world series, sliced a single to right field that sent Roettger to third and the situation became ominous the while St. Louisans unsheathed their cowbells, which have survived the inroads of other noise-making instruments only in this town. Jim Bottomley, pet strike-out victim of Philadelphia pitchers last year, the maker of only one hit in the six games of 1930, then drove in the opening run of the ball game with a high bounder over Grove's head that went as a single. The din was deafening as the partisan Cardinal throng began to realize that this was the great Grove who was being thumped so solidly. Frankie Frisch went to second on the play.

Grove bore down to strike out Chick Hafey, but Pepper Martin, undergoing his first World Series fire, responded nobly with a rollicking double to the top of the screen in right field which was held to two bases by Miller's fast fielding, but Frisch scored on the play and Bottomley raced to third. Grove called a halt then when Wilson grounded to Williams.

Staked to this two-run lead, Derringer continued effective. Only three Athletics faced him in the second inning as Simmons grounded to Gelbert amid a salvo of boos, and Foxx took a vicious swing at a third strike, a fast ball. Bing Miller was betrayed by a drop that dipped low, and went down swinging at another third strike, Derringer's fourth victim of that type in two innings. Then did the stands cheer the rookie for a full minute as Philadelphia batters were given a taste of the fate that the Cardinals had suffered at the hands of Mack's hurlers last year.

One Hit Constitutes Threat.

One hit in the second inning after two were out constituted the next Cardinal threat. Gelbert fouled to Miller in right field and Derringer grounded to Williams, but High singled between Foxx and Bishop and was almost home when Haas gathered in Roettger's deep hoist to center.

The Athletics struck in the third inning. Jimmy Dykes crashed a high bounder down the third base line off the tip of little Andy High's upraised glove and reached first. Dibrell Williams, another of the world series initiates, sliced a single to right field and Dykes made third base on a long slide. They were the first hits off Derringer but the Cardinal rookie flung three strikes past Grove to gain a respite. Max Bishop grounded to Bottomley and the Cardinals choked off a run at the plate when Bottomley threw to Wilson at home. Dykes was the victim of a run-down at the plate and Williams was held on second base while Bishop reached first.

"Mule" Haas then connected for the first solid hit off Derringer, a rifling double to left field that was held to two bases only by clever fielding, while Williams scored with the first run of the inning and Bishop galloped to third. The blow unsettled Derringer and he walked Cochrane to fill the bases. Simmons was next to test his mettle and Johnson was already warming up in the bull pen as Street detected signs of Derringer's weakening. The count was 3 and 2 when Derringer finally walked Simmons to force over Bishop with the tying run.

Jimmy Foxx struck the blow that sent the Macks into the lead for the first time, connecting sharply with a single to center that scored Haas and Cochrane. The rally ended with Miller's demise on a puny bounder in front of the plate which Wilson gathered in.

Now it was Grove who was staked to a two-run lead and he was able to preserve it. Three times during the remaining seven innings, the Cardinals bunched two hits, but Grove kept them away from the plate.

The concentrated strength of the St. Louis batting order failed in the third when Frisch and Bottomley filed to Miller and Grove fanned Hafey. Bishop started a brisk double play in the fourth after Martin had led off with a single, gathering in Wilson's grounder and tossing to Williams, who relayed the ball to Foxx. Gelbert's single later was nullified by Derringer's strikeout.

Cardinals Add Two Hits.

High, Roettger and Frisch went out in order tamely enough in the fifth, but the sixth again saw the Cards insert two hits and place a man on third. After Bottomley had grounded to Williams, Hafey singled to center and went to second when Martin pounded out his third straight hit, a single to left.

Grove disposed of Wilson on a fly to Simmons, but it was at this juncture that Hafey stole third and Martin followed with his steal of second as Dykes held the ball. But Gelbert contributed the third out on a grounder to Williams.

Again in the seventh Roettger and Frisch singled with two out, but Bottomley grounded to Bishop in the pinch and Grove recorded his seventh consecutive scoreless inning.

The eighth, lacking a St. Louis threat, produced the fielding gem of the game with Al Simmons in the title role. With two out, Jim Wilson sent a booming fly to left field ticketed for extra bases and Simmons ran back to the wall, flinging up his arms in a seeming token of despair with his back to the plate when the ball settled in the webbing of his glove and was held as Simmons showed the gathering in a gleeful gesture.

Faint Cardinal hopes stirred in the ninth when Gelbert led off with a crashing double to center, but Grove struck out Pinch-hitter Flowers and Pinch-hitter Mancuso popped to Foxx. Roettger sealed the Athletics' victory when he flied to Haas.

Derringer Fans Nine.

Spraying the nine strike-outs that he recorded over the seven innings he worked, Derringer kept the Macks away from the plate from the third to the seventh. Dykes led off the fourth with a single, but Derringer struck out both Williams and Grove. Bishop singled to right, but the rally ended when Haas grounded to Frisch. Two force plays at second, after Cochrane had opened the fifth with a single, helped Derringer out of trouble at that stage; and in the sixth Dykes' walk, which was followed by Williams' single through the box, netted nothing, as Grove struck out for the third time and Bishop lined to Bottomley for an unassisted double play.

Haas had popped to Frisch when the fireworks started in the seventh. Cochrane made his second hit, a hard single to right, and he was perched on first when Simmons initiated Derringer into an old Philadelphia custom with his homer into the bleachers in left. Foxx followed with a single, but was forced by Miller. Against Johnson in the eighth and ninth innings, the Macks were turned back without a semblance of a hit, but with Grove still in command, attacking gestures by the A's were unimportant at this stage.

Bleacherites on Hand Early.

The world's largest jury box housed 10,000 St. Louis bleacherites throughout the morning, while holders of reserved seat tickets filtered into the park at their pleasure. A half hour before the game Judge Kennesaw Mountain Landis, baseball's high commissioner, put in his appearance, which was tantamount to the official blessing. Mayor Miller of St. Louis and Mayor Mackay of Philadelphia occupied choice boxes on their native sides of the field and to all intents and purposes the proceedings were ready to get under way.

The last vestige of doubt that Connie Mack would not start Lefty Grove disappeared fifteen minutes before game time when the lean left-hander ambled to the bull pen for warm-up practice. Paul Derringer was already tossing them into the mitt of Substitute Catcher Mancuso. Gabby Street was sticking to his announcement made a week ago that his star rookie would be on the firing line in the opening game.

The ten minutes before the game were given over to the movie men, than whom there is no more ubiquitous specie of human. They were in the stands, on the field, up in the bleachers, at home plate, in the rival dugouts and perched on the roofs. It seems to be a complete success for the movies before a ball is thrown.

When Judge Landis gave Umpire in Chief Bill Klem the nod that all was in readiness and that the game could start, the assemblage had reached the capacity total of 40,000 paid and complimentary, including 4,000 standees scattered through the runways. Umpire Klem called managers and captains to the plate for the rules conference. Derringer walked to the pitching mound. He took his first freakish wind-up, the ball came toward the plate out of a mystic ritual behind his back and the world series had begun.

NAVY COMES TO AID OF CHARITY

Special to The Washington Post.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 1.—Coming to the aid of the unemployment situation, authorities of the Naval Academy announced today that admission will be charged to four of the five home football games of the Midshipmen's football season. Details of the price and distribution of tickets are now being worked out by athletic authorities. The naval contingent and general public alike will be affected. The admission toll will not, however, apply to the William and Mary game, which marks the opening of the season here Saturday.

The action was taken, it was announced in an official statement, in acceding to a request received by Rear Admiral Thomas C. Hart, superintendent of the academy, from the national organization for unemployment appointed by President Hoover, asking that proceeds from certain games be donated to the general unemployment fund. Like requests have been presented to the presidents of other big universities and colleges.

Navy Grid Season Already Faces Deficit.

Navy's announcement was made following a conference between Admiral Hart, Capt. John W. Wilcox, jr., director of athletics, and other officials of the athletic department. In the conclusion reached it was stated that as the Navy Athletic Association has operated under a deficit for the last two years and faces a possible deficit for 1931-32, the home games for which admission was not been charged for in the past offer the best source from which such a fund can be raised.

Five of the six big games on Navy's schedule will be played on foreign fields, so, with William and Mary excepted, it means that the fund will be raised from four games. It is likely that a nominal admission will be fixedx for three of these and probably a greater tax for the big home game, that with Southern Methodist, booked for November 21. The other home contests are with Delaware, October 17; West Virginia Wesleyan, October 31, and Wooster College, November 28.

Navy football players eagerly awaiting the inaugural game of the season with William and Mary College on Saturday were put through an extensive tapering-off practice session this afternoon. Head Coach Rip Miller and his assistants devoted major attention to further pepping up the offensive, sending all of the back-field men through the various plays in a signal and formation drill that marked the opening of the program, and then having them stand by and watch the Squad B men emulate the same formations in a skeleton scrimmage. Finally a brief but stiff scrimmage session was held to climax the work of the afternoon.

Stribling Name Means Nothing in Oklahoma

Oklahoma City, Oct. 1 (A.P.).—W. L. ("Young") Stribling, heavyweight championship boxing contender, missed seeing Gov. Murray today because "Alfalfa Bill's" office aids did not recognize the name.

Mr. Stribling, who said he was an admirer of the governor and desired to meet him, sat for nearly an hour in the waiting room of the executive offices.

Pressed for time, the fighter finally departed to take off in his airplane for El Paso, en route to California. Informed of his caller's identity, Mr. Murray sent a messenger for the boxer, but he had left.

Chocolate 39-Second Victor Over Scalfaro

New York, N Y., Oct. 1 (A.P.).—Kid Chocolate, holder of the junior lightweight title, scored one of the quickest victories of his career tonight when he was awarded a technical knockout over Joe Scalfaro, of New York, in 39 seconds of a bout scheduled to go ten rounds.

The smiling "Keed," who won his trick title several months ago from Benny Bass at Philadelphia, scarcely had to unlimber his best punches to stop the Harlem Italian. Before the crowd of 8,000 had settled back in its seats to witness the main attraction, it was all over.

The Cuban came out swinging a torrid left. It connected three or four times. Scalfaro went down hard. At the count of eight he came up, groggy but game. He wanted to continue, but the referee, Kid Otto, couldn't see it that way.

Salwin Quits College For Jockey's Career

Another professional sport has claimed a performer from collegiate life. Following in the wake of the attractive offers made collegiate athletes by football, baseball, basketball and wrestling, the "Sport of Kings" has called into its fold young Leo Salwin, 16, of New York City, who recently passed entrance examinations at Columbia University.

Salwin is under contract to ride for Elmer Truman, owner of Laurel Stud Farms, whose horses are now at Havre de Grace. He has had a love for horses and riding since he was 5 years of age. Temporarily, at least, he will pursue a career as a jockey, instead of that of a student at Columbia.

Quaker City Fans Dislike Manner In Which Cardinals Treat Grove

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 1 (A.P.).—The world champion Athletics, off to a good start for their sixth crown as monarchs of the baseball universe, came up to the expectations of the average Philadelphia fan. The usual crowds surrounded the newspaper scoreboards intently watching every play; in fact, every pitch.

The followers of the A's look for big George Earnshaw to mount the hurling peak tomorrow and make it two straight.

The crowd did not like the way the Cardinals handled Grove in the first inning when he was slammed for four hits, but they had faith in the champions to wear down the opposition.

There was a note of sportsmanship in the crowd. They called Derringer the "kid" and while the fans wanted the A's to win they had a sympathetic feeling for the young man pitching his first world series game.

This was shown when he struck out the eighth batter. The crowd cheered. When he put over the ninth strikeout there was a real outburst of cheering. At that time the A's were ahead and the fans could afford to be magnanimous. The biggest cheer of the game came when Al Simmons made his home run in the seventh inning with one man on base.

There was no frenzied celebration after the last man was out. The crowds dispersed expecting that the Athletics will come through successfully for their third consecutive world championship.

CAPITAL CLUBS PLAN AID TO UNEMPLOYED; TWO ADOPT PLEDGE

Others Are Expected to Act Similarly When Next Meeting Is Held.

TWO DAYS EXTRA WORK PROMISED EACH WEEK

Service Will Be Outside of Regular Pay Roll for Every Signer.

With a novel four-part pledge Washington civic clubs yesterday launched a movement, which may become Nation-wide, in an effort to alleviate a bit of the depression. Two clubs, the Kiwanis and the Cosmopolitan, adopted the pledge which, among other things, binds members to give at least two days work a week to persons for work outside of ordinary routine.

Backers of the plan estimate that if the fifteen service clubs who are to join in the agreement carry out this clause to 100 per cent fulfillment the result will be 6,000 additional days employment a week in Washington alone.

The plan was drawn up by a subcommittee appointed from representatives of the fifteen clubs in the Capital. All of the representatives of the clubs made suggestions which were finally embodied in the completed program, but before the idea was finally adopted members of the committee consulted with the President's committee on unemployment, which indorsed the idea.

Text of Pledge.

The pledge is as follows:

"Upon my honor as a member of the ——— club, I hereby pledge that during the continuance of the existence of the financial depression I will, to the best of my ability, observe each and every one of the following rules:

"1. I will furnish employment, when possible, on two days of each week to one or more persons for work outside of the ordinary routine for which I regularly pay employes.

"2. I will seek the procurement of a similar pledge from at least one other person who is not affiliated with any other service clubs of the city.

"3. When feasible and economical, my circumstances considered, I will purchase each week at least two articlees useful to myself and family, but not essentially indispensable.

"4. I will endeavor to comply in spirit and letter with every action that my club might determine to take in the interest of reduction of unemployment."

Members of the subcommittee which prepared the pledge were Arthur B. Heaton, Lions Club, chairman; Charles T. Claggett, Rotary Club; E. A. Rule, Cosmopolitan Club, and Charles R. Huff, Kiwanis Club.

Meets Instant Approval.

Mr. Rule and Mr. Huff presented the committee's report to their respective clubs yesterday, and the pledge found instant approval.

Other committee members from the thirteen remaining clubs will make their reports as soon as these organizations meet, and it is expected that the plan will be adopted by all of the participating service clubs within two weeks.

After the plan has been indorsed by all of the Washington service clubs, the committee expects to appear again before the President's Committee on Unemployment and suggest that the Capital plan be called to the attention of heads of national and international civic organizations, and to urge its adoption.

PROBE BY CONGRESS OF STAPLES CHARGE HINTED BY SCHENCK

KEY WITNESS IS SILENT ON DETAILS OF FRAME-UP

Prisoner Studies Law Anticipating Release by Parole Board in 1936.

A congressional inquiry into the alleged "framing" of former Patrolman Orville Staples appeared in the offing last night when Frederick A. Schenck declared that Representative Thomas L. Blanton had promised such an inquiry.

Representative Blanton was counsel for Staples in the trial before the Police Trial Board in 1928 which resulted in Staples' dismissal from the force. Also Mr. Blanton is the man to whom Schenck, also a former policeman, is said to have confided that he had participated in the "frame-up" of Staples.

Schenck, who now is serving a 20-year term in Leavenworth Penitentiary on a robbery conviction, declared that Representative Blanton had made such a promise in the past few months, when the grand jury considered Schenck's charges of the "frame-up."

Refuses to Meet Lawyers.

The former policeman, who is regarded as the "key witness" in the Staples "frame-up," remains adamant in his refusal to tell his story secretly to the committee of lawyers which was appointed by the District Commissioners to review the grand jury's recommendations that Staples be reinstated and that those responsible for his dismissal be punished.

Another proposal to have Schenck relate his story was rejected by Schenck yesterday. Schenck had announced that he would not tell of the "frameup" unless newspapermen or other responsible witnesses were present.

Col. William L. Peak, superintendent of the District Jail, Schenck said, came to him yesterday and said that the committee of lawyers had offered to have a stenographer present while he was interviewed, with Col. Peak as a witness. Schenck rejected this proposal and amplified his other suggestion, either that newspapermen be present or some member of Congress. The reason for his demand, he says, is to prevent any "whitewash."

Schenck said last night at the District Jail, where he was brought as a witness, that he will tell of the "frameup" before some body and very probably to a congressional committee.

While serving his twenty years at Leavenworth, Schenck is spending his time studying law through a correspondence course given by the University of Kansas.

Expects Release Soon.

"When do you expect to use the knowledge? You have seventeen years to serve yet, haven't you?" he was asked.

"Yes, but I don't expect to serve that time."

"Why?"

"I am looking forward to 1936 when I will go before the parole board."

"Do you expect any special consideration as a result of the Staples investigation?"

"Who?"

"Representative Blanton, for one," was the reply.

The investigative committee, which is in the position of the adviser to the District Commissioners, has no power to force him to testify and, unless some compromise is made, the affidavits made by Schenck to the Department of Justice relative to the "framing" and other letters will be the only evidence of Schenck's story before the group.

On the basis of Schenck's testimony the grand jury issued a report that Staples had been "framed," and it recommended the reinstatement of Staples, the dismissal of Patrolman Joseph H. Hunt and others responsible for his dismissal. It was to advise the commissioners on the recommendation that the investigative group of five lawyers, headed by Henry P. Blair, was appointed.

INJURED BY AUTO

DOROTHY VIRGINIA GRAY

GIRL, 7, IS INJURED AS AUTO RUNS AWAY

Driverless Car Backs Down Hill and Strikes Child Sitting on Curb.

Its brakes released in some undetermined manner, a driverless auto backed down hill from its parking place in front of 4411 Third street northwest last night and crashed into 7-year-old Dorothy Virginia Gray, who was sitting on the curb in front of her house half a block away. She was seriously injured.

Dorothy and Marjorie Mayhew, her 9-year-old chum, were playing in front of the former's corner home at 4382 Third street when the accident occurred. Dorothy had just sat down on the curb to put on her roller skates when Mrs. Paul Rea, standing across the street, screamed a warning as the machine rolled across the intersection and headed for the girls.

Marjorie, who was standing, leaped to safety, but her playmate could not move before the car had hurled her several feet, and then stopped in the hedge of the Grays' lawn. One wheel passed over the child, according to witnesses.

A crowd estimated at 1,000 persons was attracted to the corner by the clang and sirens of the Rescue Squad and Emergency Hospital ambulances and watched the girl given first aid treatment before being removed to the hospital.

Dorothy suffered a compound fracture of the right arm, a possible skull fracture and severe lacerations about the head which required 32 stitches.

The machine which struck her is owned by Lloyd Connelly, 4415 Third street northwest. Its brakes were tested and found to be satisfactory, although the cause of their release was not learned.

Marjorie, who escaped unscathed, lives at 301 Webster street. Witnesses said she would have shared the same fate but for the warning scream of Mrs. Rea, who lives at 229 Webster street.

MARSHALS TO BEGIN ROUND-UP TODAY OF BEATING WITNESSES

200 to Be Asked to Appear, First Group Testifying Before Jury October 12.

PAPERHANGER'S CHARGE TO ENTER INVESTIGATION

Man Declares Two Fourth Precinct Policemen Broke His Arm.

A squad of United States marshals will start out this morning to round up approximately 200 witnesses needed in the second grand jury investigation of "third degree" tactics as allegedly exemplified by the Washington Police Department.

The first group of witnesses will be cited to appear before the October jury on the 12th, but some of the subpenas will call for others to present their testimony throughout the week.

Second Probe Necessary.

The second jury investigation was made necessary by the discovery that a Government pensioner was sitting on the July grand jury. This surprise was sprung on Department of Justice investigators and United States Attorney Leo A. Rover, just as the July inquisitorial body was ready to return a second batch of indictments in the third degree and brutality cases.

The July jury, whose 179 indictments were made invalid through the irregularity of membership, but which continued to consider routine indictments after its membership was brought back to standard by the addition of two new jurors, will go out on October 5. The new jury will take up the burden of reindicting the 179—including about 25 policemen, almost immediately afterward.

The Department of Justice yesterday promised to reopen its inquiry long enough to include the charges of James Lester, colored paperhanger, that two Fourth Precinct policemen broke his arm and beat him about the face when they arrested him at his home, 1600 New Jersey avenue northwest, on charges of drunk and disorderly conduct.

Three Days Later.

Just before the July grand jury was declared invalid the Department of Justice announced that its investigation into Police Department activities was at an end. Lester is alleged to have sustained his injuries at the hands of police three days later.

Lester, who asked for a continuance when he was arraigned, will face a Police Court judge today. When the continuance was granted Lester told the court he wanted time to gather witnesses to prove his innocence.

GRAND JURY SCORED IN EMBEZZLING CASE

Sherman Files Abatement Plea; Charge May Be Dropped.

The reconstructed grand jury was attacked by Alpheus J. Sherman yesterday for its action in indicting him on a charge of embezzling $600 from Miss Jessie Holt, an employe of the Children's Hospital.

Sherman, and his brother, James W. Sherman, had been indicted by the same grand jury in August, and when it was found that the indictment was illegal because of the presence of a Spanish-American War veteran, who was receiving Government money, on the jury, two new members were sworn in and he and his brother immediately reindicted on a single count because the statute of limitations was about to expire and the Government would have been powerless to prosecute.

The charge was made by Alpheus Sherman, through his attorney, George D. Horning, that his right to a hearing before an impartial and unprejudiced grand jury had been violated when the grand jury, with only two new members, after having voted an illegal indictment, returned another. Sherman claims he should have the benefit of a hearing before a new grand jury, on which none of the members were acquainted with the case.

If the plea in abatement, which was filed yesterday, is accepted by the courts, the case will be dropped because the alleged embezzlement of $600 occurred in September, 1928, and more than three years—the time limit for prosecution—has expired. Sherman and his brother allegedly received $600 from Miss Holt for a round-the-world trip that never matured. The brother has not been served with the old indictment and is listed on court records as a fugitive.

Flower Show and Wedding Conflict, But Both Are Held

Engaged Couple Appears for Rites, Not Knowing Church Had Also Been Secured for Another Event; Many Persons are Present.

There is no better setting to be found for a wedding than at a flower show. Consequently, when it was discovered last night that a flower show and wedding had been scheduled for the same hour in the Community Church, Cathedral avenue and Conduit road northwest, it was decided that neither should be postponed.

Several weeks ago the Potomac Palisades Garden Club engaged the church for its autumn flower show which began last night. Unaware that the show was in progress, and having previously arranged for their wedding in the church last night, John S. Peters and Miss Ivy Kaylor, both of Harrisonburg, Va., arrived for the ceremonies.

Many persons were present—and they weren't invited wedding guests. The question rose as to just what should be done. Following a hasty consultation it was decided that both should proceed as scheduled.

The invited guests, as well as those attending the show, were asked to be seated. The flower exhibits were arranged in front of the pulpit, and the ceremony began.

Amid a riot of color, Dr. O. J. Randall, assisted by the Rev. S. B. Rice, pastor of the church, officiated.

After everything was over and congratulations had been offered, Mr. and Mrs. John S. Peters went to the home of the former's brother, J. Paul Peters, 5433 Hawthorne place northwest, where a reception was held. They said they would make their home in Harrisonburg, where the bridegroom conducts a printing business.

When the excitement was over and the flower exhibits were rearranged for judging, the show again was under way. Many persons filed through the rows of flowers to view the prize winning exhibits, consisting largely of dahlias and garden flowers.

Those awarded prizes for last night's entrants are: In the adult class, Manuel Fraile, O. L. Helsley, Mrs. J. Anderson, Mrs. Bernard Lane, Mrs. E. O. Steimer, C. W. Steves, Mrs. O. L. Elsner, B. J. Reynolds, jr., and Miss Grace Statts; children's class, Evelyn Thring, Dorothy Cumyus, Robert Ludwig, William Peters, Tonstall Blow, Betty Mourice, Martin Kegel, and pupils of the third-grade class at the Francis Scott Key School for a miniature rock garden.

O. L. Helsley, Mrs. S. A. Stebbins, Mrs. J. P. Peters and E. O. Elsner were awarded prizes in the vegetable class.

SELLING OF GASOLINE ON STREETS RAPPED

Vending of gasoline to motorists from tank wagons on District streets and highways was roundly condemned at a meeting yesterday of the Retail Trade Group of the Washington Chamber of Commerce.

The practice was viewed as creating a new and dangerous fire hazard as well as causing unfair competition for District gasoline filling stations which pay large tax bills and provide safeguards against fire. The committee recommended that the board of directors of the chamber request the enactment of proper regulations to eliminate the practice.

E. D. Borden, manager of the domestic distribution department of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, present as a guest at the meeting, explained the consumer trade relations campaign sponsored by the National Chamber which will take the form of a nation-wide series of radio addresses broadcast weekly from October 22 to November 26. Indorsement was given by the local group to the campaign.

Man Shoots Self After Wife Quits

Rhode Island Visitor Seeks to End Life When Reconciliation Fails.

Melvin Hazen, 30, of Newport, R. I., a visitor here, was in a serious condition at Emergency Hospital last night with a bullet wound just below his heart, self-inflicted yesterday morning in the apartment of his brother-in-law, William Steward, at 1444 W street northwest.

Hazen admitted to police that he wanted to end his life because his wife would not come back to him. He had been talking to her over the telephone just before he shot himself.

Mrs. Philip C. Payne, resident manager of the apartment, told police that she heard Hazen fall to the floor and when she appeared on the scene, saw his shirt burning from the shot.

Rum Raids Net 3 In Downtown Area

Cabinet Maker, Aged 70, One of Trio Held on Liquor Charges.

Three men were arrested and charged with illegal possession of liquor as result of two raids by the First Inspection District vice squad yesterday afternoon.

William E. Thompson, 70, 911 Massachusetts avenue northwest, who gave his occupation as a cabinet maker, was arrested at his home and one-half gallon of whisky and 22 bottles of beer were seized, it was reported.

Raymond W. Campbell, 29, a painter, and Eugene R. Harrington, 25, a printer, were arrested at 1109 Ninth street northwest, where the squad reported it seized 2 quarts of whisky, 5 bottles of beer and 12 gallons of mash.

Alpha Chapter Plans Events.

Alpha Chapter, of the Sigma Epsilon Sorority, held an interesting social and business meeting last night at the Hay-Adams House. Plans were outlined for various social events, the first of which will occur Halloween. The next business meeting will be held at the Hay-Adams November 5. Miss Helene Page presided.

School to Give Student New Test

Ebert Boy, Not Promoted, to Stand in Comparative Examination.

An offer to give James Ebert, Brightwood School pupil, an examination to determine if he is qualified to enter the 4-B grade, was made by Assistant Superintendent of Schools Robert L. Haycock yesterday, in a letter to the boy's father, Philip Ebert, 1105 Jefferson street northwest, who has entered a protest because the student was not promoted after taking 4-A work in summer school.

Mr. Haycock also offered to give the same examination to other pupils who were in the 3-B class with James last year and who took 4-A work in summer school and were then promoted.

Mr. Haycock said that the examination would be given by three disinterested teachers to be selected by Miss R. L. Hardy, assistant superintendent of schools in charge of instruction. The teachers, Mr. Haycock said, will not know the names of the pupils taking the examination.

Girl Chemical Student Burned in Acid Testing

Margaret Rossman, 15, a student at McKinley High School, was severely burned yesterday when a small quantity of nitric acid overflowed the mouth of a test tube during a demonstration. Several other students were slightly burned.

Miss Rossman was treated at the school clinic and later sent home. E. H. Kreodiel, the instructor, was unable to explain the accident, saying that the same demonstration had been performed numerous times with the same solution.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

WHAT! NO GREAT MEN WHISTLE?

"Persons who whistle are morons, devoid of moral stamina. No great or successful man ever whistles. Can you think of Einstein, Edison or Mussolini tuning up to 'When the Moon Comes Over the Mountain'? Can you imagine President Hoover whistling?" From an address by Prof. C. G. Shaw, of New York University.

• • • •

CERTAINLY we can think of Einstein, Edison and Mussolini whistling. Prof. Einstein is, according to this department's scouts, one of the best whistlers among the greater scientists. Mussolini, if advices are to be believed, is the outstanding bathroom whistler of the Old World. Herbert Hoover doesn't whistle openly, of course, but he can hold his own in the best whistling company.

• • • •

"Think of Einstein whistling?" demanded Frau Einstein, when told of the professor's speech. "Why, he has us all crazy with his whistling! He's got a new tune now. I think it's called 'Love Is Just a Bowl of Cherries'. He goes around the house whistling it all the time. I can always tell when he has a new theory coming on • • • he whistles the silliest airs!"

• • • •

Nobody could be found who would be quoted on Mussolini as a ground and lofty whistler, but from a palace spokesman it was learned that there are times when nothing will stop him whistling except mention of Smedley Butler and Cornelius Vanderbilt, jr. "I'll Get By" is his favorite among the new tunes, but he's pretty strong for ballads like "When the Moon Comes Over the Mountain," which he invariably whistles between ultimatums to England, France, Germany and the United States.

• • • •

PRESIDENT HOOVER is pretty secretive about his whistling, but Washington correspondents say he whistles a lot at the Rapidan camp, his favorite just now being "The Best Little Things in Life Are Free," and the theme song of the Republican party this year, "I Can't Give You Anything but Love." There are no really first-class whistlers in the present administration, however.

• • • •

Calvin Coolidge is a fair to middlin' whistler. These bracing mornings the neighbors can hear him whistling "I'm Back in Circulation Again" for miles around.

• • • •

Prof. Shaw, you're all wrong. All great and successful men have their whistling moments. You take Gandhi—all the way through that British tour he whistled "Button Up Your Overcoat" with gusto and feeling.

• • • •

• • • •

They all whistle, professor. And, on the level, wasn't that you the neighbors heard rendering "When Yuba Plays the Tuba Down in Cuba" the other morning?

• • • •

ANOTHER WEATHER GUESS.

That light frost recently reported probably was influenced by the meeting of President Hoover and Secretary Mellon immediately after the news that the Aluminum Co. of America had cut wages.

• • • •

Soviet gasoline is being dumped in America. "Oh, that's the kind with the red tint!" says Ima Dodo.

• • • •

This little old planet seems to have adopted a new slogan—Keep Cussable!

• • • •

Employers Plan to Name Mediation Committee to Seek Solution.

The fourteen-day "truce" between members of Composition Roofers' Local No. 109 and their employers over wage differences remained unbroken last night, following a meeting of the Building Trade Employers Association at the Hamilton Hotel.

Following the meeting, E. H. Rosengarten, president of the association, announced that no further progress toward settlement had been made. He indicated the matter was fully aired at the meeting, and that a committee will be appointed to work toward an agreement.

The break began three weeks ago, when roofers employed on the new Department of Agriculture Building demanded an increase from 90 cents to $1.25 an hour, according to the contractors. The strike was called off when a "truce" was declared September 21. It is reported that workers have since lowered their demands to $1 an hour.

Gypsy's Blessing Costs Woman $410

It took Mrs. Stretgo Calomeris a great many years to accumulate the sum of $410, but only a very few hours to lose it all yesterday, the victim of an ancient "racket."

Mrs. Calomeris told police that a gypsy woman knocked on her door at 452 Massachusetts avenue northwest Wednesday morning and asked to tell her fortune and bless her money. She said she agreed, and on the gypsy's instructions drew her savings out the bank so that the fortune teller could take the money to a cemetery where the blessing would take place.

It was understood that the money would be returned at noon yesterday, fully blessed, but the woman has not come back yet and Mrs. Calomeris is still waiting for her "blessed money."

Mrs. Greenleaf Better After Fall Off Bridge

Mrs. Adeline Greenleaf, of 1026 Sixteenth street northwest, who fell 60 feet from the railing of the Dumbarton Bridge to Rock Creek Valley, was said last night by doctors at Georgetown Hospital to be slightly improved.

Mrs. Greenleaf, who is the wife of Eric Greenleaf, general traffic engineer of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co., told police that she had climbed on the railing to obtain a better view when she became dizzy and fell off. Three vertabrae were snapped from the impact of the fall.

The fraternity originally was called the Phi Sigma Phi, when founded in 1927. At the present time it has contact chapters in New York, Huntington, W. Va., and Norfolk. The following officers were installed: Chancellor, Benjamin Deutsch; G. R. S., Philip Goldberg, and M. F., George Rosen.

$20,000 Damage Asked For Use of Trade Name

Damages of $20,000 and a restraining order barring use of the word "sanitary" by the meat firm of Samuel Seigel and Maurice Katz, in the New Center Market, Fifth and L streets northwest, were asked in the District Supreme Court yesterday by the Sanitary Grocery Co., 1845 Fourth street northeast.

The complaint alleges that the meat people have a sign advertising their business as that of the "Sanitary Beef Co." The grocery company points out that it has spent much money in good will and in advertising and that it has built up a valuable reputation. The claim is made that the use of the word "sanitary" by the meat shop is an infringement on the trade name of the grocery company.

Former Policeman Fined On Dry Count in Baltimore

E. A. Mumper, former Washington policeman, was fined $10 in United States District Court, at Baltimore, yesterday on a charge of possession and transportation of liquor. Mumper was arrested near Ellicott City, Md., on July 10.

Eight days later he was discharged from the Police Department as a result of the arrest. In imposing the fine, Judge W. Calvin Chesnut said Mumper's loss of his job was almost punishment enough and illustrated the folly of violating the prohibition law.

Mumper's counsel had asked the judge to take this into consideration and had added that Mumper is working now as a day laborer.

According to the dry agents who arrested Mumper, they saw him transferring liquor from one auto to his own. He tried to escape in his machine but wrecked it, the officers said. They added that he had his service pistol and patrolman's badge on his person when they seized him.

Hallowe'en Parade Prize Events Listed by Roberts

Many valuable prizes have been pledged already for award to participants in the Halloween parade, feature of the city-wide celebration scheduled for October 31, William A. Roberts, general chairman, announced yesterday.

Seven classes have been established for entries, and these may be in turn subdivided if the similarity of contestants justifies. They are: (1) commercial floats; (2) local noncommercial floats; (3) out-of-town floats; (4) local costumed group; (5) out-of-town costumed groups; (6) decorated private vehicles; (7) costumed individuals.

A. K. Shipe is chairman of the prize entry committee. Contestants are requested to send in their applications to the Greater National Capital committee, 204 Evening Star Building, as soon as possible.

A number of out-of-town entries are expected for the parade, which will be down Pennsylvania avenue to Fourteenth street and thence into Constitution avenue, where a carnival is to be staged. Numerous bands already have arranged to join the parade, according to Mr. Roberts.
